

HOUSE SPLITS WITH ROOSEVELT
OVER ECONOMY
IN VETERANS' PAY

Byrns Doubts Members, 'in Present Mood,' Can Agree on Such Legislation Acceptable to the President.

CAUCUS BEATS PLAN
TO BIND MAJORITY

Votes Scheduled for Monday or Tuesday—Byrns and Rainey Expect Veto if Increases Pass but Not Passage Over It.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Doubt was expressed today by Representative Byrns, the Democratic leader, that the House, "in its present mood," could agree on veterans' legislation acceptable to the President.

Both Byrns and Speaker Rainey, however, expressed the view at their press conferences that the House would not pass a bill over the President's veto.

Arranging to call up the veterans' amendments Monday or Tuesday, as a part of the independent offices appropriation bill, Byrns said the first motion to be voted on would be that of acceptance of the liberalizations voted by the Senate.

Rainey explained that the veterans' compensation amendments would be taken up immediately after the Patman bill for payment of the $2,400,000,000 bonus is voted on next Monday.

"If we should, by any chance, pass both of these over the President's veto," Rainey continued, "it would wreck the recovery program, so the next week will be the crucial one."

Byrns added that "everyone" seemed to be agreed that the bonus bill would pass the House but expressed doubt that the two-thirds majority necessary to override a veto could be obtained.

Acting as a caucus.

House Democrats at a caucus last night defeated the plan of leaders to hold the House in line for the President's economy program.

A four-hour effort to bind the Democratic membership to a compromise on the independent offices bill failed. The caucus was told that the President was certain to veto the bill if the House adopted Senate amendments, which would wreck the $400,000,000 economy act passed a year ago.

The bill adds $350,000,000 for veterans' aid and for Federal salary increases.

Byrns offered a resolution to send the $942,000,000 appropriation bill to conference without instructions. This met defeat, with 180 voting for the resolution and 73 against. A two-thirds vote is required to bind the Democrats.

This effort came even after the Byrns resolution was amended, 118 to 89, to provide for a restoration of 75 per cent of the previous benefits in Spanish-American War and World War veterans' presumptive cases.

Administration Sought Compromise.

The administration hoped that unimpaired conference could work out a compromise and not wreck the President's economy program.

President Roosevelt had talked with leaders of both houses at the White House earlier in the day and made it plain the $350,000,000 increase would not be acceptable to him.

Chairman Buchanan of the Appropriation Committee, who had headed a delegation to the White House to obtain President Roosevelt's views, told the members to stand by the executive or suffer the setback of a veto. But the veterans' bloc remained adamant.

Representative Browning of Tennessee then offered his amendment to instruct the conferees to hold out for a return of 75 per cent of the benefits. It carried after a bitter fight over the opposition of party leaders.

The Senate amendments call for restoration of benefits estimated at $118,000,000 to veterans taken off the rolls by the economy act of last year, the restoration of the 15 per cent pay cut for Federal employees, and the return of various automatic promotion pay and wages to laid laborers in the Federal service.

What Snell Has to Say.

Rainey told newspaper men Republicans in the House were responsible for the situation over the veterans' amendments. Snell of New York, the Republican leader, called a press conference and denied the Republicans had had anything to do.

LIQUOR IMPORT QUOTAS
LIFTED TO CUT PRICE

Roosevelt Orders Unlimited Entry for 30 Days; Permits for More Distillers.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—President Roosevelt announced today a lifting of the liquor quotas to permit unlimited entry from 30 to 60 days. The President wants to lower the price of domestic liquors which he regards as too high.

Announcement also was made that permits would be given to many small distillers which failed to submit their applications in time for the domestic quotas. These distilleries, it is expected, will add about 44,000,000 gallons a year to the domestic supply.

No consideration has been given to cutting the tariff on liquor imports.

ALDERMEN BEAT
BEER GALLONAGE
TAX 15 TO 14

Board Rejects Proposal After Mayor Makes Personal Appearance to Appeal for Its Passage.

THREE DEMOCRATS
AGAINST THE LEVY

Brown, Hennerich and Slay Join 12 Republican Members in Opposing Administration Plan.

The Board of Aldermen, by a vote of 15 to 14, this afternoon defeated the gallonage tax on 5 per cent beer, the only controverted section in the proposed city liquor control ordinance. The vote was taken after Mayor Dickmann, appearing in person before the Aldermen, had urged them to pass the tax, as a necessary provision for the city's bond interest and sinking fund, and to prevent a tax rate increase for the small home owner.

Twelve Republican members, including President Neun of the Board, and three Democrats, Aldermen Brown, Hennerich and Slay, voted against the tax on beer. Those who voted for the tax were the 13 other Democratic members and Alderman Otto, Republican.

The vote was:

For gallonage tax—Collins, Genteman, Golden, Gummels, Hasty, Hoeflinger, Israel, Lietchen, O'Toole, Otto, Pahl, Petersen, Scott and Terry—14.

Against gallonage tax—Bergmann, Brinkman, Brown, Ellers, Hayes, Hennerich, Kraemann, Lange, Neumann, Reinhardt, Schwartz, Slay, Waldman, Wetzel and Neun—15.

The board afterward, by the same vote, struck out provisions for a gallonage tax on liquor other than beer, the latter for sale in the city or imported.

Going on to other sections, the board inserted an amendment forbidding drug stores, grocery or other stores to sell liquor by the glass. The amendment, Alderman Collins moved that the liquor bill be laid over until next Tuesday at noon. At that time an effort will be made to pass the gallonage tax on reconsideration vote.

Brown and Hennerich, two of the Democrats who voted against the gallonage tax, in spite of the efforts of the Mayor and of Floor Leader Collins to keep them in line, represent the Ninth and Tenth, brewery wards.

After the vote, as a matter of parliamentary tactics, Floor Leader Collins changed his vote, so that he was recorded officially as voting against the tax. His purpose was to enable him later to move reconsideration.

President Neun of the Board has announced himself as opposing any increase of tax rates for the purpose of meeting the needs of the bond interest and sinking fund tax item. His vote, however, was the deciding one against the Mayor's recommended revenue measure.

DRIVER KILLED IN ROBBERY OF FEDERAL RESERVE TRUCK

Four Men Escape After Richmond (Va.) Shooting, But Leave One Auto Behind.

RICHMOND, Va., March 9.—A Federal Reserve truck was held up here last night, its driver killed and mail packages stolen by four men in two automobiles who escaped after the shooting leaving one car behind. It carried New Jersey plates. E. M. Huband, 46 years old, of Richmond, was the driver who was killed.

The robbery occurred near the Broad Street railroad station as the truck was blocked on a bridge, and leading from the express sheds. A witness, L. M. Palmer, said the two cars were parked in the roadway. The truck stopped when it reached the barricade and two men jumped from shrubbery at the side of the road. They opened a door in the back of the truck and began shooting, Palmer said. Two other men remained seated in one of the cars.

In the argument, Collins and Golden said the Mayor's plan, while Neumann, Republican floor leader, and Waldman, made the argument that the tax of 2 cents a gallon, or 62 cents a barrel, might prevent the workman from getting a glass of beer for a nickel. Collins asked Neumann his authority for this statement, and Neumann said he had no detailed figures. Collins and Golden said the workman's argument was "just a scarecrow."

Neumann also spoke in opposition to "excessive" taxes on the brewing industry, saying that Federal and state governments had taxed it heavily. Golden replied that one purpose of the repeal of prohibition was to make possible taxation of the liquor business, and that the promise of relief to the general taxpayer was held out. Collins asked whether the breweries were fair to St. Louis when their lobbyists caused the State 32 per cent beer law to be framed so as to keep the city from levying a tax on 22 beer. Waldman retorted that, as the 32 measure was passed by a Democratic Legislature, the Democrats in the Board of Aldermen should not criticize it.

MAYOR APPLAUDED FOR SPEECH

Mayor Dickmann was applauded in his plea for passage of the tax. The Mayor set forth the requirements of the city's bond interest and sinking fund. The Board of Labor Statistics reports.

The index figure was 73.6 per cent of the 1926 average, as against 73.4 per cent for the week ended Feb. 24 and within one-tenth of one per cent of the high for the week ended Feb. 17 when the index was 73.7.

NEW YORK, March 9.—The influx of foreign gold since the dollar was placed on an international gold bullion basis Jan. 31, crossed the $520,000,000 mark yesterday.

Although the movement has subsided somewhat during the last two weeks or since the dollar has adjusted itself to within less than 1 per cent of its new parity in terms of other gold currencies, imports yesterday totaled $7,613,300.

Charges Already Filed Against Fingerprint Expert Who Was One of the Desperado's Hostages

CROWN POINT, Ind., March 9.—A charge that Deputy Sheriff Ernest Brunk, one of the hostages seized by John Dillinger, decoyed a special guard into a cell and locked the door shortly before the desperado escaped from jail here, has been made by Matt Brown, the 84-year-old guard.

Announcement of Brown's testimony before Assistant Attorney-General Edward Bruce was made in Indianapolis by Attorney-General Philip L. L. Jr.

Brown was quoted as saying that Brunk, fingerprint expert at the jail, locked the door "before I realized I had been decoyed into the cell." Shortly afterward, the guard was quoted as saying, Dillinger appeared in a jail corridor, armed with a machine gun.

Brunk is free on bond on a charge of manslaughter. He and Captain Caahoon, trustee and turnkey, were arrested recently in connection with the break.

United States Attorney-General Cummings yesterday criticized Sheriff Lillian Holley and Prosecutor Robert G. Estill of Crown Point for posing for a picture with Dillinger. Sheriff Holley denied she had posed with the outlaw, saying she happened to be standing near him when the picture was taken. But Sanford Bates, Federal Prison Director, issued an order to discontinue use of the Crown Point jail for the confinement of Government prisoners.

Judge William F. Murray yesterday discharged the March grand jury. He announced that special grand jurors would be called and that a special prosecutor would supervise the investigation. Estill said he would oppose the appointment of a special prosecutor.

Declaring that "this Dillinger case is beginning to smell," the judge added that "the present grand jury could not properly investigate the escape. The foreman, Clyde Rothermel, owns the garage from which Dillinger stole the Sheriff's car and is the employer of Edward Sager, whom Dillinger kidnapped with him for a few hours."

EXPLOSION ON SUBMARINE
AT SEA; FOUR OF CREW HURT

Cranksome Blows Up on Nautilus; Injured Taken to San Diego Hospital.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 9.—Four members of the crew of the submarine Nautilus were injured last night in an explosion at sea and were brought here today for treatment at the naval hospital.

Reports from the hospital stated all are expected to recover.

The injured: Mason Bowen, 30 years old, chief radioman, lacerated scalp; H. M. Springston, 29, machinist's mate, second class, first-degree burns on face, left hand and forearm; H. S. Young, 28, fireman, first class, fractured jaw, and R. W. Bradshaw, seaman first class, lacerated scalp.

The accident occurred when a cranksome exploded as the submarine was engaged in a power run 100 miles at sea. It was reported on receipt of word of the mishap that the destroyer Barry of the scouting force, commanded by Lieutenant-Commander C. Allen, was ordered to give assistance. It reached the Nautilus shortly after midnight.

The Nautilus, commanded by Lieutenant-Commander P. E. Glutting, was expected to return here this afternoon under its own power.

Lieut. Otto Wienecke and Sgt. Ernest B. Bell Victims—Military Aviators Killed Carrying Mail Now Total Eight.

By the Associated Press.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 9.—Sergeant Ernest B. Bell was killed near here today in the crash of an army mail plane within a few minutes after it had taken off from the local airport.

Lieut. W. M. Reid, pilot, and Floyd Marshall, a private, were injured. The motors failed and the plane fell in a heavily wooded section two miles south of this city.

The accident here followed by a short time a crash of an army mail plane in Ohio in which Lieut. Otto Wienecke was killed.

These two fatalities sent to eight the number of army men who have been killed either in flying the mail or preparing for flying it since the work was taken over from private contractors.

Sergeant Bell's skull was crushed. Marshall suffered a broken arm and bruises and was rushed to the hospital. Reid was slightly bruised and shocked, and cared for the mail and directed salvaging operations.

The plane, a twin-motored craft, took off from here at 8:45 a. m., bearing mail for Miami. It was the regular army airmail plane on the route. It had not had time to gain altitude when its motors failed.

Bell was the plane's mechanic and Marshall its navigator.

Four bags of mail carried in the plane were saved.

CHARDON, O., March 9.—Lieut. Otto Wienecke, army pilot, flying from Newark, N. J., to Cleveland with the mail, crashed to his death in a heavy snow squall early today on a farm northwest of Burton, near here.

Chardon is about 20 miles directly east of Cleveland. The plane was destroyed, but 10 bags of mail were salvaged and brought to the postoffice here.

John Hess, a farmer in whose pasture the plane crashed, said he and several neighbors heard the plane's motor about 5 a. m. It apparently was sputtering, and Hess ran out in time to see the crash. Lieut. Wienecke had left Newark at 11 p. m.

A neighbor of Hess said the ship circled over Burton several times, shortly before it hit the ground. From the position of the wreckage it appeared the plane was pointed in a westerly direction.

Coroner Philip Pease and Hess said Wienecke apparently had no opportunity to save himself. His safety belt was still hooked when the farmer reached his side.

Hess said the snow was coming down heavily at the time of the accident.

Since the Army took over the mail flights, six other Army pilots have been killed, either while flying mail, making unofficial flights, or reporting to Army posts.

Lieut. Wienecke was 32 years old and unmarried. His parents live in Patchogue, L. I. At Floyd Bennett Field in New York he was rated by officers as "one of the Army's very best flyers."

Before going on air mail duty he had spent eight months in combat at Scott Field from April, 1924, to October, 1925, when he was transferred to Langley Field, Va. Born in New York in 1901, he was appointed a cadet in the Air Force in 1921.

Mrs. Sarah Bush, a divorcee, was found dead in her gas-filled room Tuesday. She left a note expressing her love for Gardner and indicating she was jealous of some one. Told of this note, Gardner at the time remarked: "Maybe she meant Genevieve."

The second suicide was that of Genevieve Brosche, 25 years old, who died early today after drinking poison. She had been with Gardner last night.

Gardner told Detective Capt. Franks and Deputy County Attorney Crofoot today that Mrs. Brosche had called him last night, after a temporary estrangement. He went to her home, he said, and she upbraided him for his friendship with Mrs. Bush. Gardner said that Mrs. Brosche, commenting on Mrs. Bush's death, said: "Well, maybe it's not a bad way out. ## G. O. P. DIGS UP DEMOCRATS' OLD TARIFF SPEECHES

Republicans Disclose That Men Now Backing Roosevelt Opposed Wide Powers for Hoover.

LYING IN WAIT FOR HARRISON'S TALK

Sharp Exchanges Likely When Bill Calling for Executive Changes on Rates Is Offered.

By RAYMOND F. BRANITZ, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Political tariff speeches will come flying back to roost when Chairman Pat Harrison of the Senate's Finance Committee introduces the administration bill authorizing President Roosevelt to raise or lower tariff rates within 50 per cent limits. The Finance Committee is now holding hearings on the bill, which, if it follows President Roosevelt's suggestions, will virtually turn the tariff making powers of Congress over to the Executive for three years.

Senate Republican leaders today revealed that they are gleefully awaiting the day when Harrison makes his first speech in defense of the bill. They have unearthed a statement, issued in September, 1929, signed by Harrison, and such other prominent Democratic Senators as King of Utah, George of Georgia, Walsh of Massachusetts, Barkley of Kentucky, Thomas of Oklahoma and Connally of Texas, viewing with alarm the Republican proposal to grant President Hoover even less powers over the tariff. It is to be expected that, in rebuttal, the Democratic Senators will dig up Republican speeches, supporting the proposal to give the Executive power over tariff rates.

The ironic note in the Democratic statement is that its sponsors thought it so important that they addressed it to the American people.

What Statement Said. "A question of far-reaching consequence transcending considerations of party prompts us to issue a public statement in relation to the so-called flexible provisions of the tariff bill now pending in the Senate," the formal statement began.

"The question involved is one that in our opinion strikes at the very roots of constitutional government. It concerns the preservation unimpaired or the abandonment of the levying taxes by that branch of the Government which the forefathers agreed should alone be charged with that duty and responsibility.

"Authority in the executive to make the laws that govern the course of commerce through taxation is especially objectionable. It is the entering edge toward the destruction of a basic principle of representative government for which the independence of the country was attained and which was secured permanently in the Constitution.

"Without justification." "Whatever argument could be advanced against the war and immediately following for delegation to a degree of the taxing power to the executive unquestionably no longer exists. To incorporate now in the law any recognition of the power of the executive to impose taxes without the concurrence of the legislative branch is without justification."

After further general attacks on the flexible provisions of the 1929 proposal, the statement continued:

"The principle is: Are taxation laws and their application to be made virtually in secret, whatever may be said about a limiting rule, or are they to be enacted by the responsible representatives of the people in Congress, where public debate is held and a public record made of each official's conduct?"

"The arbitrary exercise of the taxing power, all the more dangerous if disguised and not obvious, in its basic character is tyranny. Resistance to the impairment of this popular right has largely occasioned many of the wars and revolutions in the past."

"Unconstitutional Authority." Calling attention to their efforts to obtain tariff commission responsibility for changes in the tariff rates, the Democrats observed:

"For the purpose of preventing apprehended congressional delay, an amendment has been made providing for the submission of the reports to Congress by the President, and furthermore, an amendment will be presented strictly limiting action by the Congress to matters germane to the particular subject matter or rates recommended by the President after investigation by the tariff commission.

"We do not hesitate to say that if this extraordinary and what we believe to be unconstitutional amendment passes now from the Congress, it is questionable if there will ever again be a tariff bill originated and enacted by the Congress.

"It is our solemn judgment that hereafter all taxation through the tariff and regulation of commerce there will be made by the Executive. It is the inherent tendency of this tariff changing device and the apparently conscious purpose of its proponents to use it to keep the tariff out of Congress, where it is such an embarrassing business, as everybody knows, to the party that profits politically by it. So also it will be of distinct advantage to the interests that are the direct beneficiaries of the tariff.

"In an age where there has been a steady tendency to rob the individual citizen of his power and influence in his Government through bureaucracy, we deem it our duty to vigorously protest any further encroachments in this direction, and especially with respect to taxation.

"In the hope of arousing the people, regardless of party, to take a broad and public view of this important question, we make this appeal."

AUTO RACE DRIVER STAPP CHARGED WITH KIDNAPING

Accused With Two Others of Abducting Los Angeles Reporter and Photographer.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 9.—Babe Stapp, nationally known automobile race driver, and Al Savage and Ted Devlin, were charged with kidnaping in complaints issued today by the District Attorney's office. They were charged with abducting James Lee, Los Angeles Examiner reporter, and John Benius, photographer.

Lee and Benius were assigned to funeral services for Ernie Triplett, race driver, who was killed on an Imperial (Cal.) track last Sunday.

The Examiner said the kidnapers openly admitted they had seized the men and declared it was a direct result of the Examiner's vigorous campaign against legalized murder on the race tracks of Southern California.

E. P. KLINE NOMINATED POSTMASTER OF E. ST. LOUIS

Roosevelt Sends Senate Name of Ex-Senator Serving in That Capacity Since Oct. 1.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—The nomination of Eugene P. Kline as Postmaster of East St. Louis was sent to the Senate today by President Roosevelt.

Kline, a Democrat, resigned as State Senator of the Forty-ninth Illinois District, March 2. He has been Acting Postmaster since last Oct. 1, having been recommended by Congressman Schaefer of Belleville. He succeeds Andrew Kurrus, Republican, who resigned last April.

Kline's successor as State Senator will be nominated in the primary next month and elected in November. Kline, who resides at 1612 Baugh avenue, also has served on the County Board of Supervisors. He is married and has eight grown children. The Postmaster's salary is $3900 a year.

Mother of Sgt. Bell Lives at Willow Springs, Mo.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Sergeant Ernest Chesley Bell, killed near Daytona Beach, is survived by his mother, Mrs. Emma Bell, Willow Springs, Mo. He was 29 years old. He enlisted in the Air Corps in July, 1928, and had served continuously at Langley Field, Va.

Lieut. William M. Reid was born in Albany, Ga., where his mother, Mrs. Ethel Reid, lives. Before being assigned to air mail duty Reid was operations' officer at Langley Field.

House Balks Attack on Army Mail Flying by Adjourning.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—House Democratic leaders cut short with adjournment today a prospective Republican attack on the army carrying the airmail.

"Another army flyer has just been killed," said Representative Edith Rogers (Rep.), Massachusetts, and asked immediate consideration of a resolution saying army mail carrying should be discontinued immediately. Speaker Rainey refused to recognize her.

Mrs. Rogers later asked for permission to speak for five minutes. Majority Leader Byrnes objected, and moved adjournment.

SUIT TO VOID BUILDING PERMITS

Property Owners Object to Expansion of Undertaking Place.

Twenty-three property owners in the vicinity of Compton avenue and Bates street, filed suit in Circuit Court today asking that the action of the Building Commissioner and the Board of Adjustment in granting a permit for the alteration of the branch office of the C. Hoffmeister Undertaking and Livery Co., at 5624 South Compton avenue, be set aside.

The undertaking firm had quarters there before the zoning ordinance defined it as a residence district, the petitioners state, and they are not asking that the prohibition from conducting business there, but object to expansion of its operations.

OHIO HEIRESS TO WED COUNT

Jane Grasselli to Be Married to Italian Consul.

By the Associated Press.

CAIRO, Egypt, March 9.—Miss Jane Grasselli, 21-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene R. Grasselli of Cleveland, O., has disclosed that she will marry Count Kuzel Gradenigo of Italy in Rome, May 9.

Count Gradenigo, Italian consul in Cleveland, as a functionary of the Italian government, must apply to King Victor Emmanuel for permission to wed because Miss Grasselli is a foreigner. Miss Grasselli, formerly a student at Vassar College, has a personal fortune of $1,000,000 in her own right.

LABOR PARTY WINS CONTROL OF LONDON COUNTY COUNCIL

Election Gives Party 60 Seats and Municipal Reform Group 55.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, MARCH 9.—Labor has a clear majority of 14 seats in the new London County Council. The final results of yesterday's council elections, announced today, show that for the first time in history the Labor party controls the Government of the whole metropolitan district.

The final figures show Labor 60, Municipal Reform 55. The previous composition of the council was Labor 45, Municipal Reform 43, Liberal 6. The former Liberal representation was completely wiped out.

Labor's sweeping victory brought predictions from Labor party leaders that there would be similar triumphs throughout the country in the next general election.

The veteran labor leader, Arthur Henderson, declared "Labor's County Council victories throughout the country are a striking indication of results to be expected at the next general election."

4000 TAXICAB DRIVERS STRIKE IN NEW YORK

Protest Against Alleged Efforts to Make Them Join "Company Unions."

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 9.—Four thousand taxicab drivers of the Parmelee System voted a strike today in protest against alleged efforts of the company to coerce them into "company unions."

Samorner, president of the Taxi Drivers' Union of Greater New York, announced the strike was "100 per cent effective" and that all 12 of the Parmelee garages were "completely tied up." The drivers vowed to wait out after Samuel Jaffe, a shop steward, was discharged. Union officers said it was because of his union activities. The company asserted it was because Jaffe, about 45 years old, was over the age limit. At Leving's garage superintendent, said Jaffe's discharge was for "disorderly conduct."

DUTCH CAPTAIN SENTENCED

Lost Ship in Mutiny of 400 Sailors Year Ago.

By the Associated Press.

THE HAGUE, March 9.—Seizure of the Dutch cruiser De Zeven Provinciën by mutineers off Sumatra a year ago, today resulted in a sentence of four months' imprisonment and dismissal from service on Capt. Eikenboom, the cruiser's commander. The sentence followed court-martial proceedings in which Capt. Eikenboom was charged with "unpardonable recklessness."

While the captain was ashore, 400 sailors seized the vessel, overpowering eight officers. They were pursued for five days by airplanes, submarines and destroyers before being captured. A number of the crew are serving prison terms.

SENATE ADDS RYE, FLAX, BARLEY TO AAA BASIC LIST

Adopts Amendment to Bill Making Dairy and Beef Cattle Subject to Processing Tax.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—The Senate voted today to add rye, flax and barley to the list of basic commodities to benefit under the Agricultural Adjustment Act.

The proposal was offered by Senator Frazier (Rep.), North Dakota, as an amendment to the Jones-Connally bill making dairy and beef cattle basic commodities subject to a processing tax.

Senator Connally (Dem.), Texas, co-author of the measure, said he was willing to let the Frazier amendment go to conference with the House to adjust differences.

FORMER FEDERAL ATTORNEY CONVICTED ON TAX CHARGES

Ex-Nebraska Found Guilty at Los Angeles of Failure to File Returns.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 9.—William S. Summers, 75 years old, former United States Attorney for Nebraska, was convicted yesterday on three misdemeanor counts charging him with failing to file Federal income tax returns for 1929, 1930 and 1931.

The Government charged Summers had received a gross income of about $44,000 in the three years. He contended the funds involved were handled by him as a trust on which no tax was due. The maximum sentence is one year in jail or a fine not exceeding $10,000 on each count. Sentence will be imposed Monday.

PHILIPPINE BILL APPROVED

Senate Committee Follows House Group in Favorable Report.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—The Tydings-McDuffie Philippine independence bill was reported favorably today by the Senate Territories Committee. The House Committee already has taken similar action.

No objection to the bill was raised although it was understood Senators King (Dem.) Utah, and Vandenberg (Rep.) Michigan, favored their own bills, which were not acted on. Chairman Tydings (Dem.) Maryland, said he would prepare his committee report immediately and hoped to get the bill passed by Congress next week.

Sigvard of Sweden and Actress Bride Arrive in Berlin From London.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 9.—Mr. and Mrs. Sigvard Bernadotte arrived in Berlin by train today after unexpectedly crossing the North Sea. The former Prince Sigvard of Sweden, who gave up his right to the crown yesterday to marry the German movie actress, Erika Petzsch, left London with a smile.

"We are very happy," were his parting words. "After Berlin I can't tell you anything except that I hope to continue my chosen vocation as a film director. My life ambition is in the motion picture business."

The last to see them off were George Petzsch, Erika's brother, and a friend of hers, Marian Fritzen.

THREATENS CITIZENSHIP OF GERMAN PAPAL LEGATE

Berlin Newspaper Assails Cardinal Von Faulhaber Who Has Fought Nazis.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, March 9.—In an attack on Michael Cardinal von Faulhaber, Archbishop of Munich, the paganistic newspaper "Reichsbanner" today suggests his citizenship might be revoked should the report he was appointed a papal legate prove true.

"The title of papal legate was bestowed upon Cardinal von Faulhaber by Pope Pius XI. It is for the sake of his possible arrest by Nazis, whom he has vigorously opposed."

"How can a papal legate, that is a foreign diplomat, simultaneously remain a German citizen?" asked the newspaper, whose editor, Count Ernst von Reventlow, is leader of the new religious cult movement, which has drawn the fire of the Catholic Church.

The paper called the Cardinal's advent sermon "Jew Friendly."

News of the Cardinal's appointment as papal legate has not been published in Germany.

PAYMENT ON WAR DEBT IN RADIUM MEETS FAVOR

Officers of Belgian Monopoly Ready to Consider Borah's Plan if Formally Presented.

By the Associated Press.

BRUSSELS, March 9.—Officers of the Union Minière du Haut Katanga, which has a monopoly on the production of radium, today indicated they would consider favorably a proposal by Senator Borah that Belgium give the United States $100,000,000 worth of radium as a payment on the nation's war debts.

No such offer has been made, it is explained, and no negotiations are under way along this line. The Belgian Foreign Office and Department of Finance did not comment on the proposal.

Radium has been selling for about $50,000 a gram, so that 200 grams would be needed to carry out the plan.

HE SPEEDED UP THE UNITED STATES SENATE

McKellar Offers Administration Measure to Return Service to Private Lines.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Chairman McKellar of the Senate Post-office Committee today introduced the administration's permanent air mail bill outlining a basis for returning air mail transportation to private concerns.

McKellar offered the measure on behalf of himself and Chairman Black of the Special Air Mail Investigating Committee.

In a separate statement to the Senate McKellar said the companies' contracts which had been canceled "must be reorganized" and "let out" officers who participated in negotiations leading up to the contracts in order to qualify for the proposed new three-year contracts.

The bill was introduced as the Senate prepared to consider the House emergency air mail bill authorizing the transfer of postal funds to the War Department for the temporary carriage of the mails.

The new contracts would be let by "open competitive bidding," McKellar said, on routes to be selected by the Postmaster-General.

Maximum compensation is fixed and bidders have six months to qualify for carrying the mail after getting a contract.

After two and a half years the Interstate Commerce Commission would fix the routes and the maximum pay for operation after the expiration of the three-year contracts.

McKellar described the bill as in line with President Roosevelt's recommendations to the chairman of the House and Senate Postoffice Committees and as providing "honest pay for honest service."

DEADLINE FOR LIQUOR STAMPS

Retail Dealers Have One More Day to Obtain New Strips.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Retail liquor dealers have one more day to obtain the red strip stamps which must be fixed across the mouth of every bottle offered the public.

Distilled spirits not carrying the stamp are subject to seizure and forfeiture and in addition violators are liable to a fine and imprisonment. The strip stamp was ordered by the Liquor Taxing Act of 1933. Hereafter it is to be affixed by the distiller, but retailers must place it on present stock.

TOKIO PUBLISHER SHOT BY ASSASSIN WHO KILLS SELF

Head of Jiji Shimpō, Leading Paper of Japanese Capital, Wounded Three Times in Suburban Home

SERVANT TRYING TO DEFEND HIM SLAIN

Police Think Attack Was Due to Failure of Industrialist to Support Public Crematory Project.

By the Associated Press.
TOKIO, March 9.—Sanji Muto, noted industrialist and president of the Jiji Shimpō, leading Tokyo newspaper, was shot and wounded three times today by an unidentified assassin. The shooting occurred at Muto's home in Kamakura, southwest of Tokyo. Muto's servant, defending his master, was killed.

The assailant then shot and killed himself.

Muto's condition was considered serious. It was said at the hospital where he was taken. He is 66 years old.

The motive for the attack had not been ascertained, but it was recalled that Muto's newspaper recently published a series of articles charging corruption within the Japanese Government and in high financial circles.

Muto, who is 66 years old, is a former member of the Japanese House of Representatives and was for many years connected with the Mitsui industrial interests.

Muto and his servant were walking from Muto's home to the Kamakura station to take a train for Tokyo, when they were shot.

The gunman, Shinkichi Fukushima, is thought by police to have been enraged by Muto's refusal to give newspaper support and money to his project to establish a public crematory in Tokyo.

Authorities said they did not think the attack had anything to do with his servant's walking to the station. Muto's newspaper recently printed articles charging corruption in high government and financial circles.

Associates of the publisher believe Fukushima acted for some enemy made through Muto's editorial crusades.

ST. LOUIS THEATER TO QUIT STAGE SHOWS IN TWO WEEKS

The Fanchon and Marco representatives in St. Louis, operators of the Fox and St. Louis theaters, last night gave all stage hands, musicians and chorus girls at the latter house a two weeks' notice of dismissal to take effect on March 23.

It was announced that the St. Louis would, on that date, go into a straight picture policy without stage shows.

The management of the house denied that the closing of the stage shows was in any way connected with the reported pending deal whereby Fanchon and Marco would soon come into control, along with Harry Koplar, of the Ambassador, Missouri and Grand Central theaters.

He cited also the bureau's recommendations as to the tax rate item for bond interest and sinking fund which should be levied to meet the requirement for 1934-35. The bureau placed the item at 80 cents on $100 valuation, or 41 cents more than the present 39 cents item.

If this increase were made without decreasing other tax items, the city, school and State tax rate would advance from $2.74 to $3.15.

He said the proposed levy on beer was "eminently fair to the brewers and other manufacturers, and absolutely essential to secure an amount of license fee at all fair to other taxpayers."

Mayor Dickmann quoted an editorial in yesterday's Post-Dispatch as to the need for the gallonage tax, which it was estimated would yield $250,000 to a year.

"There seems," he said, "to be no dissent from the opinion that without the gallonage tax the city will not receive more than $300,000 a year from the entire liquor business. If it should be eliminated from the pending bill, we are headed straight toward an increase of the tax levy, possibly this year and certainly next year. Our choice is as plain as the road to market, either revenue from new sources by the gallonage tax, or an additional tax burden on home-owners."

The Mayor appealed to the Aldermen not to make the matter one of party division. "The little home owner is just as much entitled to protection against excessive taxation whether he is a Democrat or a Republican," he said.

with him in the World War. But he added, his connection with them had been "very intimate and very active."

"With me were 24,000 American boys of Polish descent," he related. "Only 16,000 of them came back, and now virtually all of them are American citizens—not eligible to Polish Government veterans' relief, and still, since they served in the Polish Army, ineligible for any of the American veterans' benefits."

Many of Men Disabled. "Probably 4000 of them, throughout the United States, are disabled. The Polish-American veterans have 148 posts in seven districts, but in only three districts—Chicago, Detroit and New York—are there homes for the disabled, small homes, and there are none in the other four districts."

"For war invalids not in these hospitals we attempt to provide some financial aid, only a little, $5 to $10 a month. But the funds—called the Padewski Fund for Disabled Polish-American Veterans and started with a $30,000 gift by the great musician and statesman—is exhausted. My mission is to aid in replenishing it."

It is a thing of some importance to St. Louis, for about 300 volunteers from St. Louis served with me. About 100 are alive now, and probably 20 are disabled."

Renewing acquaintance and discussing plans for the St. Louis veterans at breakfast with Father Pudlowski and members of the reception committee, Gen. Haller visited the New Cathedral and the Lindbergh trophy collection at Jefferson Memorial last night.

He planned to spend the afternoon quietly at the parish house. An informal gathering of veterans of his war-time forces, with members of the women's auxiliary, will be held at 8:30 p. m. at Polish House, 1940 Cass avenue.

Will Deliver Address. He is to spend tomorrow in East St. Louis, returning to Father Pudlowski's residence in the evening. A special mass in his honor will be held at 10:15 a. m. Sunday at St. Casimir's. A general mass meeting, where he will deliver his only formal address, will be held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday at Polish House, and he will depart for Kansas City Sunday night.

When the Austro-German treaty was consummated with the Bolsheviks in 1918, Gen. Haller, then Commander of a Polish brigade in the Austrian Army, threw his German and Austrian decorations in the sea and led the armies of Poland in revolt. Fighting his way through the Austrian lines, he called on the Polish legions to strike for freedom.

Eventually he assembled an army of 180,000 Polish volunteers from all parts of the world in France, fighting side by side with the Allies against which his old Second Brigade had been engaged earlier in the war. After the Armistice, he led his army against the Ukrainians and the Bolsheviks, fighting his way through Pomerania to the sea, and in 1920 he led the victorious defense of Warsaw.

MRS. ROOSEVELT VISITS P. S. C. CREDITORS PLAN GIRL TOBACCO WORKERS FORECLOSURE ACTIONS

Eats With Group in Factory on Her Tour of Puerto Rico.

By the Associated Press.
SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, March 9.—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt sat down today to luncheon with 15 girls, all of them workers in a tobacco factory at Caguas.

She ate a special diet prepared by the girls themselves in an effort to get balanced rations to see if those who followed such a diet do more work than the other girls.

Mrs. Roosevelt dismissed her motorcycle escort on the way from San Juan and had her chauffeur change his livery for a plain white suit.

Caguas gave the President's wife a vociferous welcome, despite her efforts to avoid display, for the streets were lined with cheering men, women and children.

Question About Wages. Mrs. Roosevelt went directly into a factory where 500 women were stripping tobacco. She asked the manager if the workers really wanted a higher standard of living. He replied that country women were content with their present state.

Mrs. Roosevelt also visited the Munoz Rivera School, a Relief Administration project, where tuberculosis prevention work is being carried out. Dozens of pajama-clad and malnourished children gathered to see her. Cheering girl scouts saluted her.

Mrs. Roosevelt then went into the homes of the tobacco workers, accompanied by Miss Helen V. Foster, head of a Civil Works and economic survey under way here.

Before she left San Juan, Mrs. Roosevelt had the Governor's license plate taken from an official car placed at her disposal and an ordinary one substituted. Then she ordered the chauffeur to get rid of his uniform.

Arrival From Virgin Islands. Mrs. Roosevelt arrived here last evening by airplane after a trip to the Virgin Islands.

On the two-hour flight from St. Croix, she declared that "the day was well worthwhile, and I got a very good picture of the Virgin Islands, past and present, whose people seemed happy and healthy."

Mrs. Roosevelt was welcomed here officially and was given the keys to the city by Jesus Benitez Castano, the City Manager.

Escorted by motorcycles, the party was taken to the Governor's pink palace at La Fortaleza, which is 400 years old. On the way people hurried from doorways and balconies to see Senora Roosevelt, as they surged about her automobile.

At a crowded conference with the local press, Mrs. Roosevelt took up conditions in the island.

First she showed reporters a copy of a proclamation allegedly issued by City Manager Castano requesting inhabitants to call off a CWA strike, "so Mrs. Roosevelt may gain the impression that this is a laborious and good people."

The strikers have been protesting against a cut of from 30 to 20 hours in their work week coupled with a wage cut of from 20 cents to 12 1/2 cents an hour.

Visits Highest of People. In the Virgin Islands, Mrs. Roosevelt found time to explore two native villages and add details of island cookery to her study of economic conditions.

In one of the villages—now being remodeled into Federal headquarters—she asked Hilda Benjamin, a native housewife, what she was cooking.

"NRA pork," answered the woman, who complained she got ruined on while going to the living room to the outdoor kitchen in her two-room home, built by Uncle Sam.

"Have your man build a gallery," suggested Mrs. Roosevelt in reply. The President's wife told other housewives they must keep flies out of the food. Later she had them show her how they used their crude utensils, and drank coconut milk offered by natives at the roadside.

To Consolidate Them With Receivership Suit, Leaving Kiel in Charge, It Is Said.

The St. Louis Public Service Co., now in receivership, has been notified of the intention of trustees for bondholders to institute foreclosure proceedings against the company in Federal Court.

Thomas E. Francis, attorney for Receiver Henry W. Kiel, said that Thomas S. McPheeters, attorney for the St. Louis Union Trust Co., has served notice of intention to apply to Federal Judge Davis for leave to file a foreclosure suit.

The St. Louis Union Trust Co. is trustee under the United Railways first mortgage bond issue due next July 1, of which $35,075,000 is outstanding. Semi-annual interest on this issue was defaulted last July 1 and again Jan. 1.

Similar action would be taken in behalf of holders of City & Suburban Public Service Co. bonds, of which $3,303,000 are outstanding, Francis said. This bond issue, which will be due next July 1, is secured by first mortgage on a part of the Public Service Co.'s street railway properties. Interest on it also is in default.

Francis said he understood the trustees would not press the foreclosure at this time and would agree with the present receivership suit, Receiver Kiel to be appointed as receiver for the bondholders.

In addition to the default of interest, the Public Service Co. is in default of the provision of a supplemental indenture to the first general mortgage requiring certain annual expenditures for improvement of the property. As of Dec. 31, 1932, the deficiency in such expenditures was $7,800,000 and it has increased somewhat since then.

ST. CLAIR COUNTY REPORTS 13 PCT. TAX DELINQUENCY

Review of Conditions, Treasurer's Report Shows.

Delinquent St. Clair County taxes for 1932, payable 1933, will amount to about 13 per cent of the $5,575,201 levied, or about $724,000, 2 per cent more than the previous year.

County Treasurer Wangelin announced today. He said the delinquency is small considering general financial conditions.

The total delinquency in 53 years including 1932 is $335,631, on which penalties of $693,162 have accumulated, making a total of $1,528,793 owed by taxpayers to the county.

More than half of the total delinquency and penalties have accumulated since 1931. In 1932, the total delinquency was only $33,249 and there has been a steady increase since.

In 1931 taxes on 21,600 parcels of property were delinquent, and in 1932 only 37,560, an increase of 15,960. Later figures have not been compiled.

EIGHT YEARS FOR ROBBERY

Youth, 17, Sentenced for Three Holdups.

Theophilus Clay, 17-year-old Negro, was sentenced to eight years in the penitentiary on each of three robbery charges when he pleaded guilty today before Judge Hartmann. The sentences are to run concurrently.

Clay held up two insurance company collectors last January, obtaining $65, and took 90 cents from Miss Paula Finnegan, 4506 North Market street, in a street holdup Jan. 5.

Sentenced in Holdup Killing

FROM left to right: MRS. LOTTIE COLL, SILVIO JOSEPH VENTRE and ALBERT GUARINO in court in New York, hearing their sentences for the killing of Mollie Schwarz, 22 years old. Mrs. Coll was sentenced to serve from six to 12 years in Bedford Reformatory for manslaughter; Guarino to 20 years to life for second degree murder and Ventre from seven and a half to 15 years for manslaughter.

WOMAN FOUND DROWNED IN WELL AT HER HOME

Miss Virginia Wood, Edwardsville Township Tax Clerk, Melanchoy, Family Says.

Miss Virginia Wood, 39 years old, a township tax clerk of Edwardsville, was drowned last night in an unused well, 35 feet deep, in the yard of her home. Members of her family said she had suffered from weeks with severe headaches and had been melancholy. The cover of the well had been removed.

Her uncle, Louis Berger, who lives at the same place, returning home at 7 o'clock found Miss Wood's coat on a rear porch. Aided by neighbors, he pulled her out. An inhalator provided by Granite City firemen, failed to revive her.

HIT BY AUTO, SKULL FRACTURED

Richard Guggenbuehler, a department manager for the Elder Manufacturing Co., suffered fractures of the skull and leg when struck by an automobile at Twelfth boulevard and Lucas avenue at 5:15 p. m. yesterday.

C. E. Stone, 21-year-old clerk, 2311W St. Louis avenue, the driver, said he was forced to swerve his machine to avoid a collision with a truck. Guggenbuehler, 45 years old, resided at 7109 Hunter avenue, Pine Lawn. Following emergency treatment at City Hospital he was removed to Dr. Tiernon's Hospital in Pine Lawn.

TRACED BY AUTO TAG, SEIZED AS BURGLAR

Man Is Found With Car in Garage and Is Identified in $15 Theft.

Ray Molitor, 1700A South Vandeventer avenue, stopped at his home for lunch yesterday afternoon and discovered a burglar in the apartment. The burglar fled and Molitor chased him, but the man got away.

Molitor returned to his apartment and there met a neighbor, Oscar Smith, 4443 De Tonty street, who said: "Say, that guy you were chasing doubled back here and got into a Ford car and drove away. I took the license number."

The license number was reported to police and an hour later Detectives Roche, Powell and Paul found the Ford in a public garage at 1445 Hogan street, where a mechanic was

SAYS T. M. SAYMAN FLOURISHED REVOLVER

Debtor Has Warrant Issued for Manufacturer Who Denies Charge.

A warrant, charging T. M. Sayman, wealthy manufacturer of soap and patent medicines, with "exhibiting a dangerous and deadly weapon in a rude, angry and threatening manner," was issued yesterday by Justice of the Peace Graham at Clayton. The case was set for trial next Wednesday at 10 a. m.

The warrant was issued on complaint of Bishop Crawford, who conducts the Hunters' Country Club at 9301 North Broadway. Crawford asserted that Sayman flourished a revolver and threatened him the morning of Feb. 28. "He had a mortgage on my place," Crawford told the Post-Dispatch today, "and he foreclosed it. Last January I won a redemption suit and got the property back. He has been mad at me ever since."

Sayman—who is permitted to carry a revolver because he is a Deputy Game Warden—denied that he had been near the Crawford place on Feb. 28. Mrs. Ruby Crawford accompanied her husband to the Prosecuting Attorney's office yesterday and corroborated his complaint.

Late in the afternoon of Feb. 28 Sayman recovered from Carr street police his silver-mounted revolver, which he calls "Ol' Becky Trueheart," and which had been turned over to the police some hours before by John Riley, Negro employee at Sayman's country home, 9600 North Broadway.

Riley told police he had taken the weapon from Sayman after the aged manufacturer had objected to the way Riley fired the furnace, had struck him with a cane and flourished "Ol' Becky."

Sayman told the police that Riley had struck him and that he had pulled "Ol' Becky" out of his shoulder-holster in self-defense. Riley denied the charge and was not held.

DEcriES NATIONALISM, SAYS IT HAS BECOME U. S. RELIGION

Philadelphia Methodist Group Criticizes Flag and Anthem Demonstrations as "Idolatry."

By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, March 9.—Traditional demonstrations of respect for the flag and the National Anthem are decried as "Nationalist Idolatry" by the Social Service Commission of the Philadelphia Episcopal Church. The commission submitted its report last night.

"Nationalism has become intensified and in many instances has become the religion of the nation," it says. "It erects its own god. Its chief symbol of faith and central object to worship is the flag with its curious liturgical forms and attitudes, to which the child is taught the strictest allegiance."

"The National Anthem is listened to with awe in a standing posture and with uncovered head. Our national festivals—Washington's birthday, Memorial day, Independence day and Armistice day—vie with the distinctly religious holidays of Christmas and Easter."

"Nationalism has its holy scriptures—the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution, Washington's farewell address, the Monroe Doctrine and Lincoln's address at Gettysburg, which on the whole are better known to the average boy and girl than the classical portions of the English Bible."

SOUTH SIDE NATIONAL BANK IS REORGANIZED

It Will Be Reopened Soon,
Freeing Deposits of About $3,000,000.

Reorganization of the South Side
National Bank has been completed, and the date on which the new bank will reopen, freeing deposits of about $3,000,000, will be announced within a few days.

Frank J. Wiget, who was president of the Farmers' and Merchants' Trust Co. when it was consolidated with South Side Trust Co. in 1923 to form the South Side National Bank, will be president of the new bank. It will be known as the South Side National Bank in St. Louis. The old bank is the South Side National Bank of St.
Louis.

The new bank will take over selected assets of the old, and will assume 70 per cent of its deposit liabilities. Assets not acquired by the new bank will be liquidated by the receiver for the old, which has been closed since the banking holiday a year ago.

The reorganization plan involved the sale of $400,000 of common stock, which was sold for $540,000, to create a surplus of $140,000. In addition, the RFC has subscribed for $300,000 of preferred stock. The old bank was capitalized at $600,000 and had deposits of about $6,000,000.
Some 2500 depositors used part of the 70 per cent of their balances made available by the new bank to subscribe for its stock.

The new bank will have no connection with the Manufacturers' Bank & Trust Co., or its predecessor, the Lafayette-South Side Bank & Trust Co., which owned all the $600,000 capital stock of the old bank. The Lafayette, as the owner of that stock, settled its double liability by the payment of one-half, or $300,000 in cash, and for 5 per cent gave preferred stock in the Manufacturers' Bank, and 42 per cent participation certificates against segregated assets.

The new bank will open with no bills payable, and with cash and quick assets sufficient to pay 100 per cent of its deposits on demand.
Deposits will be insured under the temporary Federal deposit insurance plan.

Before any depositor can receive credit for 70 per cent of his balance in the new bank, he must file a claim with the receiver for the old bank, Edwin S. Coombs.

Officers of the new bank, other than Wiget, will be Adolph Etling, cashier; W. R. Schery, trust officer; and Albert A. Rehme, assistant cashier. All except Wiget held similar jobs with the old bank.

Five directors of the new bank are Fred L. Hofmann, president, Mueth Plastering Co.; A. L. Petersen, secretary-treasurer, Petersen Planing Mill Co.; Calvin R. Yeckel, vice-president, Yeckel, Barickson & Co.; and Wiget. Other officers and directors are to be chosen.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CELEBRATES ANNIVERSARIES

Special Services for Eighty-second Year of Congregation and Fifth of Building.

First Congregational Church, Wy-down boulevard and University Lane, Clayton, will celebrate the eighty-second anniversary of its organization at services Sunday morning. On the following Sunday the fifth anniversary of the dedication of the present building will be observed.

The church was founded March 14, 1852 by 67 members of the old Third Presbyterian Church, headed by the Dr. Truman M. Post, who withdrew from the older congregation. The first building was at the northeast corner of Tenth and Locust streets and the second occupied in 1881, at 2810 Delmar boulevard.

The present site has been used since 1914, when a chapel and educational building were built. The main auditorium was dedicated in 1929. Eleven pastors have served the church. The present one, the Rev. Dr. Robert Porter, will officiate at the two celebrations.

TWO INDUSTRIAL GROUPS WORK ON REDUCING HOURS

Capital and Consumer Goods Men Trying to Get Heavy Products Off Dead Center.

QUESTION OF CREDIT AID IS CONSIDERED

NRA Compliance Staff Meantime Is Being Expanded to Expedite Action on Code Violations.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—NRA aids of Gen. Hugh S. Johnson moved today for a quick expansion of a central code compliance staff for the purpose of expediting any cases for prosecution. This is in line with Johnson's announcement that President Roosevelt wants a more stern enforcement of Blue Eagle rules.

At the same time the NRA is negotiating with industrialists on its objective of a further reduction in working hours without any cut in wages.

Two committees of industrial leaders have been picked to help Johnson work out his plans to put more men to work, but definite action has been delayed until next week. The Administrator, almost exhausted from 10 days and nights of nearly continuous effort, during the big code congress, will take a breathing spell before pitching again into the task of convincing the code men they must act promptly to put men to work.

Widely Divergent Courses. Widely divergent courses are indicated by the two assisting committees of industrialists. The one representing consumer's goods (anything from chewing gum to automobiles), contains men in agreement with Johnson's plan to get more men to work. They will consult with their colleagues, and it is expected they will propose fairly soon a definite alternative to the Johnson 10 per cent hour shortening plan.

George Sloan, cotton textile leader, is helping them with plans to get quick expressions from their industries and to perfect organization.

The Capitol Goods Committee, representing makers of machinery, construction of goods, supplies for manufacture, embarked on a far less direct course. After establishing headquarters in the offices of the Machinery and Allied Products Institute, a super-code group for more than 40 industries, the members mostly left town, but the majority of them are expected to come back next week to undertake a deliberate program for helping their own industries.

Their spokesmen thus far have shown more interest in having the administration's Securities Act amended and in stopping a drastic exchange regulation bill than in work hour shortening.

Both groups, however, heard from Johnson yesterday privately, and there is every indication that he "talked turkey" to them.

Objective Sought. The objective of the conferences to follow seems to be some compromise program on the wages and hours proposals advanced for NRA improvement. The administrator appears to be firm in his belief that the best way to get the 10 per cent reduction in hours he seeks to boost employment is through a presidential order.

Reconciled to some shortening of hours in comparatively prosperous industries, employers, or the great majority of them, insisted, however, that any such order would work hardship and delay recovery, even though exemptions for hard-pressed businesses were provided.

The concentration on ways and means to provide credit for capital goods industries shows some NRA officials feel business may be more inclined to go along with Johnson if it is assured the administration is ready to do something to get the heavier industries off dead center. Out of discussions yesterday came word that the capital goods group would draw a program, revolving around credit, for improvement in their field. George Houston of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, the chairman, said the plan was to be presented to Johnson and that he presumably would carry it to the White House.

For Heavier Purchases. One point before Sloan's Committee is, "What can consumer's industries do to fortify the lagging recovery in many capital goods industries?" His committee is working on a program whose nucleus obviously is additional purchases of capital goods.

Gerard Swope of General Electric and chairman of Secretary Roper's business advisory and planning council, said he felt little time would be lost if the code authorities of the various industries were allowed to present the case for this particular business they represent. Johnson has conferred from time to time with Treasury officials who are attempting to set up a series of 12 intermediate industrial banks to furnish long term credit for the capital goods and other concerns unable to obtain the funds they need. An extension of that idea, perhaps for a longer credit term than the five years suggested, may be drawn by the Houston delegation. Houston issued a statement after the meeting of his group in which he urged amendment of the Securities Act and rewriting of the proposed measure for exchange regulation to aid "the durable goods industries."

He said an important objective of his committee was to encourage the resumption of investment in durable goods and that this "can only be accomplished in the face of conditions that will give security of principal and such rate of return as will encourage men to take the hazard of investment." Houston said also that "the solution of unemployment in the durable goods industries cannot be accomplished by a reduction of hours and increase of wages, inevitably followed by increased cost, with business volume so drastically reduced at this time."

Sloan said several of his committee were strongly in favor of curtailing working time further, but he declined to speak for the Cotton Textile Institute.

'OWL' IDENTIFIED AS KIDNAPER OF 'JAKE THE BARBER'

Barnhardt Is Accused by Same Gangster Who Helped Convict Touhy and Two Others.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, March 9.—William A. (Buck) Hendrichsen, former Touhy gangster, concluded his testimony at the kidnaping trial of Basil (the Owl) Barnhardt today.

"I knew my life wasn't worth a nickel and isn't now," he testified yesterday when he placed Charles (Ice Wagon) Connors and Frank (Porky) Dillon at the ransom money payoff scene with himself, Barnhardt, and other convicted members of the band.

Connors and Dillon are at large. Hendrichsen has announced he will testify against them if they are apprehended. Prosecutors have protected Hendrichsen and members of his family with a police guard at State expense.

Admitting that he received $1000 of the ransom money, the witness accused Barnhardt of participation in the actual abduction and detention of Factor.

Hendrichsen, who turned State's evidence at the trial of Roger Touhy, Albert Kator and Gustave Schaefer, all of whom were convicted, repeated his earlier testimony.

Barnhardt, the alleged "tough" guard who manhandled Factor during his detention, chewed gum and smiled as the witness described scenes and incidents relative to the abduction.

Hendrichsen testified that when Isaac Costner, another Touhy gangster who has turned State's evidence, was arrested he felt the "jig was up," and decided to try and protect himself. Costner testified today he and Barnhardt were with the kidnapers.

WHITE RIVER DAM CONFERENCE

Hugh Miller Considers Hydro-Electric Plan Proposal.

Advocates of a hydro-electric dam in the White River at Table Rock, Taney County, Mo., conferred with Hugh Miller, State engineer of the Public Works Administration, yesterday. Various suggestions were made in connection with a tentative proposal to obtain FWA financing for the undertaking as a combined power development and flood prevention measure.

Miller said most of the benefits of flood prevention would be in Arkansas, so FWA and state officials there will be asked to consider the plan also. The Empire District Electric Co., a subsidiary of the Cities Service interests, has a Federal permit to build the dam, which will expire about the end of this year. It has a power dam downstream in the White River at Forsyth, Mo., which has a surplus capacity now. Officers of Cities Service and representatives of the Springfield (Mo.) Chamber of Commerce and White River Boosters' League met with Miller.

YOUTHS ADMIT 15 BURGLARIES

Three Held at Belleville Confess Theft From Oil Stations, Stores.

Three youths, one a high school student, arrested by Belleville police today have confessed 15 recent burglaries, the officers announced.

One boy, 16 years old, was arrested at 2 a. m. while seated in his automobile near a gasoline filling station. Questioned, he admitted participation in two burglaries last night, naming his companions. The three later enumerated recent burglaries of filling stations and groceries, which they said netted them about $300 in money and merchandise. Warrants will be sought.

MARCONI TELLS HOW MACHINE CAN AID MAN

Inventor Says Human Selfishness, Not Science, Brought on Depression.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, March 8.—The affirmation that science and the machine are responsible for the world crisis and unemployment must be definitely rejected, Guglielmo Marconi said in an address before Italy's most distinguished scientists in the Palazzo Venezia last night.

"They have made it possible for man, with enormously reduced effort, still to have everything he needs for a life of comfort. "It is not the machine or science that has provoked the ills from which we suffer.

"We have been cheated of the advantages they have brought by a defective distribution of the wealth and resources. Providence has given us in abundance, and above all by human selfishness.

"The time when science was considered a luxury and merely a spiritual satisfaction has passed.

What Can Be Done.

"It is now generally recognized that the collaboration of science, industry and national defense will give a nation industrial and commercial superiority in time of peace.

"In time of war it gives technical superiority without which sacrifice, courage, and even heroism are often unavailing."

In the distinguished audience was Premier Mussolini, who showed his approval with emphatic nods as Marconi, inventor of the wireless, developed his subject. The meeting was held in the Hall of Battles and the heads of all the Government technical services attended. Marconi spoke before the National Research Council, of which he is president.

The body was recently made the Government's supreme technical institute. It is charged with investigating, co-ordinating and improving the nation's complex activities socially and industrially and in the matter of armed defense.

Report on Accomplishments.

Marconi delivered a report on the council's recent accomplishments and mentioned particularly as one of its achievements the getting together on short notice of "convincing proof of Italy's great scientific contribution to world civilization which I am to exhibit at the Chicago Exposition." He said when he visited the exhibit his heart "filled with noble pride."

Marconi told how the council was using newly-established agricultural communities in former swamp regions—such as Littoria—as a vast camp to establish certain biological and democratic facts.

He described research now in progress showing the relationship between a man's absorption of food and his working capacity, and went into great detail regarding experiments designed to increase agricultural production.

RUBBER SCENERY, INFLATED WITH AIR, ON ITALIAN STAGE

Futurist Painter Makes Trees Blossom and Bear Fruit by Pressure.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, March 8.—Pneumatic scenery is to be tried out on the Italian stage this year as a result of the invention of the futurist painter, Ernesto Tomba of Verona. Signor Tomba said he conceived his idea from seeing the inflatable rubber animals with which children play on the beach.

"The new scenery," he said, "is all of rubber. It results in great economy in transport. All road companies will have to have it.

"The scenery can assume a number of different combinations, depending on the amount of air pumped in. Phosphorous, variable colors, varnishes and alabaster are put on it for brief showings and can then be sponged off."

The rubber shapes on being blown up give remarkable effects.

"For instance, I have succeeded in constructing a tree which begins to bud, flowers and bears fruit according to the amount of the air pressure."

Theatrical critics say the new scenery means the end of spear-carrying on the stage.

AMERICAN MILLIONAIRE DUCHESS DIES IN ROME

Former Virginia Whitbury Low-ery of Washington Cousin of Mrs. Breckinridge-Long.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, March 8.—The millionaire Duchess Virginia d'Arco, the former Virginia Whitbury Lowery of Washington, died yesterday of pneumonia in her magnificent Roman residence, the Brandaccio palace. She was the widow of Duke Brunetti d'Arco, who once was the Spanish Ambassador to Washington and Rome. She was 80 years old.

Before death she stipulated that she be buried in Rock Creek Cemetery, Washington, and the body will be sent there. She left a will 15 pages long in which she gave $1,000,000 to American institutions, including hospitals and libraries. It was understood other bequests total $500,000. She also leaves a fortune in art works at Brandaccio palace.

The Duchess retained her American citizenship although married to a Spaniard, and had her passport renewed from time to time. She was a distant cousin of Mrs. Breckinridge Long, wife of the United States Ambassador to Rome.

Confirmed as Envoy to El Salvador.
WASHINGTON, March 8.—The Senate confirmed Frank P. Corrigan of Ohio as United States Minister to El Salvador yesterday.

MAN OF 'VIRILE HUMILITY' IS THE FASCIST PROPHECY

MILAN, Italy, March 8.—The Fascist regime announces that it is forging a new type of man, described as the possessor of "virile humility."

He will be an individualist, says a Fascist forecast of the future generations, only in so far as individual characteristics benefit society in general.

The "negative" attributes of individualism that he will know nothing of are listed as vanity, vanity, desire for luxury and rebellion against fundamental morals.

His "virile humility" will be expressed in a profound respect for the state and unquestioning obedience to rules that enhance the welfare of the people.

FIVE IN FAMILY INDICTED FOR KILLING FOSTER DAUGHTER

True Bills Returned by Grand Jury in Inquiry at Wilkesboro, N. C.

WILKESBORO, N. C., March 8.—True bills charging Warwick W. Tilley, 50-year-old Wilkes County farmer, and four members of his family with murder of his 15-year-old foster-daughter, Leoda Childress, were returned by the Wilkes County grand jury yesterday.

Accused of the murder along with Tilley are his wife, Mrs. Bella Tilley, 58; their two sons, Luther, 32, and Clyde, 18, and Luther's wife, Mrs. Minerva Tilley, 30.

The grand jury also indicted Luther Tilley and Winfield Stanley for the alleged murder of Andrew Eldridge in 1927, whose death the state contends has been linked with the killing of Miss Childress. Leoda was found shot to death in her foster-parents' home on Dec. 30 by a neighbor, who had heard a woman scream for help over a party telephone line.

GEORGE M. HOFFMANN FUNERAL

Service Monday for Baking Company Production Manager. George M. Hoffmann, production manager for 30 years of the General Baking Co., died of heart disease yesterday at his home, 1108 Lawn avenue. He was 69 years old.

"Back-to-Land" Colony Planned by Negroes Here

Group Seeks $1,000,000 in Federal Funds to Buy Tract in Southeast Missouri and Launch Homesteader Idea.

Application for a $1,000,000 Federal loan to pay for a Negro "back to the land" movement on a 3000-acre tract in Southeast Missouri has been forwarded to Washington by a group of St. Louis Negro business and professional men.

Plans for the colonization, described as a non-profit enterprise and endorsed by the Urban League, the Emergency Advisory Council for Negroes, and other welfare organizations call for the creation of a self-sustaining community managed through a co-operative corporation with landholders as shareholders. An option has been obtained on the tract, which includes the Negro town of Hunterville, in Stoddard County, and is contiguous to 7000 acres which may be acquired if the initial homestead proposition proves successful. It is 12 miles west of Sikeston and 170 miles south of St. Louis.

Prior to submitting the formal plan with the loan application the undertaking was discussed in detail at conference participated in by Government representatives and executives of the principal local welfare agencies. Subsequent correspondence with officials of the Federal Homestead Subsidies Department led to submission of the development plan.

300 Families First. Development of an initial colony of 300 families, or about 1800 persons, is contemplated in the plan which has been in preparation since October. Complete surveys have been made of the territory which now is occupied by about 40 families of Negro "share-croppers."

The basic idea is to give impoverished Negroes who have experienced maladjustment and misery in the city an opportunity to return to the farm and build for themselves permanent security. Some electricians, carpenters, painters and other artisans would be afforded opportunities there also, since it is planned to create an industrial unit as part of the general development of a completely self-sustaining community.

Applicants for acreage would be first approved by local social agencies whose inquiries would extend into such factors as ability, seriousness of purpose, and stability of character. Tracts of from one to 40 acres would be allocated, each tenant earning his share of the area and acquiring permanent possession of it through his crops and labor over the 30-year period of the loan. Each family would be required to maintain a garden, subsisting from their own plot as much as feasible.

Would Receive Equipment. Homesteaders would be allotted also a house, barn, team, stock, seed and implements necessary to the functioning of a well-regulated farm. No one would be permitted to have more land than may be efficiently cultivated.

The industrial community, which would be provided with electricity and water on a plan of co-operative ownership of industries and utilities, would include a refrigerating plant, a cannery and preserving factory, a creamery, cotton gin, and a freight trucking and dispatching service. Provision would be made for the manufacture of home products, knitted goods, wearing apparel, wooden ware and toys.

It is contemplated to furnish current to the farm houses and to provide a medical clinic, adequate schools, and a recreational and community center. Raising of goats would be encouraged, their milk handled through the creamery.

Control in Corporation. Control of the enterprise, even to directing what crops might be planted, would be vested in officers of the corporation, known as Missouri Farm Homesteads, Inc. It is promoted by Fred A. Jones, a real estate dealer of 2312 Market street. His associates include architects and engineers. Their compensation, as well as his own, he said today, would consist solely of established fees for their work in developing the subsistence colonization project.

In presenting the plan to the Government, statistics are submitted showing the plight of the urban Negro in Missouri, especially in St. Louis, and expressing the opinion that technological and economic changes have permanently made it impossible for some to obtain employment. Directors of the homestead project anticipate that Federal aid may be extended so that colonization may begin this spring.

BRIEFS ON STOCKYARDS CODES POSTPONED TO MARCH 16

Plan Seeks to Standardize Conditions of Sale at Public and Private Yards.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, March 9.—The Farm Administration has extended until March 16 the date for filing briefs and statements on the proposed code for stock yards operators.

The code, sponsored by the American Stock Yards Association of Kansas City, seeks to standardize conditions of sale of livestock at all public and private stockyards. It would also establish Federal grading and weighing, set uniform rates of hours and wages for employees, and require all operators to refrain from unfair competition. Proponents of the code declared at hearings last week that it was designed to place direct buying of livestock on the same basis as buying at terminal markets.

DR. FREDERIC S. DENNIS DIES

Retired New York Surgeon Victim of Heart Disease.

NEW YORK, March 9.—Dr. Frederic S. Dennis, surgeon, died yesterday of heart disease. He was 83 years old.

After retiring from active practice, Dr. Dennis began editing two volumes of his surgical papers. In connection with the forthcoming publication of that work, Dr. W. J. Mayo of Rochester, Minn., wrote: "No American made a greater contribution to modern surgery than he."

Showgirl Sues Argentine Husband.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, March 9.—Kathryn Ray, showgirl, filed a separation suit in Supreme Court yesterday against her husband, Martin Anzueto Alzaga, wealthy Argentine rancher. She charges he beat her innumerable times since they were married secretly last October in New Jersey.

25 AMERICAN GIRLS TO VISIT BELGIAN HOMES

Will Spend Two Weeks Next Summer to Promote Good Will.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, March 9.—Twenty-five American girls, selected from several exclusive schools, will visit in Belgian homes next summer to foster international good will.

The girls will spend two weeks with their Belgian hosts, attempting by their presence to build better understanding among the youth of all nations. Many will meet Belgian friends with whom they have long corresponded.

Under the guidance of Miss Edna MacDonough, executive secretary of the International Friendship League the girls will sail for Europe July 6.
Before going to Belgium they will visit England. From Belgium they will travel through Holland and France to the Passion Play at Oberammergau, Bavaria. A group of boys will make a similar tour later.

From a simple idea of exchanging letters with European children, the international good will movement has progressed since the World War to the point where annual visitations of selected American children are made. The children range in age from 12 to 20 years.

The letter-writing movement has resulted in more than 2,000,000 letters between children of 64 countries. The movement originally was confined to an exchange between American children and Europeans.

BOOK ON ANTHROPOLOGY
BY ST. LOUIS U. PROFESSOR

Rev. Albert Muntz, S. J., Obtained Material by Study of Primitive Tribes.

A textbook on "Cultural Anthropology," by the Rev. Albert Muntz,
S. J., professor of social anthropology in St. Louis University School of Social Service, has been published by the Bruce Publishing Co.
It brings together material gathered over a period of years from many reference works, by firsthand study among the Canadian Iroquois, Plains and Pueblo Indians, and with Missouri Province missionaries in British Honduras, among the Mayas and Caribs. It deals with the arts and crafts, social organization, religion, mythology, language and other culture traits of primitive people.

Latest in the university "Science and Culture Series," it has, in addition to the author's preface, a preface by the general editor, the Rev.
Joseph Huselein, S. J., who writes:
"A work on anthropology, embodying the latest results of investigation among the remnants of the so-called 'primitives' and free from the numerous misconceptions due to an evolutionary approach to this subject, should be heartily welcomed by schools and scholars. It must prove no less desirable to the non-specialist reader. A request for precisely such a manual has frequently been voiced, especially by teachers, during the last decade."

BOY, 16, ACCIDENTALLY SHOT Wounded by Friend Showing Him
How to Draw Weapon.

Vernon Minks, 16 years old, was shot in the right shoulder by his friend, Charles Johnstone, 18, who was demonstrating how to draw a revolver from a holster at the Johnstone home, 4015 Ohio avenue, yesterday afternoon.

Police were told that the revolver, which Johnstone had purchased from a mail order house, was accidentally discharged when he whipped it out of the holster.
Minks, residing at 2117 Stansbury street, was treated at Alexian Brothers' Hospital.

$25,000 Bequest to Hull House.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 9.—Miss Mary Rozet Smith, one of the founders of Hull House, bequeathed $25,000 to that settlement and $5000 to Miss Jane Addams, its director for many years. Miss Smith, 65 years old, died Feb. 22, leaving a $250,000, most of which will go to relatives.

Captured After Pistol Fight With Police

WALTER BEVIN.
WHO was captured after standing off Philadelphia police for two hours. He had taken two girls into a house, and when police ordered him to come downstairs he fired from a second-story window. He finally was routed by tear gas. As he rushed out police shot him. One of the girls was found in the house, wounded, and suffering from tear gas. The other girl also was affected by the gas. The picture shows Bevin, thought to be demented, being dragged across a street.

MARGIN TRADING RULES MODIFIED
IN EXCHANGE BILLBy New Plan Brokers May Carry Customers Until Accounts Reach 40 Pct.
of Market Value.By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 9.—Two vital modifications in the Fletcher-Rayburn stock market control bill, lessening margin and broker restrictions, were tentatively drafted into the revised measure today.In rough outline the relaxations would:
1. Permit brokers to carry customers until their margins dropped to 40 per cent.
2. Modify the segregation clause of the original draft to permit members of exchanges to trade for their own account and act as brokers on a cash basis.Both modifications represented big concessions from the original draft.
Under the new margin proposal, a buyer would have to put up 60 per cent cash in purchasing a security, but the broker would not be compelled to call him for further money until the stock had dropped to the point where the cash represented only 40 per cent of the market value.The second alteration would permit exchange members who did not extend margins to customers to trade in their own behalf. It was designed to meet the objections of broker dealers in cities outside of New York who contended the complete prohibition would throw them out of business.The Senate Banking Committee today recessed its hearings on stock market regulation until Monday, with word that a new draft of the Fletcher-Rayburn bill would be ready at that time. Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, who is drafting the bill for Chairman Fletcher, said: "It will be found to meet the objections and criticisms that seem to have merit."Eugene Black, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, told the committee he did not want to appear until he had completed drafting a report on the bill the committee had previously asked him to submit.Revision of the bill was undertaken after a hint from the White House that it should be confined to "well recognized evils of the exchange."
Meanwhile, Secretary Morgenthau called a special Treasury press conference to deny published reports he opposed the regulatory legislation. He said he had "never read it," taken "no part in it," and had "no opinion of it one way or another."

10 YEARS FOR FATAL FIRE

Negro Admitted Knocking Wife
Down and Tossing Away Match.

James Marsh, Negro, was sentenced to 10 years in the penitentiary today by Circuit Judge Hartmann when he pleaded guilty to a charge of second-degree murder, placed against him after his wife was burned to death Dec. 24 in a fire at their home, 5821 Water street.

Marsh admitted he had struck his wife during a quarrel and after knocking her down had left the house, throwing away a lighted match, thought to have started the blaze, as he departed. Mrs. Marsh's body was found after the fire pinned beneath a piece of furniture.

STABBED AT FREE CAFETERIA

Fred Hummel, Attendant, Tried to Eject Disorderly Negro.

Fred Hummel, attendant at the Bureau for Homeless Men, 1532 Pine street, was slashed on the face and abdomen by a young Negro whom Hummel sought to eject from the free cafeteria for disorderly conduct during the evening meal yesterday.

According to a report to police, the Negro tried to force his way to the head of the line. Hummel ordered him to leave. The Negro drew a knife and cut the attendant, then fled. Hummel, who is 29 years old and resides at 917 Carroll street, is in City Hospital.

$911 Worth of Cigarettes Stolen.
Sixteen cases of cigarettes, valued at $911, and $10 in cash were stolen early today from the Charles Levin Wholesale Tobacco Co., 324 West Main street, Belleville. The burglars pried open a door and carried the cases to a waiting automobile, residents of the neighborhood reported to police.

UTAH JUDGE REFUSES WRIT TO ENFORCE NRA CODE PRICES

Went Enjoin Beauty Shop Till Satisfied Official Scale Is Reasonable, He Says.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, March 9.—District Judge James H. Wolfe refused yesterday to enjoin a beauty shop proprietor from charging less than NRA code prices until he has satisfied himself that the code prices are reasonable.

"I refuse to use injunctive power unless satisfied as to the reasonableness of prices to consumers," Judge Wolfe said. "Costs, divided into myriad phases, should be the basis of prices. Thus far the consumer has not been given a fair place in the picture."

MRS. PINCHOT TAKES GEN. JOHNSON TO TASK

Challenges Him to Show Big Business Generally Is Not Violating NRA.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, March 9.—Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, wife of Pennsylvania's Governor, last night challenged Gen. Hugh S. Johnson to name "more than one town in Pennsylvania, with more than a dozen factories, where the NRA is not being violated 50 per cent or worse."

Addressing a meeting of employees of the Budd Manufacturing Co., Mrs. Pinchot read a letter she said she had written to Johnson. In it she wrote that she "would appreciate an answer and not a wise crack," to her challenge.

Asserting "big business had been allowed to strengthen its grip on the country" under the present NRA policy, Mrs. Pinchot's letter stated:

"I came to your forum last week in good faith, believing you were sincere in asking for suggestions for improving the NRA."

"I recommended a definite change of policy, saying that your present plan of allowing the steel trust, the automobile magnates and big business generally to flout the Government was un-American, utterly wrong and must inevitably lead to failure for the NRA."

"Your assistants, knowing the truth of what I said, stopped me several times to voice emphatic approval."

"That there are still many sweatshops cannot be denied. That thousands and thousands of workers are still paid a fraction of the legal minimum cannot be denied. That small businesses are in many cases being forced to the wall while big business has been allowed to strengthen its grip on the country cannot be denied."

"To put the matter in a nutshell, can you name me more than one town in Pennsylvania, with more than a dozen factories, where the NRA is not being violated 50 per cent or worse? I would appreciate an answer and not a wise crack."

SAYS ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY WON'T HURT THE MISSISSIPPI

Chief of Army Engineers Is Quoted by Chairman Pittman of Senate Committee.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—An official statement from the Army engineers that the St. Lawrence Waterway treaty would not injure the Mississippi inland waterway system was read to the Senate today by Chairman Pittman of the Foreign Relations Committee.

Leading the administration fight for ratification of the treaty, Pittman read a letter from Major-General Edward M. Markham, Chief of Army Engineers, to support his contention that the fear of the Mississippi states regarding the treaty was unfounded.

Markham, in the letter addressed to Pittman, said the inland waterway system is not dependent on the Great Lakes for its water supply.

"The available water supply with proper conservation is ample for any future needs of navigation without drawing upon the Great

STAVISKY CASE LAWYER JUMPS INTO THE SEINE
He Is Fished Out Promptly, Undamaged—Police Don't Know Why He Leaped.
By the Associated Press.
PARIS, March 9.—Police disclosed last night that Raymond Huber, prominent lawyer figuring in the investigation of the $40,000,000 Serge Stavisky fraud, had jumped into the Seine, but was promptly rescued, little the worse for the ducking. Police said they did not know the reason for his act. Huber was of the counsel for a secretary of Stavisky, one Romagnolo, now in custody.

The main investigation centered in the Paris underworld, where detectives were looking for a man "in a putty-colored overcoat," as the person who bought the knife found at the side of the murdered Judge Albert Prince. The man was reported seen in a bar in Montparnasse. He was also reported at several notorious dives in Montmartre.

Judge Prince, summoned as a witness in the Stavisky case, as the man who knew the swindler's "inside story," was poisoned and stabbed on a train between Dijon and Paris. He had been lured to Dijon by a fake message that his mother was ill. Papers that he carried were stolen.

Former Premier Edouard Daladier told the Parliamentary Investigating Committee today he had been warned that his Minister of the Interior, Eugene Frot, planned to place himself in power during recent disorders but that it was too late to do anything about it. Daladier, whose Government was forced to resign Feb. 8 after 19 persons were killed in rioting the previous day, said the warning was given him by Jean Chiappe.

Chiappe had been dismissed as Prefect of Paris Police a few days earlier because of his alleged friendship with Stavisky. Daladier charged that leaders of mobs from the South of France overthrew his Government "by force" through invasion of the Chamber of Deputies Feb. 8. He said that the riots resulted from "the clear intention of a minority to invade the Chamber" and force the will of the political minority upon the majority of Deputies. Daladier insisted there was never any thought of Frot intending "the organizing of bands or a conspiracy against the republican regime."

DOUMERGUE CUTS EXPENSES
Slashes $10,400,000 From Government Budget.
By the Associated Press.
PARIS, March 9.—Premier Doumergue, making the first use of his dictatorial decree powers, slashed 100,000,000 francs ($10,400,000) off the Government's expenses today.

The decrees marked the beginning of economies which ultimately are expected to exceed a billion francs before the budget is safely balanced. Savings are to be obtained by paring expenditures in various departments, including numerous subsidies.

DRIVER ROBBED OF HIS TAXI
Vehicle Seized in Springfield Found in Jefferson City.
SPRINGFIELD, Mo., March 9.—Two young men overpowered a taxi driver here Wednesday night, hauled him to within nine miles of Waynesville and fled with his new sedan. The car was found abandoned in Jefferson City yesterday.

Bill Holmes, the taxi driver, picked the two up on a call to the senior high school gymnasium about 10 o'clock. After telling him they wanted to go to St. Louis, they drew revolvers and one of the passengers took the steering wheel.

Shoemaker Opposes Assault Charge
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 9.—Trial of Representative Shoemaker of Minnesota on a charge of assaulting a taxicab driver was deferred today until next Thursday after the Congressman had served notice he would contest the case. After six hours of waiting and searching, two detectives arrested him last night as he stepped from his office in the House Office Building. The warrant was sworn out by the driver, Charles Newman.

MILK ADMINISTRATOR FOR ST. LOUIS NAMED

Former Assistant Manager for Sanitary Producers Appointed by Secretary Wallace.

Fred L. Shipley, assistant manager of the Sanitary Milk Producers, Inc., today was notified of his appointment as Milk Market Administrator for the St. Louis sales area by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

Shipley, formerly of Benton, Ill., resides at 7336 Forsythe boulevard. He will assume at once his duties as general supervisor of the new license for milk producers and distributors signed by Secretary Wallace last Friday.

The new license, already effective, made small changes in the price of milk paid producers under the agreement of last Nov. 25, which it replaced. However, the new license does not fix prices to be charged consumers although the Secretary may fix a minimum, but not a maximum, resale price later.

Distributors are required to file a bond as an evidence of good faith, and financial standing by March 17. They also must keep accurate records of transactions with producers and consumers, available for inspection by Administrator Shipley.

Distributors who wish to buy from new producers not serving the market at the time the agreement became effective, must obtain a permit from the Administrator.

CLOTHING BUREAU GIVES OUT 31,355 GARMENTS IN MONTH

70,130 Distributed Since Jan. 1, 38,000 Fewer Than Corresponding Period in 1933.

The Clothing Bureau of Citizens' Committee, 815 North Broadway, distributed 31,355 garments last month among 11,068 needy persons sent to it by relief agencies. The February report brought to 70,130 the total of garments given out this year.

The total is about 38,000 garments fewer than were distributed in the first two months of 1933. Mrs. Irvin Bettman, director, said the decrease was due in part to the CWA program, which enabled families formerly on relief to buy clothing they required, and in part to the fact that the bureau had fewer articles of clothing to distribute.

Contributions of discarded clothing are the bureau's chief source of supply. Those who have clothing to offer may bring it to the bureau, or it will be called for if they telephone CEntral 3365.

GETS DEATH FOR KILLING MAN AND WOMAN WITH AX

Grand Junction (Colo.) Defendant, Who Three Doctors Said Was Insane, Convicted by Jury.

By the Associated Press.
GRAND JUNCTION, Colo., March 9.—Charles E. Graham, 49 years old, who three doctors testified was insane, was convicted by a jury here last night of first-degree murder for the killing of Mrs. Verle Glazier, 55, and George Morris, 33, Jan. 14. The jury fixed the death penalty.

District Attorney William Haywood said Graham confessed. Ruby Antony quoted Graham as telling her, a day before the killing: "I'm going to have to kill George Morris because of loose talk about Verle Glazier. I may have to kill her, too, and if I get rid of her, will you go with me?" Mrs. Essie Grover, in whose house the killing took place, testified she saw Graham sharpening the ax with which Mrs. Glazier and Morris were killed.

Bellefonte Election Upheld.
By the Associated Press.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 9.—In a letter to State's Attorney Louis P. Zerweck, Attorney-General Otto Kerner today upheld the City Council's election of A. E. Kraemer as Chief Supervisor of Bellefonte. The ruling said that the County Board had no jurisdiction over the election, appointment or qualification of its members, and that the meeting of the City Council was legal.

WALLACE SAYS CONGRESS CAN'T HANDLE TARIFF

"We've Been Doing It 100 Years," Congressman Replies, "Lovely Days Gone," Is Response.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace told the House Ways and Means Committee yesterday it would be a "practicable impossibility" for Congress to handle "tariff negotiations in the delicate way" necessary under the administration's proposal for reciprocal trade agreements.

His view, expressed in urging quick enactment of the measure giving President Roosevelt full power to negotiate the tariff pacts, promptly aroused Republican committee members.

"We've been doing it for a hundred years," Representative Bacharach of New Jersey told him. "I do say that's a pretty broad statement that Congress can't handle it."

"This," said Wallace, "is a different situation from those lovely days."

What Foreign Trade Means. Addressing himself to the question from the standpoint of agriculture, Wallace said it was "exceedingly desirable that foreign purchasing power for our agricultural surpluses be restored."

Wallace said to restore this purchasing power and thereby to increase the market for American farm product exports would mean that the crop acreage control plan of the administration could be dropped.

"If," he said, "in the judgment of the Congress it cannot be, we'd like to know it so we can nerve ourselves up to continue restricting surplus acreage."

The Secretary said he thought it

THE LIFE OF OUR LORD .. by Charles Dickens

Written 85 years ago for his children and now published for the first time. The author's original spelling, punctuation, and capitalization have been faithfully followed.

CHAPTER THE FIFTH

ONE of the Pharisees begged Our Saviour to go into his house, and eat with him. And while Our Saviour sat eating at the table, there crept into the room a woman, of that city, who had led a bad and sinful life, and was ashamed that the Son of God should see her; and yet she trusted so much to His goodness and His compassion for all, who having done wrong were truly sorry for it in their hearts, that, by little and little, she went behind the seat on which He sat, and dropped down at His feet, and wetted them with her sorrowful tears; then she kissed them and dried them on her long hair, and rubbed them with some sweet-smelling ointment she had brought with her in a box. Her name was Mary Magdalene.

When the Pharisee saw that Jesus permitted this woman to touch Him, he said within himself that Jesus did not know how wicked she had been. But Jesus Christ, who knew his thoughts, said to him "Simon—for that was his name—"if a man had debtors, one of whom owed him five hundred pence, and one of whom owed him only fifty pence, and he forgave them both their debts, which of those two debtors do you think would love him most?" Simon answered "I suppose that one whom he forgave most." Jesus told him he was right, and said "As God forgives this woman so much sin, she will love Him, I hope, the more." And He said to her, "God forgives you!" The company who were present wondered that Jesus Christ had power to forgive sins, but God had given it to Him. And the woman thanking Him for all His mercy, went away.

WE LEARN from this, that we must always forgive those who have done us any harm, when they come to us and say they are truly sorry for it. Even if they do not come and say so, we must still forgive them, and never hate them or be unkind to them, if we would hope that God will forgive us.

After this, there was a great feast of the Jews, and Jesus Christ went to Jerusalem. There was, near the sheep market in that place, a pool, called Bethesda, having five gates to it; and at the time of the year when that feast took place great numbers of sick people and cripples went to this pool to bathe in it: believing that an angel came and stirred the water, and that whoever went in first after the angel had done so, was cured of any illness, he or she had, whatever it might be. Among these poor persons, was one man who had been ill, thirty eight years; and he told Jesus Christ (who took pity on him when he saw him lying on his bed alone with no one to help him) that he never could be dipped in the pool, because he was so weak and ill that he could not move to get there. Our Saviour said to him, "take up thy bed and go away." And he went away quite well.

Many Jews saw this; and when they saw it, they hated Jesus Christ the more: knowing that the people, being taught and cured by him, would not believe their Priests, who told the people what was not true, and deceived them. So they said to one another that Jesus Christ should be killed, because He cured people on the Sabbath Day (which was against their strict law) and because He called himself the Son of God. And they tried to raise enemies against Him, and to get the crowd in the streets to murder Him.

Last Survivor of Author's Children

The late Sir Henry Fielding Dickens, with Lady Dickens and their grandson, Philip, in the doorway of their London home. It was his death, recently which made possible the publication of "The Life of Our Lord."

For the convenience of those who failed to save the early installments of "The Life of Our Lord," the Post-Dispatch is reprinting the first five chapters which will be mailed to anyone sending in a request, with stamp for postage. Address letter to the Circulation Department.

BUT the crowd followed Him wherever He went, blessing Him, and praying to be taught and cured; for they knew He did nothing but Good. Jesus going with His disciples over a sea, called the Sea of Tiberias, and sitting with them on a hill-side, saw great numbers of these poor people waiting below, and said to the apostle Philip, "Where shall we buy bread, that they may eat and be refreshed, after their long journey?" Philip answered, "Lord, two hundred pennyworth of bread would not be enough for so many people, and we have none." "We have only," said another apostle—Andrew, Simon Peter's brother—"five small barley loaves, and two little fish, belonging to a lad who is among us. What are they, among so many!" Jesus Christ said, "Let them all sit down!" They did; there being a great deal of grass in that place. When they were all seated, Jesus took the bread, and looked up to Heaven, and blessed it, and broke it, and handed it in pieces to the apostles, who handed it to the people. And of those five little loaves, and two fish, five thousand men, besides women and children ate, and had enough; and when they were all satisfied, there were gathered up twelve baskets full of what was left. This was another of the Miracles of Jesus Christ.

Our Saviour then sent His disciples away in a boat, across the water, and said He would follow them presently, when He had dismissed the people. The people being gone, He remained by himself to pray: so that the night came on, and the disciples were still rowing on the water in their boat, wondering when Christ would come. Late in the night, when the wind was against them and the waves were running high, they saw Him coming walking towards them on the water, as if it were dry land.

WHEN they saw this, they were terrified, and cried out, for Jesus said, "It is I, Be not afraid!" Peter, taking courage, said, "Lord, if it be Thou, tell me to come to Thee upon the water." Jesus Christ said, "Come!" Peter then walked towards Him, but seeing the angry waves and hearing the wind roar, he was frightened and began to sink, and would have done so, but that Jesus took him by the hand, and led him into the boat. Then, in a moment, the wind went down; and the disciples said to one another, "It is true! He is the Son of God!"

Jesus did many more miracles after this happened and cured the sick in great numbers: making the lame walk, and the dumb speak, and the blind see. And being again surrounded by a great crowd who were faint and hungry, and had been with Him for three days eating little, He took from His disciples seven loaves and a few fish, and again divided them among the people who were four-thousand in number. They all ate, and had enough; and of what was left, there were gathered up seven baskets full.

He now divided the disciples, and sent them into many towns and villages, teaching the people, and giving them power to cure, in the name of God, all those who were ill. And at this time He began to tell them (for He knew what would happen) that He must one day go to Jerusalem where He would suffer a great deal, and where He would certainly be put to Death. But He said to them that on the third day after He was dead, He would rise from the grave, and ascend to Heaven, where He would sit at the right hand of God, bestowing God's pardon to sinners.

DEGREE NO LONGER NEEDED TO FIGHT DUEL IN GERMANY

Hitler Wants All Men to Be Able to Wield Sword and Guard Honor.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, March 9.—One needs no college diploma to fight a duel in Germany now, says "Der Wegweiser."

The paper said it learned today that "Chancellor Hitler desires every German to know how to wield the sword and to be extremely jealous of his honor." Heretofore class prejudice, the paper pointed out, barred "satisfaction at arms" for a person who had no university degree.

NEW FRENCH PLAN TO KEEP OUT FOREIGN LABORERS

Government Favors Taxing Transient Workers Who Escape Income Tax.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, March 9.—The French Government is supporting a plan to shut out excess foreign workers in order to reduce unemployment. A tax is proposed for transient laborers who escape the income tax. Officials were told that 900,000 foreigners are working in this country while there are 200,000 Frenchmen unemployed and able to work. The Government recently caused the defeat of a bill imposing a 10 per cent tax on the employers of foreign labor, but indicated yesterday it favored a tax on foreign professional and other workers who remain in France less than a year.

SPAIN ACTS TO PREVENT STRIKE

Closes Headquarters of Opposition Parties in Madrid.

By the Associated Press.

MADRID, March 9.—The Government closed the headquarters of the Syndicalists, Communists, Fascists and Young Socialists today. It was the first display of force under the "state of alarm," recently decreed.

Threats of new strikes and lock-outs prompted the step, explanations said. The Government was said to be ready to close similar centers throughout Spain if necessary. Civil guards and carabinieri were dispatched to Jaca, frontier town near Huesca. A revolutionary plot was reported discovered there. Communists and Socialists threatened to strike during Holy Week if religious processions, suspended for the last two years, are resumed.

FIGHTING AMONG THE MOORS

Several Reported Killed in Clash in Spanish West Africa.

By the Associated Press.

LAS PALMAS, Canary Islands, March 9.—Fighting among the Moors near Cape Juby, Rio de Oro, a Spanish possession on the west coast of Africa, was reported here yesterday. Several of the Moors were reported killed, but details were lacking.

An army report said the fight was entirely between Moors and that Spanish troops were not involved except to suppress the strife after it had started.

IOWA SENATOR ASSAILS FEDERAL FINANCIAL POLICY

Dickinson (Rep.) Says U. S. Debt Increased Faster Than Country Gained Economically.

"VICIOUS CIRCLE OF SECURITIES"

Declares Big Business Got Advantage Under NRA Through Anti-Trust Law Suspension.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,

WASHINGTON, March 9.—"The theory that we can borrow ourselves back to prosperity, or that we can waste the taxpayers' money without imposing additional tax burdens on our people is erroneous," Senator L. J. Dickinson (Rep.) of Iowa, said in a speech prepared for delivery last night before the Traffic Club of Pittsburgh.

In a three-fold attack upon the Roosevelt administration, Dickinson criticized its fiscal policies, the Agricultural Adjustment Act and the National Recovery Act. Pointing out that the report of the International Statistical Bureau of New York showed an increase of five and one-half billion dollars in the national income for the year 1933 over the year 1932, he compared this figure with an increase of more than seven billion dollars in the national debt during the same period.

"This indicates," the Iowa Senator said, "that we have gone in debt more than the economic income gain for the entire period. It is the old story of the frog attempting to get out of the well by crawling up two feet each day and falling back three feet each night. Private capital is not replacing Government investment in industry or finance."

Asserting that the Government now has practically as much money invested in the banking business as the private stockholders, the Iowa Senator continued: "We are issuing Government securities on one hand; converting them into cash; using the cash for payment of benefits under the various bureaus of the Government; it is then re-deposited in the bank."

"We create a vicious circle of Government securities taking the place of private capital, and our banks become purely instrumentalities for the purchase of such securities."

Government Business Monopoly Being Set Up in Virgin Islands To Try Out Roosevelt's Ideas

Workers in Industry to Share 50 Pct. of Profits —Extension of Program to Puerto Rico Proposed.

(Copyright, 1934.)

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Using the United States-owned Virgin Islands as a proving ground, President Roosevelt is starting a program of Government participation in business which may eventually be tried out in the United States. At the President's orders, and backed with $1,000,000 initial capital, the United States is setting up a Government monopoly of all Virgin Islands industries, in which workers will share 50 per cent of the profits.

Studies are under way in Puerto Rico, adjoining the Virgin Islands, preliminary to trying a similar set-up there as a solution for Puerto Rico's economic distress.

Government business ventures in the United States proper, based on developments in its West Indian proving grounds, will be confined to a possible Government cement industry, to offset what Secretary of Interior Ickes and other presidential advisers consider "a monopoly in that business, and to establishment of certain industries among tribes of the Indian territories."

Run on Market This Fall.

Government-manufactured Virgin Islands rum will be on the American market this fall, according to present plans, as the first challenge to an American industry, which in this instance is the "whisky ring" blamed by Government officials for high prices and poor liquor.

An opinion has been asked of the Attorney-General as to the legal phases of the initial set-up in the Virgin Islands. Originating with Oscar Chapman, Assistant Secretary of the Interior, in collaboration with Gov. Paul Pearson of the Virgin Islands, the plan was approved by the President and recently the initial $1,000,000 capital was provided from Government sources.

The President appointed an advisory council for Gov. Pearson, including, besides Secretary of Interior Ickes, one of his most trusted advisers, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace; George Foster Peabody, philanthropist; Prof. Charles W. Taussig, economist; Dr. Mordcaai Johnson, dean of Howard University, Negro institution; Walter White, secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People; and Alfred K. Stern, Chicago business man.

Prof. Taussig has just returned from the Virgin Islands and Gov. Pearson is expected in Washington soon to complete business arrangements.

Extension of the plan to Puerto Rico is expected to be opposed by large American interests in the island. Prof. Rexford Tugwell and Mrs. Roosevelt are now in the island investigating the situation.

U. S. Bought Islands in 1917. The Virgin Islands, bought from Denmark in 1917 as a war measure, are small islands. Prohibition virtually reduced the people to paupers as the island formerly was noted for an exceptional rum and for sugar and bay rum manufacture.

The United States has options on 600 acres of the small area of available land, at most 20,000 acres, as the islands are very mountainous. The Government also has acquired the plants and other equipment.

The Government tract will be worked in blocks of 5 to 10 acres, each furnishing employment for three or four workers. The islands produce a relatively small sugar crop, most of which will be utilized in the Government's rum manufacture. About 700 workers will be employed in the sugar mill. The island is largely populated by Negroes in the last stages of destitution. Half of any profits will

HITLER PLEDGES MODERATION IF GERMANY REARMS

Says in Note, Newly-Published, That Action Cannot Be Viewed in Europe as "Offensive Menace."

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, March 9.—The League of Nations issued simultaneously in Geneva, London, Berlin and Paris today a collection of all disarmament documents exchanged by those Governments.

Disclosures through publication deepened pessimism here over prospects of disarmament and concerning the political situation in Europe. France retorted to Germany that the Reich had already begun to rearm in defiance of treaties.

Declaring its readiness to disarm "down to the last gun," Germany maintains disarmament of other European countries hinges on the reduction of armaments in every country of the world, but "nobody believes any longer in the possibility of a general international disarmament."

The document shows that in a memorandum of Dec. 18, 1933, Germany warned France that, as heavily-armed countries had no intention of disarming or did not feel in a position to do so, Germany "is entitled to obtain in one way or another equality of treatment as regards her own security."

An encouraging angle was a proposal by Chancellor Hitler for European nations to guarantee an unconditional maintenance of peace by pacts of non-aggression. He pledged Germany would "settle amicably any dispute between France and Germany."

Germany demands complete equality rights, asks that heavily-armed states undertake not to exceed their present level of armaments, and declares Germany will adhere to a convention agreeing to show such moderation in taking equality rights "that cannot be regarded by any European Power as an offensive menace."

Louis Barthou, now French Foreign Minister, notified President Henderson of the disarmament conference Feb. 10 that the increasing pace with which certain countries were continuing to rearm in violation of treaties necessitates "a rapid solution of conference problems."

After directing this broadside against Germany, the Foreign Minister announced France would not reduce armaments if the immediate rearmament of Germany were beyond that permitted by the Treaty of Versailles.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Prescription for Prosperity.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I WAS much interested in your editorial, "Putting the Farmer in a Strait-Jacket." In the closing paragraph you touch briefly the heart of the matter. Not only is our viewpoint so distorted by long-established economic habits as to make us indisposed to come to grips with reality, but it is certain that if we equalized income, we would not have to destroy pigs. Neither would we have to destroy or limit any form of actual or possible production.
As a matter of fact, our attitude toward social justice has become so prostituted by concepts derived from an obsolete economic order as to result in a very definite attempt to throttle the output of powerful nation much below the potential demands of its people. The following is so self-evident as to be almost a truism:

Never, even during periods of greatest prosperity, are the potential demands of our people wholly satisfied. Not because the wealth is not present, or the income possible; not because the people do not desire those things that would enable them to live more abundantly, but because our economic system so operates as to concentrate existing or newly-created wealth at points where relatively only a small amount is available to stimulate purchasing power.

Should an economic order be devised and adopted that would fairly equalize incomes, thus preventing our channels of distribution from becoming clogged and production facilities paralyzed, this nation would enter a period of sustained prosperity such as the world has never known. It is not probable that we would need to export a single dollar's worth of goods, so urgent would the demand be at home.
ARTHUR JOHNSON.
Marceline, Mo.

On Saving the Eugene Field House.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I HAVE made a few talks to clubs, etc., in our city on the preservation of old homes. They all were heartily in favor of the old house in which Eugene Field lived on Broadway being preserved.
Eight public-spirited citizens have promised to write letters of protest, and many have expressed regret and fear of its falling into the hands of the wreckers. The Post-Dispatch has been public-spirited in starting sentiment to preserve this home for a shrine—please keep it going.
SUSAN LOUISE MARSH.

An Appreciation of Charles Dickens.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
PERMIT me to commend your progressive paper upon its publication of Charles Dickens' "Life of Our Lord." Dickens is always an intellectual feast. He is a restful and instructive diversion, and touches every chord of the human mind. Humor and pathos flow from almost all his lines, and the scenes of his day, pictured from the occurrences of the metropolis of the earth, are perpetuated and preserved for the beneficial consideration of people of all time.

As long as the English language is spoken, Dickens shall be read, and no one who reads him can fail to be helped thereby. No one can estimate the benefits which he has conferred upon the helpless little children of this world. In his work, he did much to bring the rich into sympathetic contact with the poor. He is without doubt one of the greatest contributors to the improvement of society humanity ever knew.
JOSEPH REILLY.

Favors Child Labor Law.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
YOUR appeal to Mr. Roosevelt to urge a Federal child labor law upon Congress should meet with popular approval. Why a constitutional amendment? Wasn't the Constitution primarily written to insure all Americans against exploitation? Isn't protection against exploitation in its various forms the chief justification of government itself?
The general welfare clause of the Constitution gives Congress broad powers which it habitually ignores. A child labor law would undoubtedly be a provision for the general welfare.
FLORENCE S. EARLING.

Getting Down to Fundamentals.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
ONE of your contributors seemed much concerned over the fact that married women work outside the home. Has it occurred to him that his time might be better spent seeking to right the thing that must be fundamentally wrong when men are compelled to take jobs from women in order to exist?
Let's give our wives well-built homes—there are architects and builders to spare; and artistic decorations—hungry artists are longing to create; and beautiful wall and floor coverings—we've empty looms and idle weavers; and clothing of exquisite texture and design—we have the materials and designers; and well-born children with the time to acquire the knowledge to rear them properly.
In other words, solve the fundamental problem of distribution and the problem of married women working outside the home will be automatically solved.
Johnston City, Ill. Z. A.

TO BE OR NOT TO BE?

If American industry has been in any doubt of what is in store for it, that doubt was entirely dissolved by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, Administrator of the NRA, in his address Wednesday night to the great assemblage of code authorities gathered in Washington this week.

The General was in rare form. He is a soldier who has a commission from his commander-in-chief. He understands what that commission is, and he did not mince words telling industry what it is. We are at war. This is just as true as if we were engaged in physical combat with a foreign foe. We are straining the national credit in exactly the same way. We are calling upon the people in exactly the same way. We are commanding men in exactly the same way. We are commanding industry precisely as we commanded it when we were at war with Germany.

Gen. Johnson put the whole matter flatly, picturesquely, finally. No other such public address has been made in the United States within our memory. Temperamental the General may be. He may sometimes be tactless. He is unquestionably often temperate of speech. Nevertheless, he was on Wednesday night what all great soldiers have been in battle, and he displayed much the same qualities that have characterized them all.

The Gen. Grants, the Shermans, Jacksons, et al., are not diplomats and therefore are not skilled in the fine art of making words conceal thought. They think and act in terms essential to their craft. So it is with Gen. Johnson. He laid into the industrialists much as Samson laid into the Philistines, albeit at times, as his critics charge, with pretty much the same weapon. He smote them hip and thigh. Stunned, as they doubtless were, by his tremendous onset, they at last could only applaud a man who appeals to their enlightened self-interest and whose cause is their own.

Before him sat the hierarchy of our great industrial machine. No appeal to reason could surpass that which the fiery soldier made to these men. He urged them to stay in Washington and "act before Congress acts." He sought to dissuade them from sophistry as to company unions, as he besought them to accept the co-operation of labor and the Government. Apropos the Budds and Weirs, he said he would rather deal with the labor leaders of the United States than with any Frankenstein industry might set up. He urged them to save themselves by making the sacrifices without which capitalism cannot hope to endure. His voice boomed like a cannon when he said of the critical issue between capital and labor, of the menace of industrial warfare upon such a scale as no country has ever known: "Men, let us settle this matter here and now, and settle it forever!"

It is a dramatic hour, an hour in which American capitalism, like Hamlet, propounds the problem: To be or not to be. Whether to be rational or to perish. Whether to join with the Government in doing what must be done to put the people to work, or to sink like Achilles because it can no longer enjoy the riches and privileges of laissez-faire.

There is no longer any dispute as to the essentials of this great debate. Capital did take excessive gains out of industry. The record proves it. It did turn too much of that profit back into the construction of more plants and more production. The record proves it. It did immensely enrich a few people while impoverishing our great domestic market. The record proves it. It cannot recover until it restores the purchasing power of the people. The record proves it.

Gen. Johnson reminded the industrialists that the Bourbon is never supposed to learn. He admonished them that if the Bourbon ever is to learn, he must do it now in the United States. The lot of the Bourbon in history has been consistently unhappy. Is American capitalism to add only one more sorry chapter to that grim tale?

What happens at Washington within the next few days will tell the story. We have faith in the intelligence and the good sense of our industrial leaders. We believe they will not immolate themselves upon the fires of that revolt which smolders beneath unemployment and destitution.

A RARE OPPORTUNITY.

Literally speaking, St. Louis is going to have a greater appreciation tomorrow than it has today of the thrills afforded by bird study. How much greater depends on how many persons go to the Soldan High School Auditorium tonight to hear Dr. A. A. Allen, professor of ornithology at Cornell University, talk on "Songs and Courtship of Birds," and to see and hear his sound pictures exhibited under the auspices of the Academy of Science and the Bird Club.

Those who attend have every assurance that, as soon as the lights are put out, the auditorium will be transformed into the next best thing to the bird world out-of-doors. The mockingbird will sing its rich song of the South; the ruffed grouse will reveal the secret of the queer drumming that once was common in the Missouri woodland; the tailless diving grebe will sound the plaintive wail that can be heard along fresh water courses. And these are only three performers from an all-star cast. It is obvious to all who know the delights of birding that Dr. Allen has put sound pictures to one of their finest uses. His appearance warrants a packed auditorium, and it is to be hoped that many of his hearers will be those busy persons who have never taken time to learn the difference between the cardinal's cheery whistle and the melodious call of the meadowlark.

ROOSEVELT AND THE AIR MAIL.

The wild charges that Mr. Roosevelt was wrecking civil aviation in this country, by his drastic action on the air mail contracts, should now subside, in view of his letter to congressional leaders. The President's objective is one which all honorable citizens will share: "Honest payment for honest services." The public has been inconvenienced by the curtailment of air mail routes, made necessary when the army took over the job, and will be glad to have full service restored, though there was little doubt that the skeletonized schedules were only a temporary expedient. We expressed the opinion more than three weeks ago that "no innocent person or corporation will be made to suffer, but the taxpayers must also be protected." This is what the President now is setting out to do.

Under the terms outlined by Mr. Roosevelt, the evils exposed in the air mail investigation will be abolished. There will be no more collusive bidding, no excessive payments, no political wire-pulling, no unnecessary routes, no evasion of requirements by consolidations and interlocking managements. As to his demand that no contracts should be let to companies whose officers were party to obtaining former contracts "under circumstances which were clearly contrary to good faith and public policy," prolonged debate may be expected. The provision is a guarantee, however, of a thorough housecleaning of the unsavory mess unearthed by the inquiry. Why should there be compromise with the offenders? Plenty of other air lines, frozen out by the political manipulations of the past, stand ready to take up the work.

Mr. Roosevelt, as an incident in his Herculean task of making the country honest, has charted the way for Congress to purify the air mail system.

POLITICS AND PUBLIC HEALTH.

Suits for $600,000 damages have been filed against Dr. Herman Bundesen, City Health Commissioner of Chicago, and the Congress Hotel by Dr. and Mrs. Clarence Boren of Marinette, Wis., who say that they contracted amoebic dysentery in Chicago last year. The suits charge that information of the epidemic was suppressed for the financial gain of the hotel and to protect the reputation of Dr. Bundesen. More than 100 similar suits have been filed elsewhere in the country by victims of amoebic dysentery, who claim to have contracted it in Chicago.

If the medical profession throughout the country had been put on notice that amoebic dysentery was raging in Chicago, it is possible many of the more than 40 lives that were lost could have been saved, and the sufferings of hundreds of persons to whom it did not prove fatal could have been alleviated. In a series of editorials, the Post-Dispatch has condemned the Chicago authorities for not broadcasting the developments of the epidemic as they unfolded, thus enabling physicians to be on guard for it. A rare disease and one usually associated with the tropics, few doctors would suspect its presence without knowledge of the Chicago epidemic. As it was, in many cases, the disease was diagnosed as appendicitis and unnecessary operations were performed.

The moral of this occurrence, it seems to us, is plain. It is that health authorities should be completely divorced from all considerations except those in their very special field. If we permit politics or business to dictate public health policies, we may as well abandon public health departments entirely, and that, of course, would expose the population to plagues which would kill our people by the hundreds of thousands.

We repeat what we have said before, that, in brilliant contrast to the performance at Chicago, St. Louis health authorities advised the country of every step in last summer's encephalitis epidemic and employed every possible scientific method to combat and defeat it. It was a triumph of modern public health work, and it was made possible by Mayor Dickmann's splendid policy of organizing the St. Louis Health Department on a strictly non-political basis. We hope he will continue to guard this invaluable department against the incursion of greedy politicians who, if they had their way, would wreck it and endanger public health just to obtain a few more jobs for their constituents.

WHAT A WOMAN!

They are, let us remember, our own people. Puerto Rico is as American as Plymouth Rock; the Virgin Islands as Martha's Vineyard. So Mrs. Roosevelt, down there in the West Indies, is at home.

She is at home everywhere under the flag. Life always has been for her a breathless adventure, brimming over with places to go, with things to do, with affairs to inquire into, with facts to be ascertained.

Somebody has defined an educated person as one who is never bored. By that token, Mrs. Roosevelt may be crowned Queen of Learning. She is ubiquity, velocity, intellectual curiosity. So far from cramping her style, the White House and its traditions have accelerated her tempo.

She lives in the kaleidoscope of the news. Her concern spans the social and economic antipodes—from the needs of common days to lavender and lace. She incarnates the New Deal. There are those who demur; who feel it were better form to withdraw from the glare, occasionally at least, into the cool isolation of the old ritualistic dignity. All right. It is not for us to overrule or sustain the objection.

But this visit of the First Lady to the islands is a courtesy our distant cousins will never forget. It is more than a courtesy. It is a genuine solicitude. It is a mission of mercy. They have had hard going down there. But Washington has not forgotten them. CWA has brought hope to a hopeless land, there as here.

And always Mrs. Roosevelt seems to be having such a grand time. What a woman! One might say, in the current metaphor of admiring astonishment, What a man!

Well, the brewers made most of us home-brewers once before, and perhaps they'll do it again.

A SPLENDID INSTITUTION.

Like other character-building institutions, the Y. M. H. A. Y. W. H. A. has had to fight for its life during the depression. It has done so by resorting to every conceivable economy, cutting its expenses from $124,800 in 1929 to approximately $76,000 in 1933. For 1934, it must raise $40,000 by popular subscription, to supplement the revenue it collects from dues and fees of various kinds. The week of March 18-25 has been set aside for this purpose.

The work done by the Y. M. H. A. Y. W. H. A. is not readily reducible to statistics. The institution deals in human values. It offers physical, mental and moral sustenance to thousands of young persons. Its gymnasium and swimming pool, its clubs, classes and library, its dances and parties provide amusement, stimulation and the means of wholesome development to many persons, young and old. The building at Union boulevard and Enright avenue is the focal point of a fine community life.

In addition to its regular activities, the Y. M. H. A. Y. W. H. A. has performed an outstanding service to St. Louis through its Liberal Forum, which brings here celebrated speakers. Among them have been Norman Thomas, Clarence Darrow, Louis Fischer, Norman Hapgood, Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins and Dr. Stephen S. Wise. We should have difficulty in over-emphasizing the value of the Liberal Forum's impact upon St. Louis' intellectual life.

We urge St. Louis to support this splendid institution, whose hospitality is open to all persons, regardless of class or creed. It has made for itself so definite a place in the community that its failure to continue dispensing happiness and appreciation of the very best things in life is quite unthinkable.

Senator Fess of Ohio also has a son whom an air mail company paid $3000 for two days' work. And unless our Latin has tripped us up badly, that's a jolly good per diem.

GEN. JOHNSON: HE ISN'T BLIND—HE JUST DOESN'T GIVE A DAMN.

The American Way

THERE was a time in our exuberant youth when no foreigner could teach us anything. But now, if I understand my friend, Mark Sullivan, our blood is sluggish and we are old and it is only from Rome or from Moscow that we can learn anything new. Our creative power, it seems, is exhausted. We cannot do again what we have done before; we cannot master our own problems in our own way. The fountain of political inspiration are now located in Italy and in Russia. They have run dry in the United States.

Those who reason in this fashion make the simple mistake of seizing upon a superficial and partial resemblance and calling it the essence of the thing. It would be almost as reasonable to say that Nero, Charlemagne, Louis XIV, the Great Mogul and Franklin D. Roosevelt are alike because all of them have exercised more power than Calvin Coolidge and Herbert Hoover.

The concentration of authority in Washington today is not Fascism in any sense of the word. It is not sustained by a private army. The press is free. Elections are free. There is no censorship. There are no concentration camps. The apparatus and the spirit of Fascism are wholly absent. Mr. Roosevelt is governing, not by force, but by popularity based on results achieved. Does anyone think he could hold his power if he failed to produce results and lost his popularity? If he could not, then he is no dictator. He is a democratic statesman, governing with the consent of the people. Were he a dictator, he could not only hold his power indefinitely but compel the people to like the results.

The complementary notion that the New Deal is a Communist-planned economy in sheep's clothing rests on equally far-fetched analogies. Sometimes it comes from mere trifling with words, as, for example, when men imagine that we are imitating Russia because the Russians have a five-year plan and because Mr. Roosevelt likes to use the word "planning." The Russians have no illusions about the vast differences between their planning and ours. Some Americans have.

But just as everything vitally characteristic of Fascism is left out of our concentration of authority, so everything vitally characteristic of Communism is left out of our present experiments in public control, NRA and AAA, whatever their virtues and merits, accept as their basic premise the very premises which Communism most resolutely rejects. That is to say, they recognize the diversity of interests among employees, employers, investors and consumers, and attempt to conciliate and harmonize them. The essence of Communism is to regard these interests as irreconcilable, and to aboi-ish them by merging all interests in that of the working class.

The difference between the two conceptions are infinitely greater than the similarities. It is one thing to plan for a conciliation of interests and a social equilibrium based on redressing the balance of power among farmers, workers and capitalists. It is a radically different thing to plan through a dictatorship of the proletariat.

A careful and objective examination of the measures taken in this past year, and of the way the executive powers have actually been exercised, will show, I believe, that the social philosophy of the New Deal is in spirit, in objective and in method wholly alien to Fascism and Communism. And why should it not be? What reason is there to think that ideas formulated in Italy for Italians and in Russia for Russians should dominate Americans?

Communism has been established in a country which was almost completely without a highly developed capitalistic order. Fascism has been established in a few countries of Central Europe which are without the traditions of democracy. Is there any ground for thinking that we have to learn our economics from a country which began to emerge from feudalism 15 years ago or our politics from countries which, with only the briefest interruptions, have been accustomed to autocracy through their history?

My own conviction is that we are finding our own way through the difficulties of the modern world, and that instead of imitating others, we shall perhaps once again set the example to others. Why not? For a hundred years, we never doubted the promise of American life. We never wavered in the conviction that in the New World there was the prospect of a good life for free men. We need not doubt it now. In this past year, we have justified that faith. In the midst of unparalleled difficulties, the American democracy has shown a discipline, a resourcefulness, a fertility of invention, and a capacity to produce leadership and respond to it which enable us to stand up before all the world and avow our confidence in our own strength, our own purposes and our own way of life.

NO PHILIPPINE BASES.

From the Philadelphia Evening Public Ledger.

THE President's request that Congress revive the Philippine independence bill, which automatically expired early this year because of failure of the Philippines to accept its terms, suggests one important change in the legislation. Instead of the United States retaining an option on keeping certain military and naval bases in the islands after their independence, as the old measure permitted, he proposes that the bases be relinquished simultaneously with independence.

This is a wise recommendation. In order to prevent future complications in the Far East, Uncle Sam should make withdrawal complete when and if the Philippines are freed from American control. The United States Government should not only refrain from keeping ships or men in the islands but should refuse to assume any responsibility for maintaining their freedom. "Get out and stay out" is the only proper course.

Mississippi Flood Prospects

By Editorial Research Reports.

THE War Department has announced that "already enough work has been done to protect the Mississippi Valley against all but the greater floods, and it seems certain that the construction works will be completed within the time contemplated (10 years)." The Mississippi delta region and in large areas bordering tributaries of the Mississippi.

The late Dr. H. C. Frankfield, head of the River and Flood Division of the United States Weather Bureau, remarked to colleagues in December, 1926, that "the stage is set for a major flood in the Mississippi Valley." Heavy snows and rainfall through the months of January, February and March brought on one of the greatest floods in history—a flood that lasted from mid-April to June, 1927, and resulted in economic disaster for the Mississippi delta region and in large areas bordering tributaries of the Mississippi.

In contrast to conditions prevailing at the end of the winter of 1926-27, the present period presents a situation of extreme dryness. The Mississippi delta region of a flood of consequence. The Mississippi River at many places is now at the lowest stages recorded in the history of the Weather Bureau. At St. Louis on March 1, 1927, the water level was 13 feet. On March 5, 1934, the level was one foot and two days previously the water had fallen below the gauge.

Water Stages in Mississippi River and Tributaries (Zero on Weather Bureau gauge based on previous low water level records.)

At	March 1, 1927	March 5, 1934
At Peoria (Illinois River).....	12 feet	0.5 feet
Kansas City.....	10 feet	4.4 feet
St. Louis.....	13 feet	14.5 feet
Cincinnati.....	40 feet	27 feet
Memphis.....	42 feet	30 feet
Vicksburg.....	49 feet	8 feet

At New Orleans, where the flood of 1927 struck most heavily, the river was up to 16 feet on the gauge March 3, 1927, while on March 5, this year, the gauge reading was only 1.8 feet.

During the summer and autumn of 1924 there was unprecedented rainfall in the upper Mississippi River basin. On Oct. 19, when normally the river would have been at its lowest, the Illinois went above the high-water mark of 1844. Storms swept across the whole Mississippi drainage basin during the autumn of that year, the soil became thoroughly saturated and practically every tributary to the Mississippi was running with bare full.

As spring approaches this year, the soil throughout the whole drainage area is drier than it has been for many years. During the winter, there was less than normal precipitation in the whole area from the Allegheny Mountains west to the Dakotas, Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma. At present the water is high in the Tennessee River near Chattanooga, in the Cumberland and in the Ohio at Cincinnati, but it is certain that these tributaries will not greatly affect the water levels in the Mississippi. The Red River in Louisiana, also is up, but is expected to be only slightly above the flood stage.

The extent to which the low river stages are due to straightened channels and other flood control works that have been completed in the last five or six years is a matter of conjecture, but it is assumed the improvements are partly responsible.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—ARTHUR MULLEN can be given credit for one thing. He does not surrender without a struggle.

In the case of his membership on the Democratic National Committee from Nebraska, it must be admitted that Arthur's resistance was terrific. He did not quit until the President of the United States himself had laid down the law. Some time ago Roosevelt indicated that members of the Democratic National Committee should not be in the position of using their influence as Washington lobbyists. Most of them immediately resigned. But not Arthur Mullen.

As a youngster he had come out to Nebraska in a prairie schooner. He had battled against great odds. He was not one to quit without a fight. So he held out.

Finally, however, a meeting of high members of the Democratic party was called. They ruled against him, called for his resignation as member of the Democratic National Committee. So Arthur Mullen, the man who managed the Roosevelt campaign from the floor of the Chicago Convention, is out. But in getting out, he insisted upon laudatory letters from Roosevelt and Farley.

"Great Commoner."

was complaining to her father about the uncavalier manner of Senator Huey Long.

"Just imagine," she said, "I saw him coming into the White House and he never took off his hat. Merely tipped it and then went right up stairs. He even walked right into your bedroom with his hat still on. Such delightful manners!"

To which Roosevelt replied:

"That's his idea of the Great Commoner."

Exodus.

A WHOLESOME exodus of NRA executives is about to take place.

The impending event is a deep secret; actually it has been in the making for some weeks. The resignations would have occurred earlier but in order to avoid the appearance of a rift during the period of Gen. Johnson's code revision and his "critics' field day," the retiring officials have withheld action.

Those planning to leave are Dr. Leo Wolman, chairman of the Labor Advisory Board, and a member of the National Labor Board; Professor Paul Douglas of the Consumers' Advisory Board; Deputy Administrator Richard E. Paddock and Division Administrator Arthur D. Whiteside.

MORE FUNDS FOR DR. BEEBE

He Plans to Descend Half a Mile in Steel Ball.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—The National Geographic Society today made funds available for continued deep sea explorations off the coast of Bermuda by Dr. William Beebe, director of scientific research for the New York Zoological Society.

Beebe and an assistant plan to descend nearly half a mile into the sea in the ponderous steel ball that was a curiosity at the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago. The ball, in which the scientist previously made a descent of 2200 feet,

MERRY GO ROUND

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, March 8.—ARTHUR MULLEN can be given credit for one thing. He does not surrender without a struggle.

In the case of his membership on the Democratic National Committee from Nebraska, it must be admitted that Arthur's resistance was terrific. He did not quit until the President of the United States himself had laid down the law.

Some time ago Roosevelt indicated that members of the Democratic National Committee should not be in the position of using their influence as Washington lobbyists. Most of them immediately resigned. But not Arthur Mullen. As a youngster he had come out to Nebraska in a prairie schooner. He had battled against great odds. He was not one to quit without a fight.

So he held out. A meeting of high members of the Democratic party was called. They ruled against him, called for his resignation as member of the Democratic National Committee.

So Arthur Mullen, the man who managed the Roosevelt campaign from the floor of the Chicago Convention, is out. But in getting out, he insisted upon laudatory letters from Roosevelt and Farley.

"Great Commoner."

MR. ANNA CURTIS DALL was complaining to her father about the unbecoming manner of Senator Huey Long.

"Just imagine," she said, "I saw him coming into the White House and he never took off his hat. Merely tipped it and then went right into your bedroom with his hat still on. Such delightful manners!"

To which Roosevelt replied: "That's his idea of the Great Commoner."

Exodus.

A WHOLESALE exodus of NRA executives is about to take place.

The impending event is a deep secret; actually it has been in the making for some weeks. The resignations would have occurred earlier but in order to avoid any appearance of a rift during the period of Gen. Johnson's code revision and his "critics' field day," the retiring officials have withheld action.

Those planning to leave are Dr. Leo Wolman, chairman of the Labor Advisory Board, and a member of the National Labor Board; Professor Paul Douglas of the Consumers' Advisory Board; Deputy Administrator Richard B. Paddock and Division Administrator Arthur D. Whitte.

There is no connection between the individual decisions to resign. Each is leaving for reasons of his own.

Paddock and Whiteside are going because they feel their work is done. The important codes in their

At New Orleans, where the flood of 1927 struck most heavily, the river was up to 18 feet on the gauge March 7, 1927, while on March 5, this year, the gauge reading was only 1.8 feet.

During the summer and autumn of 1924, there was unprecedented rainfall in the upper Mississippi River basin. On Oct. 19, when normally the river would have been at its lowest, the Illinois went above the high-water mark of 1844. Storms swept across the whole Mississippi drainage basin during the autumn of that year, the soil became thoroughly saturated and practically every tributary to the Mississippi was running with banks full.

As spring approaches this year, the soil throughout the whole drainage area is drier than it has been for many years. During the winter there was less than normal precipitation in the whole area from the Allegheny Mountains west to the Dakotas, Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma. At present the water is high in the Tennessee River near Chattanooga, in the Cumberland and in the Ohio at Cincinnati, but it is certain that these tributaries will not greatly affect the water levels in the Mississippi. The Red River, in Louisiana, also is up, but is expected to be only slightly above the flood stage.

The extent to which the low river stages are due to straightened channels and other flood control works that have been completed in the last five or six years is a matter of conjecture, but it is assumed the improvements are partly responsible.

MRS. RAQUEL MORANDE SHAW.

WRITES OF LIFE IN U. S. FOR SOUTH AMERICA

Young Widow, Daughter of Late Cabinet Minister, Enrolled at Washington U.

Every two weeks the pages of six South American newspapers carry stories on life in the United States written by a young Chilean widow, Mrs. Raquel Morande Shaw, who enrolled at the beginning of the second semester as a freshman in Washington University.

Mrs. Shaw is the daughter of the late Juan Morande, who was Minister of Finance and Commerce in the Chilean Cabinet. She was married last summer to Thomas Dixon Shaw, American radio engineer with the Standard Oil Co., who died two months after the marriage in a Bolivian epidemic brought on by the war in the Great Chaco.

She then came to America, where she had visited before, to live with her husband's parents in Mount Vernon, Ill. Although Mrs. Shaw has lived in 17 countries "long enough to know what they're all about" and speaks English, Spanish, French and Italian, she is now enrolled as a freshman, because of credit requirements. She is taking Latin, English and history.

Her articles back to South America are directed mainly to women, who, she feels, are very badly off. In Chile there is no legal divorce, only a marriage annulment, after which the persons cannot marry again and stay in the country. A wife cannot have a separate bank account without the supervision of her husband.

Mrs. Shaw, 22 years old, was graduated from an American college in Chile. While there she won a prize offered by the American Ambassador for the best essay in English.

CHICAGO U. DENIES $14,000 BID ON BIBLICAL MANUSCRIPT

Says It Has No Funds to Buy Treasure That Cost Edith Rockefeller $25,000.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 9.—The University of Chicago, reported yesterday to have bid $14,000 for the famous Byzantine manuscript of the Book of Revelations, denied the report today and said the university had no funds for such a purchase.

The Probate Court had authorized the trustee of the late Edith Rockefeller McCormick's estate to dispose of the manuscript, which was done in Greek about 1500 A. D. Mrs. McCormick had bought the treasure with its 90 miniatures for $25,000 in 1928.

BRILLE PRINT ON NEWSPAPER

For Use of Type for Blind on Light, Cheap Page.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 9.—Braille, the pinpoint type the blind read with their fingers, was printed here yesterday on newspaper. It was thought this probably was the first use of such light and comparatively cheap paper in this connection.

The experiment is the culmination of years of effort. Harry Park, a printer, enlisted the aid and cooperation of E. H. Hostetter, representative of a type foundry. Park devised special equipment with which Braille can be set on a regular typesetting machine. The printing appeared in a weekly publication of the Temple Baptist Church.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

THE engagement of Miss Elizabeth Walton Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. H. Allen of Cazenovia, N. Y., and Paul White Lapey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy G. Lapey of Buffalo, was announced yesterday.

Miss Allen is a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George W. Allen of St. Louis, and great-granddaughter of the late Thomas Allen, builder of the Iron Mountain & Southern Railroad. On her mother's side she is a great granddaughter of the late Horatio G. Brooks of Dunkirk, N. Y., founder of the Brooks Locomotive Works. She is a niece of Mrs. Charles H. Haskins of Cambridge, Mass. Mrs. James B. Mennell of London; Mrs. Walter G. Chard and Thomas Allen III of Cazenovia, N. Y., and Mrs. Whitelaw R. Allen of Pasadena, Cal.

Miss Allen attended the Polytechnic Elementary School of Pasadena, Cal., and was graduated from Barrington School, Great Barrington, Mass., in 1932. She made her debut in December in a ballroom given by her parents. She is a member of the Junior League.

Mr. Lapey is a graduate of Williams College in the class of 1930. He is now attending law at the University of the Buffalo Law School. The date of the wedding has not been set.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar L. Biehl, 5261 Westminister place, will leave next week for Sea Island Beach, Ga. They will remain until the last of April.

Miss Betty Willson Niles, daughter of Mrs. Edith W. Niles of Ludington, Mich., formerly of St. Louis, arrived last night to visit Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hudson, 20 North King's Highway.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Russell, 89 Arundel place, expect to leave Saturday to visit Mrs. Russell's sister, Mrs. Eleanor S. McMillen of Sutton place, New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Vertrees Young, 4244 West Pine boulevard, will leave next week by motor for New Orleans and Southern resorts.

Mr. and Mrs. Pollard Scholz have recently returned from their wedding trip in the South and have moved into their new home at 749 Sherwood drive, Webster Groves. Mrs. Scholz, until her marriage Feb. 23 was Miss Marguerite Newton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Melville Newton, 40 Ridgemoor drive. Mr. Scholz is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter V. Scholz, 44 Rosemont avenue, Webster Groves.

The Rev. Hubert A. Woolfall, rector of St. Peter's Episcopal Church, will leave Sunday by airplane for Washington to preach Lenten sermons at the Church of the Epiphany, of which the former rector of St. Peter's Episcopal Church, the Rev. Ze Barney Phillips, is rector.

Mrs. Elias Michael, 4333 Westminister place, will give bridge parties at her home Friday afternoon and evening for the benefit of the Missouri Association of Occupational Therapy and the St. Louis Chapter of the Society for Crippled Children.

Mrs. George S. Macrum of Pittsburg, Pa., is visiting her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. Macrum, 7347 Tulane avenue, University City.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Eaton, who have been making their home with Mr. Eaton's mother, Mrs. Charles Eaton, 528 West Watson road, Kirkwood, will move into the Yorkleigh apartments. Mrs. Eaton, before her marriage last summer, was Miss Judith Spencer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Branch Flournoy Spencer.

At a meeting of the Spirit of St. Louis Association held Monday, it was decided to erect a bronze tablet at the St. Louis Flying Field on May 21, in commemoration of the trans-Atlantic flight of Charles A. Lindbergh in 1927. Mrs. Howard Bailey is chairman of the association and Mrs. Joseph J. Bailey and Mrs. John P. Dubal are vice-presidents.

Among the boxholders for the French-American tennis matches at the Arena tomorrow and Saturday are Mr. and Mrs. Bradford Shinkle, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew W. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. William D. Orthwein Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Virgil A. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon B. Wallace Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Langenberg, Dr. and Mrs. Walter Fischel, Thomas Reymann, Mr. and Mrs. Briggs Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nagel, Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Cushman, Mr. and Mrs. Marquard Foster, Mr. and Mrs. James Lee Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Kauffman, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Stander, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. Paul B. Jamison, Walter M. Smith, Robert Bagnall, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Scheu, Albert Bond Lambert Jr., Robert W. Otto, Arthur Baer, Eugene R. McCarthy, Nathan Green and Walter M. Smith.

MISS JEAN LUNGSTRAS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lungstras, 25 Wydown terrace, has chosen Saturday, March 31, as the date for her marriage to Donald O. Cramer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Cramer, 7380 Pershing avenue. The ceremony will take place at 3:30 p. m. at West Presbyterian Church, the Rev. William E. Lampe officiating. A small reception for the bridal party will follow at the Lungstras home.

Miss Lungstras will be attended by her cousin, Miss Virginia Reis, as maid of honor and Miss Louise Cason and Miss Allen Blanke as bridesmaids. Marion W. Smith will be best man. The groomsmen and ushers will be Chester Wolff, Robert Haase, Edward Paul Lungstras, brother of the bride, John Murphy of Kansas City and Mitchell Warren of Paris, Tenn.

A recital will be given tomorrow night at St. Mary's-of-the-Woods College, in Indiana, by Mrs. Carroll Smith, soprano, a graduate of the college. John Halk, violinist, and Mrs. Frank Habis, pianist.

$156,000 More in Widow's Estate.

An additional inventory listing assets of $156,044 in the estate of Mrs. Luella Browning was filed in Probate Court yesterday. The original inventory listed property worth $156,000. Mrs. Browning was the widow of Lawrence A. Browning, St. Louis coal operator. She died in Chicago last November. The Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co. is executor.

"LOST KISSES," a play from the French of Andre Birabeau, translated by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Sherman, of St. Louis, was presented, for the first time in this country, last night under the direction of F. Cowles Strickland at the Little Theater where it was well received by an audience of the group theater movement.

The piece, which has been literally translated by Mr. and Mrs. Sherman—Thomas B. Sherman in the music critic of the Post-Dispatch—may be classed as a comedy drama. It is quite likely, as originally presented in Paris, the comedy angle was more heavily stressed and the movement faster than in the present version for the comedy is by

WALLACE SAYS CONGRESS CAN'T HANDLE TARIFF

was "important for Congress to realize that high tariff causes unemployment just as surely as low tariff—it is just a question of where the unemployment will be."

Tariff Board Head for Plan.
Broadening of the administration's reciprocal tariff proposal to permit the President to place items on or take them from the free list was recommended today by Robert L. O'Brien, Republican chairman of the Tariff Commission, testifying before the committee.

O'Brien said "this bill ought to take in the free list. I think it should go a great deal farther," he added, "it is so simple that it should pass both the Senate and House without a dissenting vote."

O'Brien said there was virtually no difference between the new proposal and the present way of changing tariffs under the flexible provision of the Smoot-Hawley Act, which gives the President power to change rates 50 per cent on the recommendation of the Tariff Commission.

"The President makes the Tariff Commission, and it does what he says," O'Brien added. He said the "bi-partisan character" of the commission made no difference, explaining that former President Hoover appointed a Democrat to the commission who was a stronger protectionist than Representative Crowther (Rep.), New York, a member of the Ways and Means Committee who helped put through the Smoot-Hawley bill.

Favored Nation Question.

Earlier, another Cabinet member, Secretary of State Hull, had discussed for two hours the administration's views. Republicans challenged Hull on the point of the most-favored-nation treaties this country holds with other nations, under which trade benefits granted one country must be extended to others.

Hull, reflecting the previously expressed attitude of the State Department on this question, explained that when agreements were based on certain products similar tariff concessions would be extended other countries for those specific products if they were produced in those countries.

Hull said the Supreme Court would hold the bill valid if it came to a test before that tribunal. He said virtually every one of the 65 nations had erected trade barriers against the exports of this country through duties, sanitary requirements and other restrictions.

Secretary of Commerce Roper also urged the measure's enactment. He said that in order to sell in foreign markets, the United States must buy in them.

Referring to the administration theory that increased imports into this country mean enlarged purchasing power abroad, Roper said that it was the "intention of this bill to enable foreigners not merely to buy our products but to pay for them."

"Too frequently in the past," Roper said, "the argument has been used that they were unable to pay for them."

IOWA SENATOR
ASSAILS FEDERAL FINANCIAL POLICY

restored," Dickinson proceeded, "there must be some method by which the fiscal policy can be stabilized. Private capital will not re-enter business unless there are some assurances for the morrow. The Government has destroyed this confidence."

"After issuing millions of dollars worth of bonds payable in gold, the Government repudiates the gold clause and permits payment in any form of Government money."

"The foreign gold-buying program was a failure. It did not produce the effects expected. Theorists formulated the plan, but in practice it was not effective."

In concluding his discussion of fiscal policy Dickinson said: "If we continue to over-spend our earnings, if we continue to try to live on borrowed money, there is only one answer, and that is, debt repudiation."

"The first year of the New Deal has survived on hope. The next year must live on accomplishments or perish."

The speaker then discussed the purposes and results of the Agricultural Adjustment Act. "Cotton production," he said, "was restricted, and yet cotton prices have not reached their parity. Wheat acreage has been restricted, and yet we are producing more wheat. Corn acreage has been restricted, and yet we plant better seed corn in order to raise more per acre on the land cultivated."

"In other words, there are so many outside elements entering into the price equation that acreage reduction alone is not sufficient to determine the price."

In Dickinson's opinion the depression resulted in a more favorable competitive position for the smaller business than for larger business organizations because of the smaller investment and lesser overhead of the former.

"For this reason," Dickinson said, "the small business man was running the big business man a keen race for volume of business."

Big business took advantage of this situation and the further fact that the new administration was inclined to experiment and proposed and passed the National Recovery Act.

"This plan provides for the regulation of industry by industry itself, with some form of Government supervision. It suspended the antitrust laws, and big business was placed in a position of price control. The Government has, therefore, become a party to a program to permit big units in every type of industry to control the entire situation."

"Small Business Crushed."

"The National Recovery Act," he continued, "put the machinery of Government in the hands of the trade associations. These associations are dominated by the big units in each industry. They formulate the code regulations. Big business was protected; small business was crushed."

"Under such conditions," (those of the New Deal) the speaker said in conclusion, "confidence cannot be restored. Private capital will not venture forth from its hiding. Prosperity cannot return with our gold depreciating and our commodity prices refusing to advance, with the threat that wealth is to be divided, industry redistributed, farms relocated and crops limited."

"It is but fair to say that the New Deal is attempting to do too much in too short a time. If less had been attempted and more thoroughly planned, the country would have been better off."

A NAME

you can trust means a product you can trust!

In addition to the name Fleischmann (which in itself is a guarantee of quality) you will find on the Fleischmann bottle two other great names: Penn-Maryland Company, Inc. as sole distributor; and National Distillers as sponsors. Under the auspices of these names you can surely buy with confidence.

THERE is much discussion these days as to what should be printed on the label of a liquor bottle. It is our belief that the most important information on any label is the name of the maker. In buying gin especially, a name you can trust means a product you can trust!

The Fleischmann Company needs no introduction to the American public. Its fame is international, its integrity beyond question. Since 1870, the name Fleischmann on a bottle of gin has been a guarantee of quality unsurpassed. Millions of dollars have been spent in perfecting the distilling processes and equipment now in operation at the great Fleischmann plant. Master distillers who learned their art in the Old World are in charge. Only the finest American grains are used. And—what is most important—from the initial selection of grains to the final bottling, every phase of production takes place in one plant, under one control.

Fleischmann's Gin is not synthetic, not mixed—it is FOUR TIMES DISTILLED to achieve greater purity and superior smoothness. Insist on Fleischmann's. It's worth the difference! Served at most of the smart places—and sold at all licensed dealers.

CHARGES WASTE OF NATURAL GAS
IN TEXAS FIELD

Panhandle Conservation Association Alleges Violation of NRA and Plans Appeal to President.

SAYS PRODUCERS ARE FACING RUIN

Declares 500,000,000 Cubic Feet of Vapor a Day Is Blown in Air by Gas Line Strippers.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

AMARILLO, Tex.—The withdrawal of natural gas at an almost unrestricted rate from various localities of the Panhandle of Texas is in direct violation of the spirit and provisions of the National Recovery Act, says Joe T. Sneed, president of the Panhandle Conservation Association, which is preparing an appeal to President Roosevelt to stop this heavy waste.

"Permission to produce gas well in the Panhandle 25 per cent of their capacity for the purpose of stripping gas of natural gasolene was authorized by the Texas Legislature last year," Sneed said.

"During the last month for which figures have been compiled, the active plants stripping natural gasolene in the Panhandle used a total of 1,154,776,000 cubic feet of gas per day, of which a total of 502,428,000 were blown into the air."

"Since the Texas Legislature authorized 25 per cent of capacity production from gas wells in the Panhandle, the recovery of gasolene has declined to approximately 54-100 of a gallon per 1000 cubic feet, compared to a previous average of 72-100 of a gallon. These figures show that not only is the tremendous Panhandle reserve being depleted at a flagrant rate of wastage, but the value of that produced has declined nearly one fourth."

"The Panhandle Conservation Association is prepared to show the national administration that more than 500,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas suitable for heating and power generation is being blown into the air each day. The waste gas is blown into the air after only a small part of its original volume is utilized for manufacture of gasoline. The statistics which the association plans to place before the administration are taken chiefly from Railroad Commission records compiled at its Panhandle office at Pampa."

"It is the announced intention of the NRA to regulate the production of necessities—particularly from irreplaceable natural resources—to the public's consuming ability. The heaviest exploitation of the Panhandle gas field for natural gasolene is clearly a burden on interstate commerce and is supplying unfair competition to crude oil producers and refiners who are working under a code, and the product should be barred from interstate commerce."

"Oil producers in the field are facing ruin because of the conditions existing. Likewise, gasoline produced in the code-organized refineries cannot hope to compete with the motor fuel produced in plants operating by such spoliation."

CHARGES WASTE OF NATURAL GAS IN TEXAS FIELDS

SAYS PRODUCERS ARE FACING RUIN

Declares 500,000,000 Cubic Feet of Vapor a Day Is Blown in Air by Gasoline Strippers.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

AMARILLO, Tex.—The withdrawal of natural gas at an almost unrestricted rate from various localities of the Panhandle of Texas is in direct violation of the spirit and provisions of the National Recovery Act, says Joe T. Sneed, president of the Panhandle Conservation Association, which is preparing an appeal to President Roosevelt to stop this heavy withdrawal.

"Permission to produce gas wells in the Panhandle 25 per cent of their capacity for the purpose of stripping gas of natural gasoline was authorized by the Texas Legislature last year," Sneed said. "During the last month for which figures have been compiled, the 40 active plants stripping natural gasoline in the Panhandle used a total of 1,156,776,000 cubic feet of gas per day, of which a total of 602,428,000 were blown into the air."

"Since the Texas Legislature authorized 25 per cent of capacity production from gas wells in the Panhandle, the recovery of gasoline has declined to approximately 44-100 of a gallon per 1000 cubic feet, compared to a previous average of 72-100 of a gallon. These figures show that not only is the tremendous Panhandle reserve being depleted at a flagrant rate of waste, but the value of that produced has declined nearly one-fourth.

"The Panhandle Conservation Association is prepared to show the national administration that more than 500,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas suitable for heating or power generation is being blown into the air each day. The wasted gas is blown into the air after only a small part of its original volume is utilized for manufacture of gasoline. The statistics which the association plans to place before the administration are taken chiefly from Railroad Commission records compiled at its Panhandle office at Pampa.

"It is the announced intention of the NRA to regulate the production of necessities—particularly from irreplaceable natural resources—to the public's consuming ability. The heading exploitation of the Panhandle gas field for natural gasoline is clearly a burden on interstate commerce and is supplying unfair competition to crude oil producers and refiners who are working under a code, and the product should be barred from interstate commerce.

"Oil producers in the field are facing ruin because of the conditions existing. Likewise, gasoline produced in the code-organized refineries cannot hope to compete with the motor fuel produced in plants operating by such spoliation."

CROP CUT BENEFIT PAYMENTS SUBJECT TO INCOME TAX

Announcement of Internal Revenue Commissioner Helvering on Basic Commodity Funds.

WASHINGTON.—Commissioner of Internal Revenue Guy T. Helvering, has announced that rental or benefit payments made by the Secretary of Agriculture under the provisions of the Agricultural Adjustment Act to producers for reduction in acreage or the reduction in production for market, or both, constitute taxable income to the recipients for Federal income tax purposes.

This applies to payments received on basic agricultural commodities specified in section 11 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, cotton, field corn, hogs, rice, tobacco, and milk and its products, and any regional or market classification, type, or grade thereof.

PROPOSAL FOR 40 TOWNS TO OWN ONE WATER SYSTEM

Northern California Municipalities Considering Contracts With $50,000,000 Company.

By the Associated Press. SAN FRANCISCO, March 9.—A new municipal ownership plan in which 40 cities and towns will eventually become joint proprietors of a $50,000,000 company is contemplated by Water Properties Co., Ltd., of San Francisco.

The company agrees to purchase the local distribution systems and present them to the cities which have signed contracts for the purchase of water at specified amounts for 30 years. At the expiration of the contract period the cities become owners of the physical properties of the company.

San Jose has signed a contract and the City Councils of Stockton and several other Northern California cities have the project under consideration.

German Prince Collecting Relief Funds

AUGUST WILHELM, FOURTH son of the former Kaiser, takes his place with a tin cup on a Berlin street to aid in the campaign for the winter relief fund. He served because he is a group commander of the Nazi storm troops. Collections were good while the Prince was on duty.

RELIEF COAL DISTRIBUTION TO CONTINUE IN MISSOURI

Crossley Says Co-Operative Plan Has Been Worked Out; Producers Also to Benefit.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 9.—Distribution of coal in Missouri during the winter months will be continued despite withdrawal of the Federal fuel plan, Wallace Crossley, State Relief Director, announced today.

Crossley said a plan has been worked out in co-operation with Federal officials, railroads and subdivisional code authorities to continue distribution of coal to persons on Federal relief rolls. Sam F. Dalton, distributor of coal under Crossley, said the discounts for the fuel to the Surplus Relief Corporation will amount to approximately 30 per cent of the delivery cost.

"This means that many Missouri mines that have been inoperative or operating on a curtailed basis will find increased demand for their products," Crossley said. He said that in practically every county, local committees are designating Missouri coal for relief purposes in preference to fuel from other states.

ERRONEOUSLY REPORTED AS INDICTED IN CWA FORGERIES

Persons Wrongly Listed Were Charged at Danville With Interstate Theft.

DANVILLE, Ill., March 9.—Persons indicted on interstate freight theft charges by Federal Grand Jury here Wednesday were incorrectly reported by the Associated Press as having been indicted for forgery of CWA payroll checks. Only four persons were indicted on the CWA forgery charges. They were Mary Howard and Robert Crane of Benton, Earl Walker of Sparta and Andrew Lively, Du Quoin.

Those who were indicted for interstate theft and not for forgery were Grover McFarland, Floyd Stowers, Harold Gossard and James Collard of Benton; Earl Lashbrook, Robert Gildewell, James George, Russell Cook, Walter M. Cook, Nelson George, William Stroud, Lyle Stroud, Ralph Swallow, Robert Ross, Kenneth Sizemore, Clarence Allen, Harold Toney, Walter Toney, Mat Kennedy and Earl Thomas Gant, all of Du Quoin, and James Good, Dupu.

Jane was disheartened about her Skin... until she tried THE SOAP OF BEAUTIFUL WOMEN

TRY CAMAY — CONVINCE YOURSELF!

... and now Jane's a different girl, a happier girl — smarter looking and more confident of herself. Why, Camay was a tonic to her whole morale — for the peach blush of a clear complexion does do things to a girl's ego. Jane has a Camay Complexion — and even her husband gives her compliments now!

TAKE a look at your skin! Then ask yourself — "Can Camay, the Soap of Beautiful Women, make a real difference in the condition of my skin — a real improvement in my complexion?"

And the answer, ringingly clear, is that definitely it can!

For Camay is unlike any soap you have ever used. It never gives you a "raw soap" feeling. For its delicate oils are perfectly blended and its rich lather is as gentle as cream. Camay bubbles are beauty bubbles.

GET YOURSELF A CAMAY COMPLEXION WIN YOUR DAILY BEAUTY CONTEST

All life's a Beauty Contest and the girl with a beautiful complexion has the odds on her side. For a good complexion gets compliments — flattery — attentions so dear to a woman's heart. And if Camay can make a difference in your skin as it did in the story of Jane and in the lives of thousands of women, you want to know and use it for your own.

"I was blessed with a sensitive skin," said a young musician. "But thanks to Camay, I can keep it beautifully soft and smooth."

"Camay is my stand-by," writes a girl from Texas. "My skin gets to looking all pink and soft after I've used it."

A few cakes of Camay will lift the veil from your loveliness, will clear the drabness from your skin and reveal the beauty that today is hidden. Turn to Camay — as hundreds of thousands of women have done — and Camay will not fail you!

• Camay Bubbles are Beauty Bubbles

As water comes in contact with a creamy-white cake of Camay, a shower of jewel-like bubbles appears. Each drop of water mingles with the pure, white soap to form these fragrant Beauty Bubbles — freshly made each time you cleanse your skin.

Gently, swiftly they glide over your skin, then rinse away, leaving it refreshed and aglow with cleanliness. Camay bubbles are Beauty Bubbles. A beauty lotion in its finest form. Try Camay — and you'll see!

"Every day I live is a Beauty Contest for me. I know that people are attracted to me when I look my best. So I changed to the Soap of Beautiful Women, and acquired a Camay Complexion."

NAMING OF ASSEMBLY HALLS IN AUDITORIUM TAKEN UP

Commission to Consider Honoring Musician, Dancer, Actor and Composer.

The Municipal Auditorium Commission will consider naming the four small assembly halls in the auditorium, respectively, in honor of a musician, a dancer, an actor and a composer, all preferably American. Music and dancing teachers, meeting at City Hall yesterday with Mrs. Nat S. Brown of the commission, decided living artists should not be eligible. They failed to agree on a suggestion that Isadora Duncan be chosen as the dancer to be honored.

Programs will be presented by the music and dancing teachers in connection with the Little Theater tournament to be held during the auditorium dedication, April 14-28.

Charles F. Hatfield, secretary-manager of the Convention, Publicity and Tourist Bureau, told the St. Louis Branch of Business and Professional Women at the Town Club last night that opening of the auditorium would put the city on an equality with others in attracting national conventions. He said the bureau was interested also in bringing artistic, religious, commercial and sporting events here. The bureau started and fostered the movement for the auditorium, Hatfield asserted.

CLEANERS' UNION VOTES AUTHORITY FOR STRIKE CALL

Gives Officers Power to Act if Necessary in Dispute Over Wages.

Union cleaning and dyeing employees last night voted authority to their officers to call a strike if such action is deemed necessary to enforce minimum wage scales in 17 union plants. About 200 workers would be involved.

The union is seeking minimum scales ranging from $18 to $35 a week, which would represent a wage increase for about 80 per cent of the union workers. Employers have declared they can not meet the demands, and have refused to sign a new agreement. The previous working contract expired Feb. 27.

Joseph Quinn, union business agent, said the strike probably would be called next week unless a settlement were reached.

ATTEMPT TO KIDNAP IOWA MEAT PACKER FRUSTRATED

Three Men Try to Seize a Son-in-Law, Thinking He Is Head of Morrell Firm.

OTTUMWA, Ia., March 9.—An apparent attempt to kidnap T. Henry Foster, president of John Morrell & Co., was frustrated last night.

Three men closed in on Foster's son-in-law, Ralph Vernon, as he drove into his garage. His home adjoins that of Foster, and the would-be kidnapers supposedly had mistaken Vernon for the other man. Vernon convinced the men of his identity. Knowing that his father-in-law was away, he directed the men to the Foster home.

The three warned Vernon to remain in the garage for five minutes and left him. At the end of that period, Vernon telephoned a warning to Foster, who was a guest at a home in another part of the city. Mr. and Mrs. Foster spent the night in a hotel under police guard.

Foster is the son of the late T. D. Foster, founder of the Morrell company, a meat packing concern.

was established recently. Several of these were duplicated or withdrawn. Total cost of the varied improvements proposed is estimated at $124,971,247. The applicants sought $59,062,514 in loans and $26,986,471 in grants, offering to furnish the balance of funds themselves. So far the FWA has allotted $9,731,543 on 72 applications, or a little more than one-ninth of the total called for.

Miller's office announced division of the applications and costs as follows: 75 waterworks, $9,890,977; 55 sewer systems and sewage disposal plants, $14,107,397; 43 municipal electric plants, $15,409,250; 75 school building programs, $3,298,559; four hospital building programs, $3,560,415; 43 public buildings or groups of buildings of varied use, $43,339,241; 16 bridges, $9,488,949; eight groups of street or highway construction, $7,383,087; 20 miscellaneous applications, $12,204,187; 10 recreational developments, $1,276,885. Estimated labor that would be provided by all the proposed work is figured by Miller's office at 365,853 man-months or 30,488 man-years.

The last application on the list, not hitherto announced, was from the Napoleon school district, Lafayette County. It wants a $1068 grant, to help build a $3376 community hall and gymnasium. The first applicant was Kennett, which requested $32,000 last August for a sewage disposal plant and was allowed $38,000 in loan and grant.

DILLINGER GANG MEMBER TELLS OF SHERIFF'S KILLING

Edward Shouse, Convict, on Stand at Lima, O., Points Out Harry Pierpont as Murderer.

By the Associated Press.

LIMA, O., March 9.—Edward Shouse, Indiana State prison convict and former member of the John Dillinger gang, today pointed out Harry Pierpont as the murderer of Sheriff Jess L. Sarber here. Pierpont is on trial charged with first degree murder in the killing of Sarber.

Shouse, brought here under a heavy guard in a bulletproof automobile, testified for the State and gave a complete account of the plans for the raid on the Allen County Jail, in which Dillinger was forcibly released last October, when he was held on a charge of bank robbery. Sheriff Sarber was killed in the raid.

Shouse told the jury Russell Clark, Pierpont and Charles Makley were the three men who were in the jail office at the time of the shooting.

The six men who planned the jail break were Pierpont, Makley, Clark, John Hamilton, Harry Copeland and himself. He said after staying at the home of Pierpont's parents at Lelaps, O., for a time, drove into Lima in two separate parties on the evening of Oct. 12. He said they parked their cars in the block in which the jail is situated and that Pierpont, Clark and Makley walked into the jail.

"Copeland was in the car," he said. "I stood by the monument. I heard some shots fired. Just then an old couple walked by and asked what was going on inside the jail. 'I went to the door and looked in and then told them there was nothing going on, merely that they were moving some filing cases and the drawers fell out.'

"Another shot was fired just then so I took the old lady by the arm and walked her down the street and left her. I told her I had to go to the drug store."

Pierpont said he next saw Pierpont at Hamilton, O., the same night. "Did he indicate to you who killed the Sheriff?" Prosecutor Ernest M. Botkin asked. "He said he did," Shouse answered without looking at Pierpont.

Botkin asked him if Pierpont was in the room. Shouse looked over at the table of defense counsel, lifted his manacled hands and indicated Pierpont.

Arthur Miller, convicted murderer, testified that several times before Oct. 12, he warned Sheriff Jess L. Sarber that John Dillinger was planning to break out of the Allen County jail, where he was held on a bank robbery charge. Pierpont is charged with killing the Sheriff during the jail delivery.

Miller was playing pinocle with Dillinger when three men entered the jail office, shot and fatally wounded Sheriff Sarber and then locked Mrs. Sarber and Deputy Wilbur Sharp in the jail.

Under cross-examination by Miss Jessie Levy, defense counsel, Miller said that Dillinger had told him that he intended to break out of the jail.

Playing Cards With Dillinger. "Did you tell the Sheriff?" Miss Levy asked him. "Yes, I told him a couple of times," Miller said. "Did you ever ask to go with Dillinger?" Miss Levy asked. "No." "You didn't want to get out?" "Not that way," the witness said.

Miller said that as he and Dillinger played cards, he suddenly heard three shots and then some one moaning. He saw the door into the jail proper open and Mrs. Sarber walked in with Deputy Sharp and a man he identified as Pierpont. Pierpont, he testified, had three pistols.

Dillinger quit the card game, turned to Miller and shook hands, saying: "Well, goodbye Art, I'm going."

Pierpont handed him a gun and they ran out," Miller testified. On cross-examination Miller denied that he had been offered anything for his testimony.

Pistol Is Introduced. Capt. Jay Smith of the Tucson (Ariz.) Police Department reached into his left hip pocket while on the witness stand and pulled out a pistol which the State charges Pierpont stole from Sheriff Sarber the night Sarber was shot.

Capt. Smith then looked across the room and pointed out Pierpont as the man he and Patrolmen Frank Eyeman and Earl Nolan arrested on Jan. 25, the day of the surprising Dillinger roundup in Tucson. Pierpont was carrying the pistol in his hip pocket and had another in his belt when he was arrested, Capt. Smith said.

Sheriff Don Sarber, 34 years old, son and successor of former Sheriff Jess L. Sarber, told on the witness stand yesterday how he came home from a holiday trip to find his father dying on the floor of the jail office and John Dillinger's cell empty.

Mother was locked in the jail at the time. I asked dad if one of the men was Harry Copeland and gave him a general description. He said, 'I did not know any of the men. They were all big men.'

Defense attorneys were attempting to show that Copeland, now held in the Michigan City (Ind.) prison for bank robbery, was the man who shot Sarber.

Widow's Relentless Hunt Proves Husband's Death Murder Instead of Suicide

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WICHITA, Kan.—Her funds exhausted after a year's investigation of the death of her husband, Mrs. C. C. LaVoo, Pueblo, Colo., appealed to Attorney-General Boynton of Kansas to appoint a State investigator. Boynton named Joe Maness, veteran Wichita police detective, and less than a week after Maness started his investigation he had two men under arrest and a confession from one that he and two companions killed LaVoo, veteran Missouri Pacific freight conductor, at the end of his run, at Horace, Kan., during a blizzard Dec. 9, 1932.

When the body of LaVoo was found the following morning, with his pistol close to his body, a coroner's jury was summoned and made a report the trainman came to his death accidentally.

Mrs. LaVoo was not satisfied. She contended the wound was such that it hardly could have been inflicted accidentally. When reports were circulated, seemingly from the coroner of Greeley County, that LaVoo's death was a suicide, she determined to prove her husband had been slain.

One year after the death of LaVoo, the widow, almost penniless, had collected evidence which pointed to murder. However, she could not place her fingers on the killer or killers. It was then she appealed to Attorney-General Boynton to name the State investigator.

Maness went to Horace, scene of the crime, and within 24 hours he also was convinced LaVoo had been murdered.

Two days later Miles "Steamboat" Ware, 42 years old, was under arrest and Maness had an alleged confession naming Albert Stambach, 28, and another man, still at large, as alleged accomplices.

Less than 48 hours later Stambach was in custody. He was arrested on a farm near Paola, Kan., where he had been working.

Stambach denied having had a hand in the LaVoo killing, although Maness is convinced he did. He confessed to Maness that he, Ware and two or three others had killed two youths who were hitch-hiking through Horace on July 16, 1932.

Stambach related of how he, Ware and their companions had engaged in a fight with Clarence Desbi, Scottsdale, Pa., and John Meader, Canton, O., knocking both unconscious. The fight took place in the railroad yards.

Bodies placed on Tracks.
The bodies of the two men were placed on the railroad track and the following morning their mangled bodies were found. Their parents came to Horace to claim the bodies and buried them in the Horace cemetery.

A coroner's jury found that the two men had gone to sleep on the railroad tracks and failed to awaken at the approach of the train. Stambach said he, Ware and their companions visited the spot where the two hitch-hikers lost their lives the following morning. The night before, he said, Ware had removed a ring from the finger of one of the unconscious youths.

In less than a week Maness solved three murders, all on Greeley County record books as accidental deaths.

Martin F. Trued, County Attorney of Greeley County, also is given much credit for solution of the crimes by Maness and others. He also agreed with Mrs. LaVoo, after she had uncovered evidence that indicated murder, that LaVoo had not killed himself, accidentally or intentionally.

600 UNITE IN OPPOSITION TO NAZI CHURCH DICTATORSHIP
Pastors and Laymen Adopt Resolutions Declaring Adherence "to Holy Writ Alone."

By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, March 9.—A determination to stand together in refusing obedience to Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller was unanimously voted last night by 600 pastors and laymen, opponents of the Bishop's dictatorship in Protestant church affairs. Calling themselves a "free synod," the dissidents approved resolutions declaring their adherence "to holy writ alone," that the German Swastika emblem had nothing in common with the cross of Jesus, and that worshiping the god of the Nazi "world philosophy" was plain idolatry. They rejected as "heresy" a tenet of the Nazi German Christians that Christ rules only an invisible church.

Complaints were heard from country churchmen that those who dared to support their pastors in opposition to Nazi Protestants were subjected to threats by local Nazi "bosses."

FRANCE'S NEW APPLE QUOTA
Increases U. S. Allowance Without Demanding Wine Concession.
By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—The French Government has informed the State Department it will allow the importation of 5000 metric tons of apples between March 1 and June 30 without demanding an additional wine quota. Under the original agreement negotiated by the State Department and the League of Nations, the United States permitted the importation of 784,000 gallons of French liquor before March 31.

In return France allowed a quota of 1,000,000 bushels of American apples and pears which it guaranteed would be absorbed by the French market. The French quota is now exhausted and no more French liquor will be admitted until the next distribution of permits on April 30. At that time France probably will be allowed 400,000 gallons for a two-month period.

Found Dead of Heart Attack.
SPRINGFIELD, Mo., March 8.—Kenneth M. Coore, 52 years old, of Oklahoma City, a fireman for the St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad, was found dead of a heart attack in a hotel here this afternoon. He had been attending a system committee meeting.

Says Mrs. Anna Ten Brook Harris was not mentally capable of making a legal will; further, she was unduly influenced. She bequeathed $500 to him and left the bulk of the residue of her estate, variously estimated at from $25,000 to $100,000, for the benefit of other relatives, including the children of plaintiff's brother, Horace Bradley of Kirkwood.

In his petition he alleged Mrs. Harris by reason of her condition was not mentally capable of making a legal will; further, she was unduly influenced. She bequeathed $500 to him and left the bulk of the residue of her estate, variously estimated at from $25,000 to $100,000, for the benefit of other relatives, including the children of plaintiff's brother, Horace Bradley of Kirkwood.

Other testimony by Dr. Bradley related to his aunt having consulted him about business matters over a period of years. He said he gave her valuable aid, but did not charge her for the service.

The defense contends Mrs. Harris was a woman of strong will, possessed a keen intellect and was fully capable. It is also alleged she was influenced in the making of the will, which was drawn in 1925.

WISCONSIN'S NEW PLAN OF GAME CONSERVATION

Nine Districts Under Central Control Established in Reorganization.

By the Associated Press.

MADISON, Wis.—The State Conservation Commission has announced the counties which will comprise the nine districts established in a complete reorganization of the game division.

A three-man committee will be elected in each county to serve on an advisory council to the conservation department in all game management problems which affect the county. They include recommendations for open seasons and bag limits on game birds and game and fur-bearing animals, making game surveys and determination of game conditions.

Committees will be elected at public meetings to be called in each county by the local conservation warden. The committees will serve for one year, beginning in April.

Reorganization of the game division is in charge of William F. Grimmer, State Superintendent of Game. It is expected to provide a more efficient means of obtaining information for establishing hunting and trapping seasons and to make accurate game surveys.

Harry Johnson, manager of State game farms, has been appointed temporary game supervisors to coordinate the activities of the nine district supervisors.

SEARS, ROEBUCK HAD CITY AND RURAL TIRE PRICES

Distributor for Fisk Testifies at Trade Commission Hearing to Difference in Cost.

Hearing on an alleged discriminatory trade agreement between the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. and Sears, Roebuck & Co. was resumed before an examiner of the Federal Trade Commission in the Federal Building today with additional independent tire dealers testifying in support of the Government's contention that the agreement violates the Clayton anti-trust act.

Several witnesses testified yesterday that competition from Sears, Roebuck, distributing Goodyear All-State tires cheaper than other dealers could buy similar Goodyear tires, caused them virtually to abandon individual sales and to concentrate on large commercial customers.

A. A. Guenther, distributor of Fisk tires, said Sears, Roebuck circulated two sets of catalogues, one advertising a truck tire at $26.75 to rural trade and the other offering the same tire to city trade at $31. Industry at a local Sears, Roebuck store, he said, elicited the explanation that he would have to order the tire from Chicago, to get the lower price and would have to pay the transportation cost. He said he was told the transportation cost was 75 cents.

St. Clair Allotment by CWA.

An additional CWA allotment of $2950 for educational purposes in St. Clair County has been made. E. H. Runkwitz, County Superintendent of Schools, announced yesterday. A previous allotment of $2211 had been received making the total $5161. Classes in music for children, sewing classes and others have been established. Forty-one teachers were appointed. Townships must furnish the class buildings and supplies.

MELLOW "IMPORTED" TANG TURNS THOUSANDS TO NEW CENTRAL BEER!

Beer Lovers Amazed At Perfect Duplication Of European Flavor!

At last folks who really know and love fine beer have found the drink they've been waiting for ever since beer came back! All the old mellow tang and perfection of the fine foreign beers which we haven't tasted since the War, are back again—thanks to the skill and the private formula of veteran brewers working right in the Central Brewery.

Just drink a bottle of this "Imported Flavor" beer yourself and you'll know why thousands are turning to it. Lift the glass to your nostrils and note that wonderful sweet, mellow malt aroma—so different from the sour or "soapy" smell of ordinary beers. Drink down your glass and note the "authority" and clean, full-bodied glow. Mere words can't describe that feeling which Germans call "suffizienz"—that quality in beer that makes you come back for more. But one glass of Central "Imported Flavor" will make you understand perfectly!

Just pick up a few bottles from your nearest dispenser or grocer today and test for yourself. Better yet—phone for a case and let us do the work of bringing this royal "Imported-Flavor" brew to your ice-box. Phone now—we'll tend to the details.

ALMOND FROSTING

Two egg whites, unbeaten.
One cup brown sugar, firmly packed.
Dash of salt.
One-quarter cup water.
One teaspoonful vanilla.
Three-quarters cup almonds, blanched, toasted and chopped.
Put egg whites, sugar, salt and water in top of double boiler. Beat with rotary egg beater until thoroughly mixed. Place over rapidly boiling water, beat constantly with rotary egg beater, and cook seven minutes, or until frosting will stand in peaks. Remove from fire, add vanilla, and beat until thick enough to spread. Cover top and sides of cake and decorate with nuts.

PEANUT COOKIES

Two tablespoons butter.
One cup sugar.
Two eggs well-beaten.
Two cups flour.
Two teaspoons baking-powder.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One-fourth cup milk.
One cup chopped peanuts.
One-half teaspoon lemon juice.
Cream butter, add sugar gradually, add well-beaten egg. Mix and sift baking-powder, salt and flour; add to first mixture. Then add milk, peanuts and lemon juice. Drop from tip of a spoon on a greased pan one inch apart. Place peanut on top of each. Bake 12 to 15 minutes in a slow oven.

BAKED FIG PUDDING

One-fourth cup butter or other fat.
One-half cup sugar.
One egg.
One and one-half cups sifted soft-wheat flour.
Two cups chopped dried figs.
Two teaspoons baking powder.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
One-half cup milk.
One-half teaspoon vanilla.
Cream the fat, add the sugar and the well-beaten egg. Take out about two tablespoons of the flour and mix with the figs. Sift together the remaining flour and the baking powder and salt and add alternately with the milk to the fat and egg mixture. Stir in the flour-coated figs and add the vanilla. Bake in a greased baking dish for about 1 hour in a moderate oven. Serve hot with lemon sauce or hard sauce, to which a little lemon juice has been added.

RECIPES FOR NEXT WEEK

Beef Rolls.
Cut two pounds round steak sliced one-quarter inch thick, into six pieces, having them about twice as long as they are broad. Make a dressing of two cups dry bread crumbs, two tablespoons melted butter, one-fourth cup milk, one teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper and a few minced sweet pickles, chopped and spread a thin layer over each piece of meat. Roll and fasten with skewers or toothpicks. Dredge with flour and fry in hot butter until a golden brown. Four two cups white sauce over the rolls, cover and bake at 400 degrees F. for 45 minutes, or until rolls are tender. Serve hot with lemon sauce or hard sauce, to which a little lemon juice has been added.

Celery and Cheese Salad.
One cup chopped celery.
One cup cooked peas.
One cup grated American cheese.
Blend all ingredients, using seasonings to taste and mayonnaise to moisten well. Serve on crisp lettuce.

Carrots and Spinach.
Two cups diced carrots.
One green pepper.
One and a half cups medium cream sauce.
Three cups of cooked spinach.
One tablespoon butter.
Salt and pepper to taste.
Boil the diced carrots and shredded green pepper until tender; drain and add to cream sauce. Heat spinach thoroughly, add butter and season. Pile cooked spinach in individual mounds on a hot platter. Make a depression in each mound and fill with the creamed vegetable.

Escalloped Corn.
Three cups canned corn, two-thirds cup cracker crumbs, one egg, one cup milk, one-half teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon paprika, one teaspoon sugar, four tablespoons butter (melted).
Mix ingredients and pour into buttered baking dish. Bake twenty-five minutes in moderate oven. Serve in dish in which baked.

Baked Halibut.
Two pounds fish.
Two cups tomatoes.
One slice onion.
Three cloves.
One-half teaspoon sugar.
Three tablespoons butter.
Three tablespoons flour.
Three-fourths teaspoon salt.
One-eighth teaspoon pepper.
Cook tomatoes, onions, cloves and sugar 20 minutes and strain; melt butter, add flour and stir until blended; then add the first mixture and cook 10 minutes. Prepare fish, and put in baking pan and pour one-half the sauce and bake 35 minutes, basting often. Remove to platter when thoroughly cooked and pour over remaining sauce.

LEMON CORNSTARCH PIE

Four tablespoons cornstarch.
One cup sugar.
One-quarter teaspoon salt.
One and one-half cups cold water.
Four tablespoons lemon juice.
One-half lemon rind, grated.
One tablespoon butter.
Three eggs.
Mix the cornstarch, sugar and salt in the upper part of a double boiler. Add the water, stir, and cook over direct heat until thickened. Place in the lower part of the boiler, cover, and cook for 15 minutes. Beat the egg yolks, pour into them a small quantity of the hot mixture, and return to the double boiler. Cook for a few minutes, and add butter and lemon juice and rind. Beat and pour into a baked pie crust and let stand for a few minutes. Make a meringue from the beaten egg whites, six tablespoons sugar, and a few grains of salt and a few drops of vanilla. Spread over the top of the filling to the edge of the crust and bake in a very moderate oven for 15 to 20 minutes, or until lightly browned. Serve cold, so that the filling has time to set.

Stewed Rhubarb.
Wash peel and cut rhubarb in one inch pieces. If pink and tender, do not peel, as the color much better if skin is left in. Add just enough water to keep from burning. When nearly done, add sugar to taste. Cook until tender.

SWEET POTATO AND PINEAPPLE

Six medium-sized sweet potatoes.
Two tablespoons butter.
Four or five slices pineapple.
Marshmallows.
Cook potatoes in boiling salted water until soft. Drain, peel and mash with wire potato masher or press through ricer. Add butter and pineapple juice and beat until light and smooth. Half fill baking dish with potato; cover with layer of wedge-shaped pieces of pineapple and marshmallows cut in halves. Fill dish with potato and lay slices of pineapple on top. Sprinkle with brown sugar. Place whole marshmallows in holes of pineapple slices. Bake in moderate oven until marshmallows brown and melt slightly.

GRANDMOTHER
put on linsey woolsey and ate beefsteak for breakfast

HOW times have changed. Red flannels and heavy woollens went out when steam-heat and closed cars came in. And so did the old-fashioned ideas about hot, heavy dishes.

Today, the call is all for crispness. Kellogg's Corn Flakes—served with milk or cream and a bit of fruit. Delicious, refreshing flakes... rich in energy... easily, quickly digested!

You feel so much keener, satter, after a bowl of Kellogg's. Fine for lunch as well as breakfast. Splendid for children's suppers.

So convenient too. No cooking or trouble to serve. Always oven-fresh and flavor-perfect. The world's most popular ready-to-eat cereal twelve months out of the year! Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

FOOD MANUFACTURERS HONOR PHILIP HASSENDEUBEL

The St. Louis Association of Manufacturers' representatives will hold a testimonial dinner Monday noon in Parlor A, Statler Hotel, for Mr. Philip Hasendeubel, head of the Hasendeubel Wholesale Grocery Co.

Hasendeubel is the oldest wholesale grocer in St. Louis, Monday being his eighty-fifth birthday, and is active in the operation and control of this company which started business in 1880 at Second and Pine streets and is now located in a large building on the corner of Second and Chouteau.

Italian Salad.

Mix together equal parts of cooked green peas, small diced cooked white turnip, cooked string beans and asparagus tips. For dressing use half cup of wine vinegar and olive oil with small amount of chopped onion, a tiny piece of garlic, tarragon and parsley mixed in. Serve garnished with leaf lettuce, sweet sliced dill pickles and small or sliced cooked beets.

NEW CANAPES PLEASE

BRIDGE CLUB GUESTS

Many Suggestions Given for Toast, Cracker and Rusk Base.

Never too many canape recipes, for these may be served on so many occasions, before formal dinners, for after the show snacks, or with beer after a game of bridge.

You will find some new suggestions and old favorites in the recipes below. They may be served on crackers, rounds of toast or rusks cut in small shapes.

By the way, do you know that the literal meaning of the French word "canape" is "sofa"? Someone said the word was selected because a canape is something for an appetizer to rest on; but we have our doubts about that. A more logical reason would be that canapes were at first formally served in the drawing room, presumably while guests are sitting on the sofa. But who cares, anyway? It is sufficient that canapes are such delightful morsels. By any other name, they'd probably taste as good.

Canape Suggestions.

Anchovy butter: Blend equal parts of creamed butter with anchovy paste. Add a few drops of onion juice, or a little minced onion, if desired.

Deviled ham butter: Blend equal parts of creamed butter with deviled ham and add mustard to taste.

Cheese and olives: Put through the grinder two parts American cheese and one part stuffed olives. Mix together.

Sardine butter: Blend equal parts of mashed sardines and creamed butter. Serve with an accompanying dish of minced onion.

Caviar special: Mash yolks of three hard-cooked eggs, and blend with one-third cup of caviar and one-third cup of creamed butter.

Pickled beet and Egg: Combine equal amounts of minced pickled beet and minced hard-cooked egg. Mushroom royal: Mince mushrooms and saute in a small amount of butter. Season with salt and pepper. Serve hot.

Goose liver paste: Combine equal parts of mashed goose liver or liverwurst and creamed butter.

Lobster or crab paste: Combine equal parts of finely flaked crabmeat or lobster meat with creamed butter or mayonnaise. Add lemon juice if desired.

Peanut Butter and Bacon Canapes. One-third cup peanut butter. One teaspoon horseradish. Two strips broiled bacon, chopped. Mix first three ingredients together. Spread on crackers.

Scallion Hors d'Oeuvres. Two tablespoons mayonnaise. One teaspoon horseradish. Four scallions. One pimiento. Blend mayonnaise and horseradish, and spread on small crackers. Slice scallions and place one slice on each cracker. Garnish with a tiny square or star-shaped piece of pimiento.

SALMON BISQUE

Two cups salmon liquor and water combined.

One teaspoon minced onion.

One teaspoon salt.

One-quarter teaspoon paprika.

One-half cup finely rolled crackers.

One cup flaked salmon.

Two tablespoons butter.

One and three-quarters cups milk.

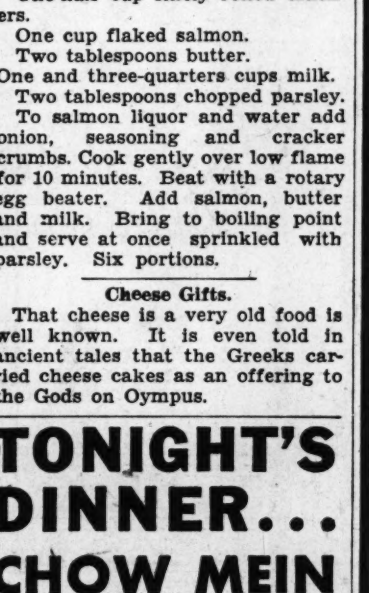

Two tablespoons chopped parsley.

To salmon liquor and water add onion, seasoning and cracker crumbs. Cook gently over low flame for 10 minutes. Beat with a rotary egg beater. Add salmon, butter and milk. Bring to boiling point and serve at once sprinkled with parsley. Six portions.

Cheese Grits.

That cheese is a very old food is well known. It is even told in ancient tales that the Greeks carried cheese cakes as an offering to the Gods on Olympus.

Beat white of egg until stiff, add pulp, sugar and lemon juice to taste. Beat until stiff.

Best as a CEREAL
Best for COOKING

It's so convenient to keep a package of Kellogg's All-Bran in the kitchen. Serve it as a cereal. Use it also as a healthful ingredient in your cooking. For muffins, breads, omelets, waffles, etc.

All-Bran brings your family the "bulk" that is so helpful in correcting common constipation.

Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. In severe cases, with each meal. How much better than raking patent medicines!

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's All-Bran supplies "bulk" and vitamin B to aid regular habits. This "bulk" is similar to that in leafy vegetables. All-Bran is also rich in iron for the blood.

Special processor of cooking and favoring make Kellogg's All-Bran finer, softer, more palatable than ordinary raw bran.

And because it is all bran—with only flavoring added—it brings you more "bulk" than part-bran products.

FROZEN SALAD GOOD AFTER BRIDGE GAME

A frozen tuna fish salad, highly seasoned, may be just the new idea you are looking for to serve after bridge or as a main dish for a bridge luncheon.

Soak two teaspoons plain gelatin in six tablespoons cold water and dissolve over boiling water. Add two cups flaked tuna fish (or other sea food), two-thirds cup ketchup, two tablespoons lemon juice, one teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, three tablespoons vinegar, one teaspoon evaporated horseradish, soaked 10 minutes in one tablespoon cold water, three-fourths teaspoon salt and one-half cup mayonnaise.

Mix gently. Pour into two trays of automatic refrigerator and allow to freeze, stirring once during freezing process. Cut into one-half inch squares and serve on slices of tomato on nests of lettuce. Use three slices of tomato for each salad and place a square on each slice. Garnish with mayonnaise and serve. Tiny mounds of cold slaw may be used in place of the tomato slices.

BEEF STEW WITH DUMPLINGS—MAKES A SUBSTANTIAL MEAL

One and one-half pounds round beef, cut in pieces.
Two tablespoons butter or other shortening.
Six cups boiling water.
One cup diced carrots.
One cup diced turnips.
One cup small onions, whole.
One and one-fourth teaspoons salt.
One-eighth teaspoon pepper.
One-half teaspoon Worcestershire sauce.
Three tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca.

Dumplings.
One cup sifted flour.
One and one-fourth teaspoons baking powder.
One teaspoon salt.
One teaspoon melted butter.
One-half cup milk.
Brown meat in butter, add water, cover and simmer about two hours, or until nearly done. Add vegetables and seasonings and continue cooking 30 minutes, or until tender; then add tapioca and bring to a brisk boil, stirring constantly. Drop dumpling mixture from teaspoon onto boiling stew; cover very tightly and cook without removing cover five minutes or longer, according to size of dumplings. Serves six to eight.

ASPARAGUS MOUSSE

Two tablespoons butter.
Two tablespoons flour.
Three-quarters cup milk.
One teaspoon chopped onion.
One and one-half cups grated American cheese.
Three eggs.
One and one-half cups cooked asparagus.
Salt, pepper.
Make a sauce with butter, flour and milk. When thickened and smooth, remove from fire. Add chopped onion and cheese, and stir until cheese is melted. Add beaten egg yolks and blend well. Carefully add the asparagus cut in small pieces. Season to taste. Fold in the beaten egg whites. Pour into a buttered casserole and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, about 30 minutes, or until center is slightly firm. Or bake in a well-buttered ring mold.

CHICKEN A LA KING

Four tablespoons butter.
Five tablespoons flour.
Three cups milk.
One-quarter teaspoon salt.
One-quarter teaspoon paprika.
Four tablespoons celery, chopped.
Four tablespoons green pepper, cooked.
One cup mushrooms, cooked.
Two tablespoons chopped pimento.
Two cups diced fowl, cooked.
Stir the flour into the melted butter and add milk gradually until white sauce is of proper thickness. Add seasonings and the fowl, and heat through.

Grilled Sardines.
Under the broiler flame, grill sardines and season with a dash of lemon juice. Spread fingers of toast or crisp biscuits with butter and mustard. Serve the sardines on the toast or biscuit.

NOODLES, CHICKEN AND MUSHROOMS

One package noodles,
Two tablespoons butter,
Four eggs,
Three-quarter cup milk,
Salt and pepper.
Cook noodles in boiling salted water, drain and rinse with cold water. Beat eggs slightly, add milk, salt and pepper and melted butter.
When the noodles have drained thoroughly mix with the egg and milk. Pour into a well buttered ring mold and cook in a pan of hot water in a moderate oven 30 to 45 minutes. The ring is thoroughly cooked if knife put into it comes out clean. Loosen the edge of the mold with a knife and turn out on a hot platter. Fill the center with creamed chicken and mushrooms. Garnish with parsley and hard cooked eggs.

DATE AND NUT SANDWICHES

ORANGES CONSIDERED PROTECTIVE FOOD

Government Bureau Experts Urge Frequent Use of Fruit.

Oranges are nowadays common in every part of the United States.
This is important, not only because they add so much to the "pleasures of the palate," but because they are one of the most valuable of what the nutrition specialists call the protective foods. They are one of the foods that help to keep the gums in good condition, and to make good teeth—this because they are such an excellent source of vitamin C, which has to do also with the general health, and is necessary to prevent scurvy.
Orange juice is good for babies especially. They can take it easily and they need it because milk does not give them enough vitamin C, and because they do not eat enough of the other foods that contain this vitamin. There are other good sources of vitamin C, of course—tomatoes, particularly, raw cabbage, raw turnips and grapefruit and tangerines—all the citrus fruits, in fact. Oranges, however, are at their cheapest this time of year.

It is good news, also, says the Bureau of Home Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture, that two or three million bags of oranges are on their way from Florida to be distributed free to needy families throughout the Eastern half of the United States.
Florida growers have donated these oranges to the Federal Surplus Relief Corporation, which will pass them on to the state relief agencies. All of the states East of the Mississippi, and Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Arkansas and Louisiana will share in this distribution.

For people who can afford to buy, it is fortunate that oranges are plentiful now in the market.
The range in price, of course, is very great. In Northern cities and in the Middle West, oranges cost two to three times as much as in the South and on the Pacific Coast, but even for the family with very little to live on, a bag of oranges is a good investment whenever it can be managed. Two tablespoons of orange juice per day is the least the baby should have, the doctors say, unless he has about twice as much tomato juice instead. The relative cost will determine which he will get.

For that matter, even a bountiful meal is improved if oranges or orange juice are reserved. The additional vitamin C—from oranges or tomatoes or any other good source—gives that much more protection to the gums and teeth.

Vitamins in Peel.
Oranges contain other vitamins—
A, B, and G. The outer peel, as well as the juice, contains vitamins A, B, and C, which means that the sliced rind contributes some vitamin value to the dish in which it is used for flavoring.

Scurvy is a very ancient disease and is the extreme form of illness due to lack of vitamin C. For centuries soldiers and sailors died of it in great numbers, because they could not carry fresh green foods in the army or ship stores. Finally, the doctor discovered that lemon juice would prevent scurvy, and the concentrated juice became a part of the sailors' rations. Admiral Byrd's expedition now in the Antarctic has the benefit of the latest scientific discoveries about vitamin C. Among the medical supplies is a little bottle of the vitamin itself—highly concentrated, and enough, the expe-dition's doctor says, to protect the forty-odd men from scurvy for two years.

There is a mild, or incipient scurvy, however, which is much more of a danger in every day life than the acute form to which scurvy and rickets and explorers are subject. An otherwise good diet may be low in vitamin C, unless somebody in the household checks up on it. The result in such a case may be just a general low state of health, bad gums, loose teeth, and so on, which could be remedied by correcting the diet.
Baked potatoes, green vegetables when properly cooked for the shortest possible time, raw vegetables such as cabbage, turnips and green lettuce, and raw fruits—all these contribute vitamin C. But to make sure of enough, specialists recommend oranges, or other citrus fruits, or else tomatoes, two to four times a week for adults, and orange or tomato juice every day for children, in addition to green vegetables and other fruits.

To get the most for the money invested in oranges use the rinds in cooking. Sweet potatoes scalloped with strips of orange rind make an inviting dish. Slice the orange skin and boil it for about five minutes in half a cup of water.
Scatter the slices of orange skin in the baking dish with the sweet potatoes, sprinkle with a fourth of a cup of sugar (to five sweet potatoes) and pour the orange water over all. Sandwiches for lunch or supper can be made by mixing grated orange rind with butter for the sandwich spread. As flavoring for puddings, cakes, or other desserts, in biscuits, or muffins, the grated orange rind adds a very attractive touch.

Orange Turn-Over Biscuits.
Two cups sifted soft-wheat flour.
Four teaspoons baking powder.
One teaspoon salt.
Three tablespoons fat.
Two-thirds cup milk.
One-fourth cup melted butter.

BRAN SPICE COOKIES

One cup shortening
Two cups sugar
Two eggs
One-fourth cup milk
Three and one-half cups flour
Three teaspoons baking powder
One teaspoon salt
Two teaspoons cinnamon
One teaspoon allspice
One teaspoon vanilla
One-half cup seeded raisins
Two and one-half cups bran.
Cream the shortening and sugar.
Beat in eggs. Add milk. Sift the dry ingredients and add to first mixture. Add remaining ingredients. Mix well. Roll and store in refrigerator. When needed, slice thin and bake on cookie sheet in hot oven (425 degrees Fahrenheit) about 12 minutes. As this makes rather a large amount, ingredients may be cut in half.

Fried Oysters

Clean oysters and dry thoroughly. Season with salt and pepper, dip in flour, egg and fine bread crumbs. Fry in deep fat (375 degrees F). Drain on brown paper.
Garnish with parsley and serve with tartar sauce.

ORANGE ICING

Two tablespoons butter.
One cup confectioners' sugar.
Two tablespoons fresh orange juice.
Grated rind of one orange.
Cream the butter, add the sugar and orange juice gradually, beat until soft and creamy. Spread once on cake.

Tomato Ice

Mix four cups tomato juice with one and a half teaspoons salt and two tablespoons sugar. Freeze, be-cut in squares and serve with milk.

CITRON COFFEE CAKE
 Two cups sifted flour
 Three teaspoons baking powder
 Two tablespoons sugar
 One-half teaspoon salt
 Four tablespoons butter or other fat
 One-half cup milk
 One-half cup cut citron
 One-half cup raisins, chopped
 One-fourth cup chopped nuts
 One teaspoon cinnamon mixed with
 Two tablespoons sugar.
 Sift together flour, baking powder, sugar, and salt, saving out two tablespoons of flour to mix with the fruit. Cut in the fat with a biscuit cutter, and add milk and floured fruit. In a greased pan, pat the dough down until it is about one and one-half or two inches thick, and bake for 35 to 40 minutes in a moderate oven. When done, butter the top and sprinkle over it a mixture of chopped nuts, cinnamon, and sugar. Place the cake in the oven again and let it remain until the sugar begins to melt.

Quick Orange Jam.
 Boil quickly about 10 minutes or until syrupy and clear: Two cups orange pulp and juice; one lemon, pulp and juice; one and one-half cups sugar. Makes two glasses.

MEXICAN TORTILLAS
FOR SUNDAY SUPPER
 Chili Con Carne and Native Salad Good With These.

Sunday nights when guests often drop in for supper need special planning. It's good to have something on hand so that carefree hospitality may be the rule without any awkward scrambling at the last minute.

Try Mexican favorites sometime, tortillas, somewhat modified to better suit the American taste, chili con carne, a native salad made of meat and vegetables, hot Mexican sandwiches and Mexican rabbit.

Then, cans of Mexican tamales may be purchased at some shops, and also Mexican deviled sandwich spread, good, too, for impromptu meals.

Tortillas.
 One cup cornmeal.
 One and one-half teaspoon baking powder.
 One teaspoonful salt.
 Four eggs, well beaten.
 One cup milk.
 Sift together cornmeal, baking powder and salt. Add beaten eggs to milk, then add to the sifted flour mixture. Beat well and fry on a hot griddle well greased with bacon fat. For each tortilla, use three tablespoons of the batter—each will make a large, flat cake—brown on one side, then turn and brown on the other, just as you would for ordinary griddle cakes.

Chili Con Carne.
 One pound ground beef.
 One onion, chopped.
 One tablespoon butter.
 One large can kidney beans.
 One small can cream of tomato soup.
 One teaspoon salt.
 One-fourth to one-half teaspoon chili powder.
 Brown meat and onion in a skillet with butter. Stir frequently, and when the meat is brown, which will be about 10 minutes, add beans. Stir for several minutes, then pour over the meat and beans, the tomato soup. Add salt and chili powder. Simmer for 15 to 20 minutes.

Mexican Salad.
 One medium can kidney beans.
 One-half cup peas.
 One-half cup celery, diced.
 One-half cup cold meat, diced (ham, veal or pork).
 Six pickled preserved sweet onions, chopped.
 One-half teaspoonful salt.
 Drain beans and peas and rinse the sauce from the beans. Marinate the beans, peas and celery in French dressing for half an hour. Add the meat, onions and salt, and mix with mayonnaise. Serve on crisp lettuce.

Mexican Hot Sandwiches.
 Two tablespoons chopped onion
 Two tablespoons melted butter or other fat
 Three cups canned tomatoes
 One green pepper, chopped
 One-half cup chopped celery
 One tablespoon flour
 Salt and pepper to taste
 One-half pound sliced bacon
 10 slices bread
 Thin slices soft American cheese.
 Cook onion for a few minutes in one tablespoon of the fat, add tomatoes, green pepper, and celery, and simmer uncovered for 25 to 30 minutes. Blend remaining fat with the flour, add to sauce with salt and pepper to taste, and stir until it thickens slightly. Fry bacon until crisp, and toast bread on both sides until golden brown. Make sandwiches of bread and bacon and lay thin slices of cheese on top. Put on hot plates and pour over sandwiches the hot tomato sauce.

Mexican Rabbit.
 Two tablespoons butter
 Two tablespoons chopped green pepper
 One tablespoon chopped onion
 Two tablespoons flour
 One cup milk
 Two cups grated American cheese
 Three-fourths cup soft bread crumbs
 Two cups cooked tomatoes
 Two eggs
 Melt butter and add chopped pepper and onion; cook slowly five minutes. Add flour, mix thoroughly, then add milk. Cook until thickened. Add cheese, stirring until melted. Add bread crumbs and tomatoes to cheese sauce; also beaten yolks of eggs and seasonings. Fold in stiffly beaten whites of eggs and bake 30 minutes in moderate oven. Serve on squares of toast.

Stuffed Celery.
 Let old English cheese stand at room temperature for an hour or more, until softened. Mash with a fork and blend with a small amount of milk, adding a few drops of Worcestershire sauce as seasoning. Stuff crisp celery with the cheese mixture. Serve as a salad accompaniment or as an appetizer.

ADVERTISING

The Sunday Post-Dispatch ranked first among the big Sunday newspapers in the United States in lines of Classified Advertising published during the year of 1933.

Satisfactory results which advertisers have enjoyed through the Post-Dispatch have been building want ad popularity in St. Louis year after year, both daily and Sunday.

This result record embraces all the big classifications — helps, automobiles, real estate, rentals, lost and found, business for sales, and other want ads.

The Post-Dispatch continues to maintain the title given this newspaper years ago—St. Louis' Big Want Ad Medium.

Initial limits. Corn started unchanged to  $\frac{1}{4}$  up, and subsequently altered little. Wheat futures were  $\frac{1}{2}$  up, and prices to fractionally above yesterday's finish. The market for soybean meal was quiet. Professional operators were apparently doing little, preferring to exercise caution until legislative and coin uncertainties at Washington were more definitely settled. The market for cotton was noted as a drag on price of other grains.

Corn and oats fluctuated narrowly, parallel to wheat. The market for soybean meal was quiet. Provision prices moved upward on account of the same factors.

Wheat futures purchased yesterday in 13,770,000 bushels and corn 2,445,000.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 9.—Stocks showed little inclination to continue the advance today and prices generally held to a rather narrow range. Most traders were undecided as to the immediate price trend. While the metals and a few specialties are up, the leaders are inactive. The close was irregular. Transfers approximated 1,300,000 shares.

Profit-taking followed the feeble rallies that appeared, but trading turned dull on the reaction to the inclusion of most other matters. Grains were only about steady. Cotton was somewhat steady. Bankhead restriction bill went over until next week. Silver and rubbers were a bit higher. Foreign exchange was featureless. A number of bonds showed further improvement, especially U. S. Government issues.

Some of the Canadian shares, including Canadian Pacific and Dominion Steel, advanced a point or more. U. S. Smelting held a two-point gain and American Smelting went up fractionally to round a point. Such stocks as Kellogg, Body and Shattuck attracted some popularity with advances of a point or less. The alcohols were up, and American Telephone showed resistance. United Aircraft lost nearly a point. Others off around a point included Chrysler, du Pont, Westinghouse, The American Can and Santa Fe. The utilities can be said to be easy.

Wheat finished unchanged to a cent higher. Corn was up 1/4 to 1/2 cent and oats 1/4 to 1/2 cent. Rye eased 1/4 to 1/2 cent, but barley rose 1/4 to 1/2 cent. At Winnipeg wheat advanced about a cent of a bushel. Cotton ended unchanged to 15 cents a bale lower. Bar silver was advanced 1/4 of a cent an ounce to 46 1/2 cents.

At mid-afternoon the British pound was off 1/4 of a cent at 48 1/2 cents. French francs were unchanged at 65.5 cents. Dutch guilders eased 1/2 of a cent to 67 1/2 cents. Belgian francs were off .01 and .03 of a cent, respectively. Canadian dollars were unchanged at 99.6 1/2 cents.

News of the Day.

Carloadings for the week ended March 3, were up 30,766 over the previous week, but this was much less than the seasonal gain owing to the abnormal weather conditions during the period.

While the financial district appeared to be somewhat reassured by developments at Washington, regulation of securities markets would be substantially amended. The opinion was mixed as to near-future price trends.

Some market commentators continued to point out that various "blue chip" stocks may have been ready discounted much of the recent economic news that is now appearing and that quotations, in several instances, should be out of line with earnings, both present and potential.

Participation in stocks and bonds from abroad was reported to have depreciated considerably in the past week or so, although strong buyers were being maintained here by leading European traders.

There was said to be little change in the short account from its status a month ago.

Weekly Bank Summary.

The weekly statement of the Federal Reserve System disclosed a balance of member banks which brought the total up to $1,830,000, another new high record. At the same time member banks borrowed $6,000,000 to $58,577,000, the lowest in a number of years. The lowest gold certificates increased by $227,000,000 as a result of transfers from the Treasury, part of which apparently was used for the purchase of imported gold.

CREDITORS CAPTURE BANKRUPT ON STREET

Three Discussing Case Run Into Man Sought for Four Months on Subpena.

Gus H. Dirhold, 64-year-old traveling salesman, whom United States deputy marshals had been seeking for four months under a bankruptcy subpoena, was found yesterday by the trustee of his property, who had caused issuance of the subpoena in a chance encounter on Broadway and Olive street.

As a result, Dirhold spent last night in the city jail after he had been charged in a Federal warrant, issued soon after the encounter, with use of the mails to defraud the trustee. He was to be arraigned today before United States Commissioner Burke.

The trustee, Arthur Kreisman, and the two creditors who had filed the bankruptcy petition against Dirhold last Aug. 31, were discussing their difficulties in getting him into Bankruptcy Court as they walked along Olive street yesterday afternoon.

"Why, here he is now," exclaimed Herbert G. Baur, one of the petitioning creditors, seeing a man in the traffic policeman on duty at the intersection hurried up to the group.

When Kreisman said the Dirhold was sought by Federal authorities for evading service, Dirhold was taken to Police Headquarters, where the subpoena was served. Then he was taken to Bankruptcy Court for questioning by the trustee, but the examination was continued at the request of his attorney, whom he had summoned meanwhile.

A short time later Dirhold was arrested under the warrant at his attorney's office and taken to jail.

The warrant was based on a letter, alleged to have been written by Dirhold last Jan. 30, in which a local investment firm was asked to sell 20 shares of Missouri Portland Cement stock "quickly" at a price of $3 a share or better. The letter instructed the firm to "put the currency in an envelope and hold it until I call."

GETS 12 YEARS, THEN 27 MORE AFTER ESCAPING, ROBBING MAN

Negro Ex-Convict Who Broke Out of City Jail Jan. 28

Pleads Guilty.

Paul Brown, Negro ex-convict who was sentenced to 12 years in prison last week on pleas of guilty to two robbery charges, was ordered to serve 27 years additional yesterday for breaking out of jail and committing another robbery.

Brown escaped from the City Jail Jan. 28, while awaiting trial on two robbery charges. On Feb. 8, he held up Louis Klein, pawnbroker at 2011 Market street, taking $100 and jewelry valued at $150. On Feb. 17, he was arrested and, last week, after pleading guilty, was given two concurrent 12-year terms.

Yesterday he was brought before Circuit Judge Baron and pleaded guilty. The Judge was informed that Brown had been convicted twice in Illinois of robbery and burglary and that he had pleaded guilty to robbery charges last week.

"Well," said the Judge, "you have four convictions already. You don't seem to be much good to yourself, do you?" The Negro agreed, and Judge Baron continued: "You are not much good to society, either. I will sentence you to 25 years in prison for the robbery you committed and two years for breaking jail. The terms will run consecutively and will start at the expiration of the 12-year term you already have to serve."

SAYS EX-WIFE PREVENTS HIM FROM SEEING CHILDREN

A petition for writ of habeas corpus was filed in the Circuit Court yesterday by Dr. Louis E. Barriell, 2124 Cooper street, to require that his two children be produced in court, so that he might arrange to visit them.

Mrs. Barriell obtained a divorce in April, 1929, and custody of a son, 17 years old, and a daughter, 10, and the Court ordered that Dr. Barriell, who is 33 years old, was to be permitted to visit the children. His petition states he has not seen his daughter since 1929 or his son during the last three years. He does not know where they are. He alleges his former wife is depriving him of his opportunity of seeing them. Dr. Barriell's attorney, Stephen A. Boggiato, said he was informed Mrs. Barriell was employed as a nurse at St. Louis Hospital.

Woman Killed When Bus Hits Tree. PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 9.—An unidentified woman about 40 years old was fatally injured and eight others were taken to the Rhode Island hospital here when a New York-Providence bus bound for this city skidded and crashed into a tree near the Johnston-Providence line this morning.

MARGONI ON COSMIC RAYS

He Says Italian Scientists Have Explained Them.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, March 9.—Italian scientists have dispelled all doubts regarding the extra-terrestrial origin of the cosmic rays, Guglielmo Marconi asserted in an address before the National Research Council last night.

He said that the expedition sent by the council last summer to Eritrea, the Italian possession in Equatorial Africa, obtained definite proof that the rays are deflected by the earth's magnetic field. This, he declared, "confirms the opinion long sustained by Italian scientists and rejected by a majority of foreign scientists that the Cosmic rays are electrically charged corpuscles. It also establishes the fact that the corpuscles are extra-terrestrial."

FEDERAL FUNDS TO BEAUTIFY 143 MILES OF STATE ROADS

Missouri Highway Department Announces Program Including St. Louis County.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 9.—A program of beautification of 143 miles of roadway will be started by the State Highway Department within the next few weeks from an allotment of $69,500 in Federal recovery funds, Scott Wilson, chairman of the Highway Commission, announces.

Wilson said the principal work would be the planting of trees, shrubbery and grass. The beautification would have a practical purpose, he said, for in addition to adding to the attractiveness of the highways, it would prevent erosion and washouts, thus lowering maintenance costs.

The projects for St. Louis County, as announced by Wilson, include: Six miles on Highway 66 between Kirkwood and St. Louis city limits; Intersection of Highway 77 and River-view drive; four miles on Highway 77, between route 99 and River-view drive; Intersection grade separation on route 77 and 40; two miles on route 77, between Highway 50 and Clayton rd.; 3.4 miles on route 77, between Big C. Fisher and Highway 30; 7.5 miles on route 99, between St. Louis city limits and route 5M; Intersection and grade separation on route 99, and Chamber road; four miles on route 77, between route 30 and Highway 61.

St. Louis was chosen for the 1935 convention, which will be held March 6-8. Sengle, Louis C. Fisher, Earl B. Glover, Erie, Pa., was advanced to first vice-president, and was succeeded as second vice-president by Charles E. Chamberlain, New Bern, N. C. Louis C. Fisher, Charleston, S. C., was re-elected secretary-treasurer. Randle Becker, Miami, Fla., and Hat A. Bell, Cincinnati, were added to the Board of Governors.

INDICTED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Driver Charged With Leaving After Killing Man.

An indictment charging Peter J. Zang Jr., 5501 Milant avenue, with feloniously leaving the scene of an accident has been voted by the grand jury, the Circuit Attorney's office announced. Otto Nichols, 60 years old, a gas inspector, 9027 Rosa avenue, was killed Feb. 9 when struck by Zang's car at Kingshighway and Goethe avenue.

Zang, 38, a cooper, told police he stopped after the accident, then drove home to tell his wife, intending to return to the scene. Police followed him to his home, however. Nichols had just stepped from the curb when struck.

The trustee, Arthur Kreiselman, and the two creditors who had filed the bankruptcy petition against Dirhold last Aug. 31, were discussing their difficulties in getting him into Bankruptcy Court as they walked along Olive street yesterday afternoon.

"Why, here he is now," exclaimed Herbert G. Baur, one of the petitioning creditors, seizing a man by the arm.

The man tried to break away and the traffic policeman on duty at the intersection hurried up to the group. When Kreiselman said that Dirhold was sought by Federal authorities for evading service, Dirhold was taken to Police Headquarters, where the subpena was served.

Then he was taken to Bankruptcy Court for questioning by the trustee, but the examination was continued at the request of his attorney, whom he had summoned meanwhile. A short time later he was arrested under the warrant at his attorney's office and taken to jail.

The warrant was based on a letter, alleged to have been written by Dirhold last Jan. 30, in which a local investment firm was asked to sell 20 shares of Missouri Portland Cement stock "quickly" at a price of $8 a share or better. The letter instructed the firm to "put the currency in an envelope and hold it until I call."

GETS 12 YEARS, THEN 27 MORE AFTER ESCAPING, ROBBING MAN
Negro Ex-Convict Who Broke Out of City Jail Jan. 26 Pleads Guilty.

Paul Brown, Negro ex-convict who was sentenced to 12 years in prison last week on plea of guilty to two robbery charges, was ordered to serve 27 years additional yesterday for breaking out of jail and committing another robbery.

Brown escaped from the City Jail Jan. 26, while awaiting trial on two robbery charges. On Feb. 8, he held up Louis Klein, pawnbroker at 2011 Market street, taking $100 and jewelry valued at $150. On Feb. 17, he was arrested and, last week, after pleading guilty, was given two concurrent 12-year terms.

Yesterday he was brought before Circuit Judge Baron and pleaded guilty. The Judge was informed that Brown had been convicted twice in Illinois of robbery and burglary and that he had pleaded guilty to robbery charges last week.

"Well," said the Judge, "you have four convictions already. You don't seem to be much good to yourself, do you?" The Negro agreed, and Judge Baron continued: "You are not much good to society, either. I will sentence you to 25 years in prison for the robbery you committed and two years for breaking jail. The terms will run consecutively and will start at the expiration of the 12-year term you already have to serve."

Immediately afterward Judge Baron sentenced James Ralls, who said he lived at 2116 Cass avenue, to 12 years' imprisonment on his plea of guilty to two robbery charges.

SAYS EX-WIFE PREVENTS HIM FROM SEEING CHILDREN
Dr. L. E. Barriecelli Brings Habeas Corpus Action to Enforce Right Court Granted.

A petition for a writ of habeas corpus was filed in the Circuit Court yesterday by Dr. Louis E. Barriecelli, 2124 Cooper street, to require that his two children be produced in court, so that he might arrange to visit them.

Mrs. Barriecelli obtained a divorce in April, 1929, and custody of a son, 17 years old, and a daughter, 10, and the Court ordered that Dr. Barriecelli, who is 13 years old, was to be permitted to visit the children.

His petition states he has not seen his daughter since 1929 or his son during the last three years, and he doesn't know where they are. He alleges his former wife is depriving him of his opportunity of seeing them. Dr. Barriecelli's attorney, Stephen A. Boggiano, said he was informed Mrs. Barriecelli was employed as a nurse at Isolation Hospital.

REDBIRDS TRY NEW BALL; BROWNS STRESS BATTLING WORK

MANAGER FRISCH FIGURES CHANGE SURE TO AFFECT RACE FOR FLAG

By J. Roy Stockton.

Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.
BRADENTON, Fla., March 9.—"There has been plenty of talk about what the new ball was going to mean to ball clubs this year," Frankie Frisch said this morning, "but most of the conversation has been without benefit of experience or actual test of the thinner cover and tighter stitching. But we've used the ball now in seven weeks and I have come to the conclusion that the lively ball is likely to have an important effect on the pennant race."

"We have our share of long-distance hitters and for that reason I believe the livelier ball will do us more than just an average amount of good. I have noticed that the new ball carries farther, goes past the infielder more sure and while, of course, only the year's experience will show what effect it will have on the pitchers, I believe that the change will be important in the pennant race."

Coch Wares Agrees.

"You can bet your life there is a big difference," Coach Wares volunteered. "You know we had several dozen of the old baseballs left and, being thrifty, we naturally didn't want to throw them away. So we have been making them in with the new balls in batting practice and there certainly is a difference. Remember that ball you hit to right center yesterday afternoon, Frank? Well, that was a new ball. I followed up with two old balls and while you swung just as hard, you sent up a couple of pop flies. And you can bet that most of the long drives, out to the live oaks in center and right, were made with the new ball. I also noticed in hitting fungoes that it was tough to hit the old balls over the outfielders' heads, but with the new ball it was easy to send it far out of the fly chasers' reach."

Pitchers are still Coach Wares' to the effect the ball will have on their work. Dean thinks the new ball will help him—that it will help all fast-ball pitchers and will handicap curve-ball pitchers to a corresponding degree. But the curve ball pitchers are not willing to admit that they will be at a disadvantage. They still think that they can fool the hitters, but they point out there won't be as many low-scoring games as there were last season.

"Well, we'll start intensive training today," Frisch said. "We have less than a week now to prepare for the opening of the season and we want to be as near summer form as possible when we start the game. We've progressed wonderfully so far, we have shown that we have a powerful punch and I'm delighted with the way things are going."

Martin Works Hard.
Frisch was especially pleased yesterday with the work of Pepper Martin in the infield drill. Last year the Cardinals were woefully weak at breaking up base running and the efforts by the opposition and much time was devoted morning and afternoon today to drilling the infield to kill off base runners as quickly as possible.

Base runners were stationed on first and third and grounders were hit to the infield. The man on third dashed for the plate and the objective was to retire that runner as quickly as possible, to prevent the other runners from profiting by the delay of the run-up. Martin was moving in rapidly with the runner after a short drill and the base runners were finding it difficult to make any headway.

Frisch was pleased with the progress shown by the Wild Horse of the Osage and was lavish with his praise.

"That's the way Pie Traynor makes the play," Frisch shouted after Pepper had made several impressive putouts, and Frank thinks that Traynor is just about the last word in third basemen.

Tom Carey, who arrived yesterday afternoon, will have his first workout today and will be watched with interest. He is said to be favored by many observers as likely to win a job as utility infielder.

Virgil Davis and Bill Delancey continued to show their batting power in the slugging drill and each did some fancy throwing in the infield drill.

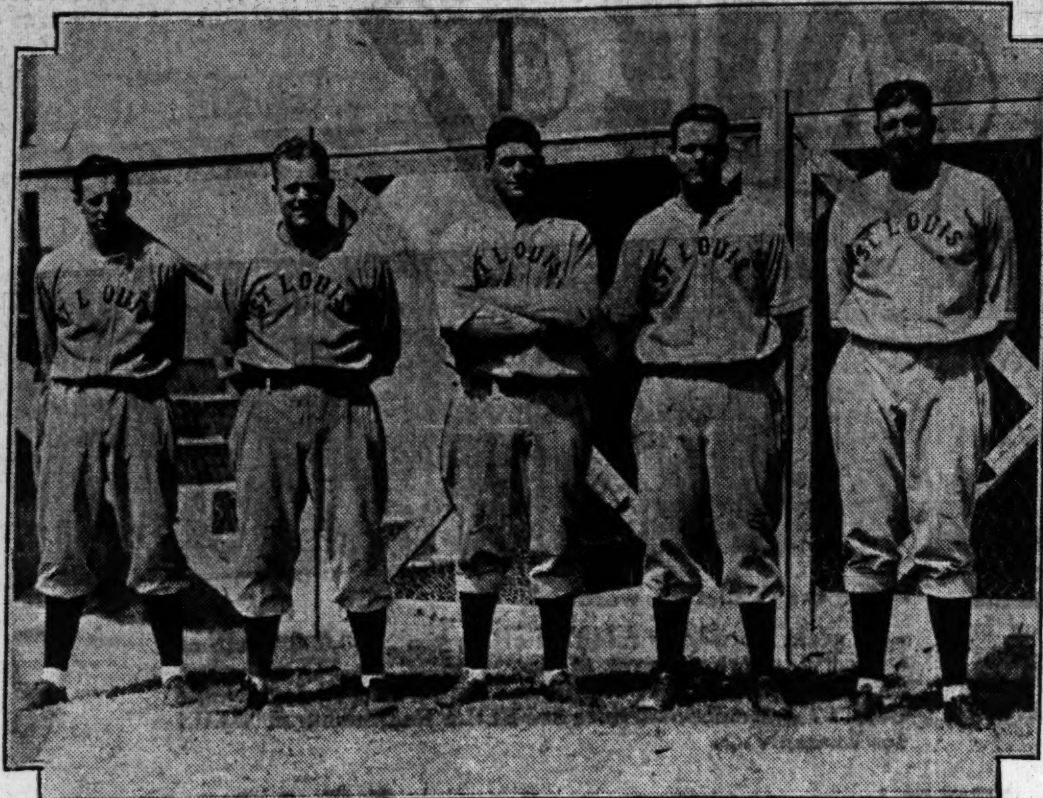

Orzatti had a conference with Sam Bredon and is expected to sign shortly. A compromise agreement as to his salary is likely to be reached. Ernle always took what was offered in the prosperous days and figures he deserves some consideration, now, despite the late depression. If he didn't love baseball so much, he'd be back in California, where he always can find employment in the movies.

POLAND BOXERS TO MEET GOLDEN GLOVE WINNERS OF CHICAGO

CHICAGO, March 9.—Poland's amateur boxing champions have accepted a challenge to meet Chicago's Golden Glove winners in the fourth annual international matches this year. The matches will be held at the Chicago Stadium, May 18.

There will be eight contests, one in each weight division, and each match will be five rounds of two minutes each.

Hornsby Hopes They'll Aid His Pitching Staff

Stix Victory Over Wieboldts Would Put St. Louis in U. S. Final 10th Time in 14 Years

By Herman Wecke.

If the Stix, Baer & Fuller soccer club defeats the Wieboldts of Chicago in the Western title series, beginning here Sunday, it will be the tenth time in the 14 years St. Louis has entered the national challenge cup competition, that a local team has won the title and gained the right to play the Eastern winner for the national championship.

The series between the Stix and Wieboldts marks the third time in three seasons that St. Louis and Chicago have fought it out for the Western honor. In 1932, the Stix defeated the Wieboldts, two games to one, while last year the Stix won from Sparta by scores of 7-3 and 1-0.

The only seasons in which St. Louis did not win the Western title were 1927, 1928, 1930 and 1931. In 1925, the local club did not enter the U. S. F. A. series, but instead played Boston for the professional title, being beaten by the Eastern team, which was captained by Alex McNab, now coach, captain and player on the Stix aggregation.

St. Louis' success in the title series began in 1920, the first year local clubs entered the competition, the Ben Millers defeating Fore Rivers, Mass., 2 goals to 1, in the final. In the next five seasons, St. Louis was in the series, local eleven made off with the Western honors, but captured the U. S. title only once—in 1922, when the Scullins won from the Todds, 3 to 2.

With the Stix battling for the Western title, it is the second time in local history that the same club has played for the honors in three successive years. The Scullins were Western title holders in 1921, '22 and '23, while the Stix captured the championship in 1932 and 1933 and now get another chance.

St. Louis' history in the national title competition:

Nine Preliminary Games in A. A. U. Basket Tourney

OMAHA, Neb., March 9.—Tulsa's Diamond Oilers, defending National A. A. U. basketball champions, will meet their first competition in the national meet at Kansas City next week when they oppose Sioux Falls College, either Monday or Tuesday. Preliminary and first-round pairings for the 57 teams tendered were made here today.

So large was the entry list that the A. A. U. basketball committee, headed by Dr. J. A. Reilly of Kansas City, tournament manager, scheduled nine games to be played during a preliminary round to be held Saturday and Sunday. Schabinger is athletic director of Creighton University here.

Schabinger explained that one first-round bracket will play its games Monday and the other Tuesday, but no decision will be made as to which will play first until he and Dr. Reilly reach Kansas City.

The schedule:

PRELIMINARY ROUND.
SATURDAY AFTERNOON.
2:30—Kansas City (Kan.) Jr. College
3:30—Lawrence (Kan.) Jr. College
5:00—Lawrence (Kan.) Jr. College
7:00—Lawrence (Kan.) Jr. College

SUNDAY.
10:00—Warrensburg Teachers vs. McPherson College, Sunday afternoon.
2:00—P. S. Boone vs. Washington, D. C. vs. Tulsa Business College, Tulsa, Ok.
4:00—Tulsa Business College vs. Oklahoma City, Ok. vs. Y.M.C.A., Kansas City, Mo.

7:00—White Eagles, Kansas City, Mo.

Ankle Injury Will Keep Cub Recruit Idle for Two Weeks

By the Associated Press.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 9.—GEORGE "TUT" STAINBACK, one of the Chicago Cubs' most promising rookie outfielders, who twisted his ankle in training at Avalon yesterday, probably will not be disabled for more than two weeks, Dr. H. J. Strathearn said last night.

X-ray photographs made of the injury were sent here for Dr. Strathearn's examination. He found that the injury was at an old break in the bone and was not serious, but that it would keep him from playing for a few days.

FOXX ACCEPTS TERMS; TO SIGN FOR ONE SEASON

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., March 9.—Jimmie Foxx, home run champion of Connie Mack's dismantled Philadelphia Athletics machine, today accepted the offer to sign for one season.

Mack's first offer was said to have been $11,000 which represented a $5,000 salary in the salary Foxx had been receiving. Then Mack raised the ante to $10,000 and a bonus based on attendance figures.

Foxx rejected this because Mack wanted to base the bonus on a million attendance at games in Philadelphia, a figure which the Athletics haven't reached in many years, if ever.

Foxx will don a uniform and take his place at first base against the Giants in Sunday's game. Jimmy had threatened to retire to his farm at Sellersville, Md., if his terms were not met.

MRS. HILL TO PLAY ENGLISH STAR FOR GEORGIA GOLF TITLE

By the Associated Press.

ALBANY, Ga., March 9.—Mrs. Opal Hill of Kansas City and Miss Kathleen Garnham of London, England, today advanced to the final in the third annual Radium Springs invitation golf tournament for women.

Mrs. Hill defeated Joan Bauer, Providence, R. I., at the twentieth hole and Miss Garnham won from Mrs. S. B. Lippitt of Albany, 6 and 4.

The 18-hole final match will be played tomorrow.

Giants' Rally in 9th to Defeat Athletics, 3-2

WALSH SIGNED AS 1934 COACH OF "GUNNERS"

By James M. Gould.

Charles F. (Chlie) Walsh, former director of athletics and head football coach at St. Louis University, today signed to coach the St. Louis Gunners, professional football team, for the coming season. Walsh succeeds Grinn Henry, recently appointed coach at the University of New Mexico.

Walsh was at St. Louis University for six seasons, starting as assistant to "Hunk" Anderson and succeeding him when the latter went back to Notre Dame, first as assistant and later as successor to Knute Rockne. Walsh played and coached at Notre Dame under Rockne. He resigned as head of the St. Louis athletic department after the 1933 football season. While at St. Louis U., his teams won 21 games, lost nine and tied one, each season.

Walsh was head coach, his team was regarded as the State football champion. Four seasons in a row, his teams defeated Missouri. Washington tied the Billikens Walsh's first season and then was defeated three times.

In taking over the coaching of the Gunners, Walsh has quite a record to shoot at, for last season, the professionals, under Grinn Henry, won 16 games, defeating among others the Chicago Cardinals and the Brooklyn Dodgers of the National Professional League and holding the "World Champion" Chicago Bears to a scoreless tie. Oklahoma City, Memphis, Green Bay and Cincinnati defeated the Gunners in last year's season.

Walsh expressed his pleasure at joining the Gunners. "Coach Henry has left quite a task to equal his record, but I feel I have been successful here before in my St. Louis work and am sure I will have even better years with the Gunners. I see even greater progress for the professional game in this and other sections. Professional football gives the coach many more opportunities than does the college game, and with a few changes we have in mind, the Gunners should be stronger than ever this year."

Officials of the Gunners also were pleased at obtaining the services of Walsh. "He has been turning out winning teams for St. Louis University," President Ed Butler said, "and there is no reason why he should not continue that success with the Gunners. We will give him every possible support."

The Gunners are seeking a berth in the National Professional League and President Butler, General Manager and Coach Walsh are scheduled for an early visit to Columbus, O., there to confer with President Joe Carr of the league regarding the franchise. Gunner officials believe that the league will be glad to accept St. Louis as a very favorable.

St. Louis Figure Skaters Shine in National Trials

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, March 9.—Thirteen-year-old Oliver Haupt Jr. of St. Louis, established himself as a favorite in the men's novice division of the national figure skating championships during the early part of the competition today.

The Missouri lad was one of five contestants who performed the "school figures" required in the preliminary competition of the two-day title meet.

Although the judges made no official comment on the standing of the contestants, his bid for the title was looked on with favor.

Among Haupt's competitors were Otto Dallmayr and E. A. Hallmund of New York, and a pair of Philadelphia skaters, Edna Harris, Rosanne Hoar and Marjorie Parker, all of New York; Mary E. Weigel, Buffalo; Barbara Rosenthal, Boston; Elizabeth Reford, St. Louis, and Mary Natwick, Baltimore.

Miss Natwick received an injury on her instep in practice, cutting herself with the heel of her left skate, but continued competition after receiving first-aid treatment.

"If a young fellow of average power comes up to the big league he ought to improve, if he has the big league complex. By that I mean if he is not suffering from stage fright. Some players never get the big league state of mind. Anyway, I'm going to give them all the best possible chance to become hitters. You can't get anywhere without good hitters."

Alan Strange was the only Brown rookie to hit over .300 last year—.324 was his mark. There is no minor league complex about Strange. Earl Clark hit .348 for a few games with the Browns, but the outfield competition on the Browns will be keen. He was with Albany part of last year.

Debs Garms, Hornsby and Sam West were the .300 men of last year's Browns. Hornsby thinks Campbell, Burns and possibly two other outfielders may reach this figure.

That would put the club average around .280 or better.

For the first time in the memory of Willie Johnson, traveling secretary of the Browns for 20 years, the training grounds has been equipped with a sliding pit. The players will not be asked to use this for a few days until they become toughened. When the second batting cage is ready, the batting practice at the plate will be shortened to permit more fielding practice.

Mrs. Rockefeller No Socialist.
The Pleasure of Vengeance.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

MR. JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER III, daughter-in-law of John D. Rockefeller Jr., authorizes denial of the statement that she has "turned Socialist" or joined the Socialist party.

Many are Socialists, not knowing it. Socialism, properly defined, means various theories for improving conditions under which human society is managed. Once respectable capital would have called "vile Socialism" a suggestion that the rich be taxed to educate the poor. Now, everybody is taxed for the public schools and few complain.

Once there were no fine parks, except those owned by wealthy private individuals, Kings and nobles. To suggest that the finest parks in the world should belong to the "common people" for their games and amusement would have seemed idiotic Socialism. But in all cities there are large parks which belong to the people, and are paid for by the taxpayers.

As for Uncle Sam, he is up to his neck and sinking rapidly in what would once have been called Socialism with his NRA regulations, hours, wages and days of work in favor of workers, his CWA spending millions to employ the idle.

A resident of Hollow Springs, Miss., whose 17-year-old daughter was mistreated by three Negroes, demands the satisfaction and vengeance of personally hanging the three men, now that they have been sentenced to death. The Mississippi Senate, 19 to 16, votes to oblige him. This is printed because it is news.

A few hundred years ago, everybody of consequence—Kings, Lords of the Manor, Bishops, merchants—all had their separate galleys, and exercised by proxy the right to hang criminals, including petty thieves. That has changed.

Mrs. Roosevelt, wife of the President, visiting the West Indies on a tour of inspection, especially to see "what can be done for the mothers and children," had flown over the water yesterday morning, 1298 miles, and will go on flying for some time. No President's wife ever did that before, but Mrs. Roosevelt's energy need not surprise you. She is a genuine Roosevelt, niece of Theodore Roosevelt, President of the United States, much more nearly related to Theodore Roosevelt than is her husband, President F. D. Roosevelt.

Gen. Johnson of NRA, possessing self-confidence on which great careers are built, wants "chiselers" to know, first, that he has been "too gentle," and they, "the chiselers," "ain't seen nothing yet." In other words, some are going to jail, unless Gen. Johnson is mistaken.

Also, chiselers and indifferent patriots need not hope to get rid of Gen. Johnson. He is there to stay. And if his methods are unorthodox, his job, also is unorthodox.

Mr. Jack Wallace of San Antonio, Tex., member of the NRA Code Authority on Shoe Manufacture, thinks the Government should control newspaper references to NRA, and asks: "Why not Government supervision of the press relating to the NRA?"

The gentleman will find his answer in the Constitution.

The South will be glad to hear that Russia needs 500,000 bales of cotton, and will buy it here if suitable terms of payment can be arranged. Some of the biggest industrialists, General Electric, Ford company and others, say Russia's credit is good. Even if it were a little shaky, it would be better to sell 500,000 bales of cotton to the Russians than to plow 500 bales underground.

Undertakers, of whom some prefer to be called "morticians," will read with mixed feelings of sympathy and admiration about the suicide of Andrew Mearkie, rich Philadelphia manufacturer. Mr. Mearkie studied efficiency, knew the importance of service. He stepped into a taxicab, directed the driver to take him to an undertaking establishment, blew his brains out on the way, and was all ready when the taxicab reached the undertaker.

Judge Allen Typifies Her Own Doctrines

Nominee for U. S. Court of Appeals Proves Her Case
For Feminine Ability.

FLORENCE ELLENWOOD ALLEN has always been an ardent advocate of the rights of women, but instead of merely agitating for reforms, she has made of herself a concrete example of her argument that woman can fill important positions as well as men. She started to provide that concrete example as far back as the beginning of the century, when she achieved a reputation as a music critic, a teacher of Greek, English and history, and as a music lecturer, and carried it along until her nomination the other day by President Roosevelt as a Judge of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

At the present time Judge Allen is on the bench of the Ohio Supreme Court, an elective office which she had held since 1922, and which seemed the apex of her judicial career, for it was as high an office as a woman appeared able to attain, and she was the first woman to attain it. A Federal position would have to be the next step, but women were not in the habit of being accorded Federal appointments of such importance. But then the new Administration took office, and Frances Perkins was given as high a position as a woman has ever held, so when a vacancy occurred in the Court of Appeals, it was logical that her name be submitted.

The career of a jurist has not been a lifelong ambition of Judge Allen, not the result of a childhood inspiration or anything so idealistic. She was born in Salt Lake City 50 years ago this month, and attended Salt Lake City College. Later, when her parents moved East to Cleveland, she studied at Western Reserve University in that city and obtained her A. B. degree.

After that she went to Europe, and there for two years she was assistant Berlin correspondent of the New York Herald Tribune. From 1904-06, returning to Cleveland to become a teacher in the Laurel School there. While in Cleveland she studied for her master's degree at Western Reserve, and quit her teaching work to become musical critic for a Cleveland paper. She was in 1908, and the following two years she spent studying law at the University of Chicago.

However, even then she did not immediately go into the practice of law. For one thing, women lawyers were not many, and had a hard time ahead of them at that period. Usually a woman who had studied law ended as a copyist or secretary in a law office. So Judge Allen went to New York and made use of her training to become legal investigator for the League for the Protection of Immigrants, and to take an active part in movements for greater political rights for women. From 1911 to 1913 she was assistant secretary of the National College Equal Suffrage League, and from 1913 to 1915, a member of the executive board of the Ohio Woman Suffrage Association. Women's rights have always been one of her leading interests, and as a member of the bar and bench she urged that women be generally admitted to serve as jurors.

SHE did not enter into the active practice of law until 1914, when she returned to Cleveland and hung out her shingle after being admitted to the Ohio bar. Her first really important case, which brought her into general public notice, was in 1916, when she carried the East Cleveland Municipal Woman's Suffrage case in connection with women's votes that had been declared illegal, to the Supreme Court of Ohio. Local judges and lawyers asserted she made the "best argument presented by any lawyer during that year."

In 1917 she appeared in a referendum case on the Reynolds presidential suffrage law and assisted in throwing out nine of every ten signatures in Cleveland; in 1918 she acted as arbitrator on behalf of union street railway employees in a labor dispute; in 1919 she appeared for woman street car conductors before the National Labor Board, the first woman to appear before that body.

In the meantime, during the war, she had been outspoken in favor of peace (she is an ardent peace worker) and among other things was "blacklisted" by the Massachusetts branch of the Daughters of the American Revolution and refused permission to address it, although descended from a revolutionary soldier. She often urged laws be enacted to make war a crime, and insisted such laws could be enforced.

Her first public office was when she was appointed assistant county prosecutor of Cuyahoga County, in which Cleveland is located, and was the first woman upon the formal programs of the Cuyahoga County Bar Association, and of the Ohio State Bar Association. The following year she ran for election to the Court of Common Pleas, and was elected, one of 10 candidates for four places. She led her nearest

SHOE STYLES FOR SPRING CREATED IN ST. LOUIS

Top—A spectator sport pump of brown and white combines a number of the new style notes for spring shoes. It is white perforated pigskin with brown calf heel cap and toes. Below—Blue as a color for shoes has become so strong that it is backing black into the wings. Here is a very smart one cyclist pump. It is of kid piped with white kid and has constructed openings on the side which give a windblown idea.

Back to the Gay Nineties went the designers to find a design suitable for the bicycle public of today and they did a good job of combining smartness with comfort in this modern bicycle shoe. It is designed for outdoor wear for the schoolgirl. It is of genuine beige pigskin trimmed with chestnut calf. An instep saddle strap gives a more rugged appearance. These styles were brought out by a St. Louis shoe manufacturing company and will be on exhibition at a style show at the Mart Building next week.

Top—Brown and white is exceptionally popular this season and is shown in this model of calf. It is made of white washable Yukon calf and is trimmed with Indies brown calf. It has a boulevard heel. Below—The very newest style in shoes which is being introduced to the general public for the first time this spring is the glove-fitting shoe. It is made of two soft pieces of kid shaped to the foot without the use of seams.

The Minerals That Are an Important Asset to Health

By Dr. Iago Galdston

FEW things impress one more with the complexities of the human body than the role played therein by certain minerals present in comparatively or absolute minute quantities.

Iron, for example, is essential to the proper functioning of the circulatory system. Iron in the form of hemoglobin is the vehicle which carries oxygen throughout the body. The total amount of iron in the body is negligible, and yet when it is lacking we have the conditions of anemia, mild or very serious. Up to within recent years it was common to find anemia affecting young women. This type of anemia was known as chlorosis. In recent years chlorosis has practically disappeared, and we are inclined to ascribe its disappearance to the change for the better in the diet consumed and to the free and active outdoor life led by girls and young women.

Anemias due to iron deficiency, however, are still to be found in the young, particularly in infants. In the course of a number of studies it has been found that from 45 to 51 per cent of breast-fed and bottle-fed babies under 12 months of age are anemic.

Milk, whether human or cow's, is deficient in iron, and unless the milk diet is supplemented with iron-containing foods the infant must soon develop anemia. It has been demonstrated that two-thirds of the iron present in the liver of a newborn child is deposited during the last three months of its uterine existence. The developing infant secures its iron from the mother. If, therefore, the mother's diet is lacking in iron, the infant may be born with an inadequate amount of iron.

To safeguard against, and to overcome this condition, iron-containing foods are recommended for the pregnant and the nursing woman. Such foods consist essentially of meat, egg yolk, green vegetables and calf's liver.

A Practical Pattern
When there is a pattern in the kitchen to wipe up the linoleum each day there is nothing prettier than the blues, whites and gray tones, but if the housewife does all her own work, sewing, caring for the children, etc., a wise choice is a darker linoleum and one that is well covered. Because this housewife cannot possibly find time to scrub her kitchen each day, she can save herself much work and worry by a practical pattern on the kitchen floor.

opponent by 10,000 votes, on a non-partisan ticket. She is nominally a Democrat, but believes a Judge should be non-partisan. The Judge who goes into office on a party ticket, she declared as far back as 1922, goes into office with obligations and "becomes the center of a vicious circle." He must look to the future. He must make friends. He does this by doing favors.

Instead of party, Judge Allen has looked to women for support. And she has received it. Women rallied to her support in 1922, and helped her to the Supreme Court of Ohio.

'Little Man, What Now?' Book That Everyone Should Read

By ELSIE ROBINSON

I READ it in October, with the first fall wind whining at the window . . . and the memory of that terrible Times Square bread-line whimpers in my heart. I read it in December, with the black rain beating on the pane . . . and the menace of the mingling riots plucking at my mind.

Now I'm reading it in March . . . with a film and flicker of spring spreading beneath snow and ice . . . and a buoyant hope, at last, stirring in the hearts of men. It's still like a sane, strong hand reaching down into human misery . . . striking straight into human ignorance . . . leading us out, and up, into better understanding, into a new faith.

Fifty of words to spend in describing one small book—and the simplest of tales, at that. But it merits them all. For here at last comes a writer who dares to tell the truth about the Little Man and his poverty . . . about You and Me and the world we've made . . . without tears or fears, false hopes or maudlin mumbings. And "Little Man, What Now?" is not a novel. Here are two loving, living, frightened, stupid, brave youngsters, and their story is—Our Modern World. It is the story of the struggle of two plain young people in a society robbed of beauty, decency and dignity by the greedy, powerful and selfish.

Pinneberg and Bunny are not characters in fiction. And "Little Man, What Now?" is not a novel. Here are two loving, living, frightened, stupid, brave youngsters, and their story is—Our Modern World. ## Willy Nilly Wins His Fight Over The Duck's Pond

By Mary Graham Bonner

"LISTEN to me, Grandpa Gump!" Willy Nilly commanded. "If you drain our pond I will go around to every swamp in the neighborhood and the swamp far away, and I'll gather all the mosquitoes and the little mosquitoes that I can."

"Then I'll bring them all to your house. I'll do that every night all spring and all summer. I won't bother about attending to anything else. My friends will do everything that has to be done around Puddle Middle—and if any chores are neglected, I can't help it. I won't have you draining the Duck's pond."

At the thought of all the mosquitoes being brought to him every evening Grandpa Grouch Gump was miserable. "Won't you have fun as they buzz around you?" Willy Nilly continued. "I don't suppose you care for their singing, do you? People who don't like mosquitoes do not care for their voices any more than for their bites."

"I'll carry them in netting so they won't bother me, but I'll let them free as I reach your place." Grandpa Grouch Gump turned away.

"All right," he said slowly. "I won't drain the pond. It would be a lot of trouble anyway, and if you bring around some dragon flies I hope we won't have any mosquitoes."

He was gone. The Duck's pond danced around Willy Nilly, dancing awkwardly, but happily. "Oh, Willy Nilly, you're a wonder!" they cried. And each went at once into the pond—their own pond, their lovely, cool, beloved pond!

When tested with fork. Add rest of ingredients. Boil one minute. Serve.

2—"Love at first sight."
3—"It's a white elephant."
4—"Look, he is winding up the watch of his wit; by and by it will strike."

Lots of fatigue is due simply to being run down, authorities say. You catch cold easily, can't sleep, don't eat right—consequently feel all worn out most of the time. "Build yourself up with vitamins and minerals," that's the latest advice.

Thanks to recent discoveries, you can now get health-building vitamins without taking cod liver oil. McKesson's Vitamin Concentrate Tablets of Cod Liver Oil bring you—3 of them—as much vitamins A and D as 2 teaspoons high grade cod liver oil. Plus important minerals (calcium and phosphorus). Chocolate coated—no fishy taste!

Start at once taking these tablets after meals. Give them to the children. Food—not medicine! Get more pep, resistance to colds, feel better every day. Ask your druggist. Be sure he gives you McKesson's Vitamin Concentrate Tablets—they're the ONLY ones containing minerals as well as vitamins.

How to Defend Hand Against A Double by the Opponents

By P. HAL SIMS

WE MUST admit that when the opponents open the bidding against you they make it very hard for you to get to many a game which is a laydown to make, but a tough assignment to bid.

That is, when your hand is not strong enough or not aggressive enough in type to permit a force, and when the strength is divided in a manner which is easy to play but hard to bid. As you know, one purpose of my treatment of third-hand bids is precisely to interfere with the bidding. I expect to be exchanged by opponents who may, I fear, have a game if they can get to it. We are now considering this situation from their standpoint. We have a game, but they have opened the bidding. Our strength is divided so that a force is impossible. The distributional double is the first step; it is the double's rebid which is a delicate problem. In yesterday's article I explained the kind of reasoning to apply; but I want to warn you that it is far from simple. Some of these hands will get to three and go down; others will get to four and go down; others will get to two or three, and game will be made. The procedure I suggest is the best I have been able to devise up to now for overcoming the interference occasioned by the opponents having opened the bidding against us when we have a game hand, particularly when the game is in a trump suit. The double doubles, I do not bid on weakness at this point. I treat the double exactly as I would an overcall. It has kept the bidding open for my partner, so this function no longer devolves on me. If I do bid, it is because I am making a constructive move and can see at least another bid ahead. To raise his suit is to bid. "Had there been no double, I could almost, if not quite, have given you a leeway jump raise." To bid a no trump over a double I would be practically strong enough to bid two no trumps had the double passed. Some hands, I notice, always raise over a double. It is because I am making a constructive move and can see at least another bid ahead. To raise his suit is to bid. ## Correct Usage in Expressing Appreciation

By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post: ABOUT 10 days ago I received a box of candy from a friend who lives in a city near by. Since then I haven't heard from him at all. This seems strange to me and I'm not sure whether I ought to do something to acknowledge the gift before I hear from him or see him?

Answer: It must seem much more than strange to you, but I don't think you have not had the politeness to write him a note of thanks for the candy he sent you!

My Dear Mrs. EMILY POST: I am going to visit a friend who lives in a boarding house in a small town where every one is friendly. I shall be there for two nights and will stay in her room with her. May I take a little gift, say candy, to the landlady, to show my appreciation of her willingness to let me stay with my friend at no extra expense to either one of us?

Answer: It is rarely—if ever—improper to give a small present of appreciation for kindness that has been shown you. It would, of course, be VERY improper to send a present in the hope of receiving a favor in return.

Dear Mrs. Post: I received a birthday gift from a girl who used to be a dear friend but whom I now detest. What shall I do?

Answer: If you definitely intend to end all acquaintance with her, return the present with a written message such as "Mary Smith does not feel that she can accept the enclosed." If you do not care to end the friendship, write on your card, "Thanks for birthday remembrance." If you are willing to "make up," write a friendly note of thanks.

Dear Mrs. Post: I have received a gift sent through the mail which was broken when it reached me. My sister says that if I write that it was broken, she who sent it will feel obliged to replace it with something else, but I feel that she would want the postoffice to make some restitution.

Answer: I do not think that the postoffice is ever responsible for breakage—since that is caused by bad packing. If the present was sent direct from a store, and the postoffice will verify its receipt in damaged condition, you might write your friend, since the store would be responsible. Otherwise, say nothing in your note of thanks about its being broken.

Formality Can Be Overlooked Among Friends

There Is No Need to Stand
On Ceremony in a Long Standing Friendship.

By Martha Carr

My Dear Mrs. Carr: My home is in another city. So I am home every few months. Formerly he came here to see me. But since he lost his job he hasn't. He still is attentive when I am home and always writes first; I am wondering now if this last is right. I don't want him to think I am ignorant of the polite thing. He is so very courteous and considerate of me; and would never let me know if he thought I was wrong. He is just not that kind. I will thank you, Mrs. Carr, for any criticism you may offer me. BLESSED.

On the theory that friends are always interested in knowing whether or not the journey has been a safe one, it is your place to write first. But I do not think any conventional idea would obtain, stiffly, between two such old friends. While I do not think girls should be quite so eager as some of them seem to be, you should write him first after your return if you want to. You are not standing on ceremony until you are sure the young man's real interest; you are already sure of that.

Dear Mrs. Carr: I am a girl 12 years old and go to school. I am ashamed to talk to anyone, because I stutter. When I talk fast it is the worst; but when I talk slow I stutter too. How can I stop it?

I want to ask you one more thing. My mother cannot sleep at night. She doesn't get sleepy; she always has things on her mind. She has tried many remedies, but nothing helps her. What can she do?

IRENE.

Stuttering is, I know, very uncomfortable and sometimes it is embarrassing; but really those who are listening do not mind as much as you would think. Have you heard about the clinic at the Central Institute for the Deaf?

Perhaps your mother does not get enough fresh air—too busy perhaps to get a good dose. She must eat nourishing food, but not very heavy food at night; then after dinner (or supper) just before she goes to bed go out for a little walk—even if it is only a little one. This will take the troublesome things off her mind, but there is one more thing else, if she likes to read, tell her to read a very short story, not detective or exciting, but about the country in summer or spring. If you have a little piece of ground, together, you can plan, right now, what you are going to plant. And tell her when she goes to bed, not to be afraid she won't sleep; it helps a lot just to say, "Oh, well, I'll rest anyhow, and perhaps tomorrow night I'll sleep."

My Dear Mrs. Carr: I HAVE been married three years and still call my husband's parents "Mr." and "Mrs." It is so hard to call them "Mother" and "Father." For I feel no one could take my parents' place. What would, or should, I do? They are very dear folks. PUZZLED.

This is the feeling of a good many girls and boys, I think. And it is not, I believe necessary to make an issue of it. There are a good many names one uses for father and mother, sometimes "Daddy" or "Dad" or "Mother" and the mother, "Mater," "Mamma," "Mom," "Ma Mere," "Mummy" or "Mutter."

My Dear Mrs. Carr: PERHAPS you remember the story of this family in the paper. Seven children whose father had absconded with them and traveled badly while he had them, were restored to the mother some weeks ago. Apparently the mother is deserving in need of help. She has only three pieces of beds, only one mattress; on another she has to use old coats, dresses and bits of covers. She has nothing at all for the third bed, and all have to sleep on the two small beds. She says she is so stiff all the time she can hardly move.

This family needs bed covering and a heating stove; they have to keep the fire going at night in the cook stove to keep warm. They have three comfortable rooms, but only these beds, the cook stove, two chairs and a small table, with a very few pans and dishes. Z. W.

Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest, but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. ## JOAN CRAWFORD

By H. H. Niemeyer

JOAN CRAWFORD . . . telling it to the judge in her divorce suit.

CHAPTER TWO.

JOAN CRAWFORD'S birthday, her twenty-sixth, comes this month, for she was born March 23, 1908, down in San Antonio, Tex. The family name was Cassin and the baby daughter was called "Billie" by her older brother. The father, Henry Cassin, was in show business operating a chain of small business theaters in Oklahoma and, after "Billie" was born, the family, father, mother, son and daughter went to live in Lawton, in that State.

She grew up in a world of make believe. She played around the theater, was petted by the actors and was taught something about dancing by some of them when she was 5 years old. So you see her dancing around night clubs, her victories in prize contests and things like that later was no sudden impulse to have a good time. She always wanted to dance.

But times were hard for small theatrical companies that season and even harder for Lucille Le Sueur. Two weeks after she joined the troupe it folded up, and the budding actress-dancer was stranded. Fortunately she was not far from Kansas City and she got back there, some way, and back to a job in a department store.

Then she began to save money with a vengeance. She bought no new clothes, nothing at all above her bare living needs and in a few months she had enough to set out again. This time she was determined on New York, the center of the theatrical—and dancing—world, but she was going to take it, in easy jumps by way of Chicago.

She reached that city, the first big town she had ever seen, with $2. A man whom she had talked to on the train offered her a lift in a taxi and deposited her in front of a brownstone house which was just like hundreds of other brownstone houses in the city. It, the particular house Lucille arrived at, was the address of the "prima donna" of the little company she had played with back in Springfield. The actress had told her to come to Chicago any time she felt like it as her guest.

And then the youthful searcher of stage fame bumped into something she had not expected. The prima donna was out of town, out on the road somewhere with another show.

Lucille Le Sueur might have given up then and there and gone back to Kansas City and her old job. But she couldn't. Two dollars wouldn't take her that far.

She had one other name and address, that of Ernie Young, a sort of king among the Chicago producers of floor shows in the big cabarets. St. Louis movie goers will remember some of the rather gorgeous stage shows which Young, branching out, sent down here to play at the old Delmonte Theatre.

SOMEWAY, somehow, Lucille found her way to Young's office. But she found, too, a hundred or more girls, waiting there to see the producer. She had not had anything to eat since early in the morning. The $2, her pile when she arrived in Chicago, what with street car fare and trips in the wrong direction in a strange city and things like that, had dwindled to $1.50. When the afternoon had dragged on without the line of waiting girls getting appreciably shorter, our heroine, in desperation, suddenly took a chance. Brushing aside the other candidates for possible jobs and a protesting office boy, she burst into Young's private office. She meant to demand a job, to show him she could really dance. Instead she broke down and cried. It just happens that the writer knows Ernie Young, or did in the old days. Ernie was a past master at handling temperamental prima donnas and flighty chorus people. He knew how to rule 'em all with an iron hand. But, all the same, he was a kindly soul who had known, himself, what it was to be up against it and he listened to the sobbing young woman with a kindly interest and gave her a job "in the line" in his revue at the Friar's Inn. Then he sent her with a chorus of entertainers to a convention in Oklahoma City and from there to the Circle Terrace in Detroit. Her pay was $25 a week.

She wasn't a native daughter of Chicago and she didn't get along very well with the other girls who were. But she COULD dance and almost before she knew it she was promoted, given an "end" in the chorus line which is the limit of the dreams of all chorus girls without other ambitions.

The promotion brought her luck. One night Jake Shubert—the J. J. Shubert who puts on the Municipal Opera here in St. Louis and who was a partner in the then powerful Shubert enterprises—went to the place for dinner. He was in Detroit for the opening performance of one of the Shubert musical shows, "Innocent Eyes."

Shubert spotted her as a promising dancer and sent for her. The "Innocent Eyes" company was leaving for New York and Broadway the next morning at 2 o'clock. Would Miss Le Sueur care to join the company by way of the chorus?

Would she indeed. It was her big chance. Theatrical etiquette required that she give Ernie Young's company two weeks notice but it was no time to quibble over formalities. She danced her last dance at the Circle Terrace at 1 a. m. An hour later she was on the train bound for Broadway.

In New York it was discovered that Lucille—the Joan Crawford that was to be—didn't know the first thing about the chorus routines. She was classed as a "pony"—the little girls of the show—and put in the very back row of a very large assembly of dancers.

The other girls, more kindly than

Windblown Trend in New Bracelets

Vanity Bags for Spring in Leather and Slick-Looking Fabrics.

By Sylvia

EVERYWHERE you look there is evidence of the wind-blown influence on spring fashions. Hats are worn at a wind-swept angle, suits and coats have a blown-about appearance and scarfs are whipped about the throat. But the extreme indication of this breezy trend is to be found in bracelets. Even they are twisted about as though a tornado had struck them. Composition lends itself to this sweeping theme and you can take your choice of colors.

A barrel is not always associated with strong drink. Sometimes it applies to a money container. Handbags shaped like miniature barrels are high lights of the fashion trend at present. Those of pale yellow silks are unusually chic, especially when the silk is supported by silver metal rims and there are chains to serve as handles.

The vanity bag for spring appears in rough grained leathers, as well as sleek-looking fabrics, including the new toy material. As you doubtless know, this bag gets its name because of the fact that it is designed after the manner of a vanity case. It is very slender and has a metal frame surrounding it. A carved crystal ornament is a stunning decoration on some of these bags, while others prefer a touch of vivid color provided by a composition.

Knitting bags which some folks use for shopping are now available at the notion counters. You can get a variety of types ranging from the inexpensive cotton-covered bag without any trim to the ones that have a hand-made look and boast of more linings. Moorish colors in striped designs are considered quite the thing for knitting bags this spring.

No stitch is sufficiently fancy to make one sweater look different from all the rest, so the designers are resorting to tucks. They take a two-toned knitted slip-on in such color schemes as yellow and green or red and blue and introduce series of tucks. One series adorns the bosom, to give a sunburst effect, and the other adds the originality that is expected of sleeves.

Look closely at an elegant black crepe frock in one of the shops and you will discover that much of its fascination is due to the original treatment of white organza trimmings. The organza is pleated very full to form a bertha collar and also to create a most impressive belt. A brilliant bar pin and a brilliant belt buckle add glamor.

A plaid tafetta collar is gay enough to serve alone as the highlight of a dark costume, but it has a gay companion in the form of a chapeau. The tafetta which features tones of red and blue joins with navy straw for the straight brimmed sailor. Little pleated slits not only give a festive note to the collar, but permit the fabric of the frock to show through.

Every girl will be wanting shirtdresses for spring so that she can

BEAUTY CLINIC

IF YOUR hair is brittle, flies after the comb when you fix it, and your scalp feels dry, then you are in need of a good tonic. Find one especially prepared for dry scalp which has some oil in it to supply the scalp with much-needed sustenance.

Apply this tonic night and morning for a few days. Use a tiny pad of cotton, as this gets the tonic into the scalp and not all over the hair. After the scalp has been thoroughly covered, take the tips of your fingers and massage gently in a rotary manner. Massage until the scalp is in shape and ornamentation. Gloves are following the trend toward cutlinks by having gold ones to replace the customary pearl.

Daisies, carnations and some other posies which a botanical expert couldn't recognize are making a brilliant entry into the costume accessory field. Pique, velvet and patent leather are responsible for their disregard of fabric conventions. Petals are of the pique, centers are of velvet and leaves are of patent leather. Yellow and brown, yellow and white and red and blue are among the interesting colors.

Axioms on Health Hit By Science

Old-Time "Rules" Are All Wrong, Medical Experts Have Found.

OVER a period of generations a host of health axioms have grown up that are about all the layman knows of medicine. Little Johnny steals away one day to the apple orchard and eats green apples. His mother later finds him sitting on the back porch with a "stomach ache." The motto relating cause and effect is that Johnny's grandmother told Johnny's mother of this axiom and Johnny's illness only substantiates the time-worn saying.

Johnny and the apples is only one of many similar "rules" still passed along and even taught in schools that are definitely outdated or unimportant in view of the findings of advanced medical science. This is the belief of Dr. Warren E. Forst, director of the University of Michigan Health Service.

In a recent report he "explodes" the following ideas:

That the evils of poorly ventilated rooms lie in the lack of oxygen and harmful increase in carbon dioxide.

There is never a lack of oxygen nor excess of carbon dioxide. The essential problem of ventilation is one of heat regulation. The flow of heat from the human body determines in part its comfort and health.

Deep breathing exercises. Dizziness or actual faint may follow when these are enforced. Such excessive "washing out" of the carbon dioxide in the blood is useless if not harmful. Breathing should be only in response to body activity.

That washing out the interior by encouraging the drinking of large amounts of water is good for the system. Given a ready supply, normal people will drink what they really need. Related to this is over-emphasis on constipation. Intestinal regularity and laxatives. "The troubles attributed to auto-intoxication are more mythical than real."

"Don't eat between meals." Social custom alone has set the time for eating; between meal "picnicking" need not be harmful if the total quantity and quality of food is sufficient. Related to this is the taboo against combining sour foods and milk; the normal stomach secretions are always more acid than any food.

"Green apples cause stomach ache." These much maligned fruits, and other foods, have been blamed for many stomach aches which were in reality symptoms of appendicitis or some other serious internal trouble.

"Keep clean to be healthy." Bathing and washing are important "for aesthetic and social reasons," but their health virtues are difficult or impossible to prove.

"Take some medicine." Don't unless the doctor gives it, and do not force him to do so if he apparently does not think it necessary. "Stand up straight." Personal appearance and self-respect should dictate a good posture. It is likely that good posture depends on good health and not vice versa.

Standard measurements are level measurements.

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN.

"I was announced yesterday really," said Lulu. "We told a few people, and later on your father came home from Mrs. Hopewell, and he and your Uncle Worthing let everybody know about it."

"They were drinking your health and Wallace's all over the house," chimed in Aunt Edna. "I think they had quite a bit too much Christmas cheer in the egg nog. Quite a bit."

"You just imagine it," said Uncle Worthing. "Well, you put enough into it to make you dance around all afternoon after Jessie Buntz, like a clown!" she said. I noticed her giggling at you, too." In Aunt Edna's eyes Uncle Worthing was a great lover, irresistible to all women.

That afternoon a delivery truck from Hart's store stopped in the snowy street outside the house and the boy came running up to the door with a package for Susan. Inside the cover of the pasted-board box that the green paper wrappings revealed lay Connie Sayre's visiting card, with "Lovingly from Connie" written across it, and under the layers of white tissue paper was a wadded silk breakfast coat of a dim and subtle pink. "It's an engagement present," Lulu cried in rapture. "Oh, but won't it be just the thing to wear when you and Wallace have breakfast in your own hotel room on your honeymoon. . . it's perfect! I've been wishing I could get you one, but I just don't seem to have the money right now."

Susan lifted the coat from the box. "If I'd gone to business school and got a position somewhere as I ought to have done two or three years ago, I could buy my own things now, Lulu." "Oh, well, get a trousseau together for you, somehow or other," said Aunt Edna. "We have almost six months before June, and we're going to start cutting down our household expenses right away. Your uncle and I had a long talk about it yesterday. We've decided to let Anna go after all." Susan's eyes flew open. "Let Anna go?"

Two weeks before Aunt Edna had said that under no circumstances would she discharge Anna. Susan remembered clearly how determined she had been in her decision that there was no need for it. What could have happened since that time to make her change her mind?

"You see, your father has always contributed some thing toward the upkeep of this house, Susan," she began to explain, and holding the breakfast coat against her breast, Susan listened. "There has always been money from the rents and one thing and another, and according to your Grandfather Broderick's will, Lulu and I and your father have divided the income three ways. Well, yesterday your father asked me to send him next month's check in Havana and he borrowed a hundred dollars from him besides. That makes things a little embarrassing all around. You see that, don't you?"

"What do you mean?" asked Susan. "That he didn't leave any money behind to pay my board?" Her aunt nodded. "Then I'll be living here at my expense from now on!" Her aunt jerked her massive head up and down. "Yes—but after this week John's going to pay us $20 a week for your board and his—that is, until your father starts looking after you again. Your Uncle Worthing spoke to John about this morning."

"I can't let John spend his money on me," Susan said slowly, her eyes brows almost meeting in a worried frown above her eyes. . . . John was making very little. Two dollars was more than half of the amount of his salary each week, and Susan felt certain that there was some sort of understanding between him and Connie Sayre. In all probability they intended to be married as soon as John was earning enough to keep up a home of his own. No, she simply could not be a mill stone around John's neck.

"What I've got to do is to get some work to do and make some money of my own," Aunt Edna said. But while she said it the thought ran through her head that she was not trained to do any kind of work that paid a decent salary. She had had two years of music lessons, and she could play a few simple things like the Waldteufel waltzes, but she certainly did not begin to know enough about music to teach it. One summer Aunt Edna had let her take riding lessons at a North Carolina mountain resort, one winter she had had dancing lessons, and when she was 13 she had gone to a certain Mademoiselle de Hamel every Saturday to talk French. She had learned to say grace in French, and that was about the extent of her learning in that graceful language. Those vague accomplishments were all the education she had in addition to what she had received in her 12 years in the public schools.

She could not typewrite, and she knew nothing about even the simplest kind of office work. The only thing, in fact, that she did know and understand was housework—the kind of work that Anna did in the Brodericks' kitchen for $8 a week! A small bitter smile just barely twisted Susan's lips as she realized that she would probably be able to get a position as dishwasher in a restaurant, or

TODAY'S PATTERN

A Little Frock

WHEN people say to you, "What a sweet little girl you have!" it usually means that you've chosen just the right design for her little frock. The little dress in this picture is that kind. It brings out all the baby charm in the little girl by its simplicity of line, and especially the little fluttery ruffle accent over the shoulders. It's adorable made of a printed cotton, dotted with pink, blue, and red—whatever color brings out the best in her hair, eyes and skin. Buttons should be of a gaily contrasting color.

Pattern 1789 is available in sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 4 takes 2 1/4 yards 36-inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

Where There's a Wall There's A Way to Change Its Looks

By Josephine Walter

THERE is an indefinable charm about wood paneled walls which appeals to most of us. But usually they are passed up with a sigh as totally unobtainable for a rented apartment or house and as too expensive for the average home owner.

Today, however, in decorating the motto seems to be "where there's a will there's a way" and this applies as well to wood paneling effects as to many other architectural features. In fact, there are many methods, whereby one may obtain the quiet dignity of a wood paneled room at very much less cost than the prohibitive sum of solid wood paneling. The various methods, of course, have varying degrees of costliness, but a method can be found to fit practically any pocket and any manner of residential and decorative penance.

The most expensive substitutes are the plywood panelings and the wood veneers, but they are, of course, also the most permanent and the most authentic for they are actually made of wood. Next come the wall papers printed to resemble wood paneling in pine, walnut or other popular woods. They give an exceedingly realistic effect, especially when combined with actual wood moldings finished in the same effects, and cost very little more than the average good wallpaper.

Finally, there is the plain painted wall, glazed to resemble wood, and extremely effective as well as inexpensive. This glazing is done over any plain plaster wall which may range in color from plain white to a very deep cream or ecru tone. The glaze is made by mixing a wood stain, usually walnut or pine, with a plain oil base, and is then applied to the wall in areas about three feet square. After being allowed to "set" for a few moments is wiped off with a rag or dry brush. The paint should be mixed and tinted on a small area of the wall until the correct effect is obtained. It is readily seen that this method requires very little more work or expense than simply painting the room and the finished effect is well worth the effort.

Q. I had selected what I thought was a wall paper for my bedroom, but it loses all effect when put up because of the number of doors in the room. Could you give me some suggestions whereby I might include these doors in the decorative scheme?

A. Doors are always a problem in any decorative scheme and they are particularly disturbing if they are in dark wood. If this is the case, the simplest solution is to paint the doors the ground color of the wallpaper and then stripe the moldings in the tone of the pattern. One very effective method of making the doors decorative is to select a plain paper set off by an interesting wallpaper border and, after painting the doors the color of the paper, apply the border around the outer edge of the door. Finally, the entire door might be covered with beaver or plaster board to supply a smooth surface and then papered just like the wall so that the door is virtually concealed in the wall.

Q. I have two bare wall spaces in my hallway which seem to call for a pair of matching consoles, but most of the ones I have seen are much too expensive. Could you suggest what I might use here that would be very inexpensive?

A. Have you, by any chance, one of those old round tables which were in vogue about 25 years ago? If not, I'm sure you could pick one up in some antique or second-hand store for very little. By cutting such a table in two and refinishing it in old white, you may obtain a very effective pair of console tables. Another very inexpensive way to obtain this effect would be to get a piece of marble in a junk yard and have it cut in two equal pieces, or wood, marbled, might be substituted. This shelf can be let into the wall and supported by brackets placed underneath so they will not show and the effect of legs might be very simply obtained by painting supports on the wall. These consoles might be made even more effective by placing a row of flower pots on them.

All Alike

A wise bride will make her curtains alike all over the apartment or small house. Then when she moves into larger quarters the curtains can be changed around without having "odd" curtains on hand. Besides, a small home will look more attractive if curtains are the same throughout.

Shorter Fingernails

Keep the youngsters' fingernails short. Then if he should not always get them as clean as mother would like them, they do not show up so glaringly. Short nails are more of an incentive to him to keep in order as they are much easier to keep clean.

Modern Home Is Dormitory, Not Sanctuary

By the Rev. Joseph Fort Newton

OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES wrote a wise and witty book, called "The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table." It is just good talk written down in a spirit of comradeship, chummy, chatty, charming.

But today, if such a gentle sovereign tried to rule, he would be a king without a realm. If he had time to talk there would be few, if any, to listen. His family would not be up. Or they would come straggling in one by one, yawning and snappy of temper.

No one talks much at breakfast any more. We snatch our coffee and toast on our way to catch a train, which catapults us into the rush and work of the day, head down in a hurry. At night we dash back to spend the evening "doing something," as we say, which usually means going to a party or the pictures, to fill the empty hours.

The result is disruptive, and the unity of the home is broken. Each member of the family claims the right to live his or her own life. Each lives in his own world, lured by his own interests. It is seldom they are united except at a wedding or a funeral.

It is a stage, a phase due to new conditions of life, but it is attended by pain, suffering, and danger. If we let the home go, everything goes. We must put our house in order, if we are to have order in the city. We must reconstruct the home! It is the foundation of society, its sanctuary, its haven, its hope.

Child Still Needs Guidance Though Allowed Freedom

By Mrs. Brooke P. Church

TO give a child freedom and independence does not mean to stop loving him and doing for him as far as possible. It simply means taking hands off and withdrawing from interference, but being ready with advice and help when and if they are sought.

For more and more as a child grows into his teens, guidance may be restricted to help or even mere comfort and encouragement.

It is impossible for parents to be always about. Unless they can trust their children and have won their confidence, they will find that their orders will not be obeyed nor their warnings heeded when they are not present.

There is no use in telling a child in the middle teens what he may or may not do. Unless the child's experience and reason agree with the orders given, he will make his own experiments.

When the child confesses to his secret misdeeds it is not the time to scold or even to say, "I told you so!" The chances are that he has had his punishment which will itself be the best deterrent for the future.

The very fact that for some reason, best known to himself, he has been led to confide in his parents, is itself a pretty good assurance for the future.

In such a contingency he probably needs affection, sympathy, encouragement. If he receives these the chances are that he will turn to his parents again, that he may even respect their advice on some future occasion.

If he is met by harshness and severity he will, on the other hand, avoid further contact with his parents as far as possible.

EASTMAN FOR FEDERAL BARGE AND BUS CONTROL

Would Put Both Under I. C. C. to Save Railways—Warns Congress Struggle for Traffic Threatens 'Chaos' in Transportation

CO-ORDINATION IS ESSENTIAL, HE SAYS

Commission Approves All His Proposals Except That to Relax Long and Short Haul Clause—Bills Presented.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 10.—Federal Railroad Co-ordinator Joseph B. Eastman today warned Congress of a "threatening chaos" in the transportation system and urged that it be averted by placing complete control of water, motor truck and bus transportation under the Interstate Commerce Commission.

He suggested that power be given the Interstate Commerce Commission to:

Regulate motor truck and water transportation.

Fix minimum as well as maximum rates for joint railroad-water transportation.

Establish through railroad routes where necessary, regardless of whether any line would be "short-hauled."

Include ports and gateways in the protection against undue preference and prejudice.

Restore the long and short haul law to its pre-1920 status on the basis of Supreme Court decisions.

Reduce the right to claim reparations for overcharges to one year and other claims to 90 days.

Second Report in Series
The report by Federal Co-ordinator of Transportation was the second in a series he will make to President Roosevelt and Congress.

In it he answered with an emphatic "yes" these two questions:

"Is there need for Federal legislation to regulate other (than rail) transportation agencies and to promote proper co-ordination of all means of transport?"

"Is there need for amendment of the Federal statutes to improve details of the present system of regulating the railroads?"

Eastman's first report outlined tentative plan for government operation of the railroads, and another for enforced consolidation, but said the time was not yet ripe for either.

Reports on air transportation and labor situations are in progress and will be delivered shortly.

Today he recommended, in addition to an expanded control by the Interstate Commerce Commission:

Minimum as well as maximum joint rates; relaxing the long and short haul clause of the Interstate Commerce Act; and shortening periods of limitation with respect to claims against carriers.

Struggle for Traffic
Eastman pointed out the vast pouring of capital into transportation facilities other than rail since 1920. He added: "The natural result has been a bitter struggle for traffic, not only between the various forms of transportation, but within each subdivision or group."

This struggle has been intensified by the depression.

"This situation, which has been continually growing more acute, not only imperils the financial stability of the national transportation system, but it threatens the wages of working conditions of labor, and it creates a demoralization in and charges which in the long run is a menace to commerce and industry."

The object of handling such keeping control to the Interstate Commerce Commission, he said, was not only the protection of the railroads, but also "the proper protection of every form of transportation."

Each can do certain things better than the other, he said, adding: "It is too much to expect that all the present facilities of transportation in each group can survive, for there are many which are without economic justification, and out of the present confusion waste, a sound and well-coordinated national system of transportation can be built."

The agency to achieve this reorganization is believed to be the Interstate Commerce Commission.
